Another War?
48 Liquor Varieties.
One Church Not Enough.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

PRESS REPORTS say Russia "is concentrating 80,000 picked soldiers along the Siberian-Manchurian border," suspecting that Japan plans to seize control of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

Russia offered to sell her interest, for two hundred millions gold. Japan, through Manchukuo's pseudo-government, offered twenty-five millions.

If trouble comes between Japan and Russia, this country presumably will keep out except for a brotherly interest, and selling goods.

YOU READ that the Russian army is "equipped with tanks, both large and small, scout and bombing planes, heavy and light artillery and CHEMICAL WEAPONS."

"Chemical weapons" means poison gas. Another Japanese-Russian war would be different from the other war, with the Romanoffs in charge of Russia. The Japanese, intelligent, know that.

FORTY-EIGHT states will handle "drinks" in forty-eight ways. In spite of repeal, 28 states are still locally dry, but not very dry, thanks to bootleggers.

In some states you must eat if you want to drink, or at least pretend to eat and pay for food.

In Reno where "men are men," and ladies are set free, the old saloon will be wide open.

Some states will let any store sell liquor by the bottle, some will forbid chain stores to sell it. Liquor and politics are re-establishing old partnerships.

SOME STATES used to hang horse thieves, some states hang nobody, some have recently decided to hang kidnapers. The many experiments will increase wisdom, presumably.

States, absolutely dry, will have a practical monopoly of bootlegging, they will not like that.

RELIGIOUS QUESTIONS continue to agitate Germany. Baron Von Schirach, leader in the Hitler youth movement, would have one single church "neither Protestant nor Catholic" for all Germany.

That might in the end lead to having NO church in all Germany. "Competition is the life of trade" in religion as in other things.

"The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church."

You can't have martyrs, if you only have one church, nor the highest religious enthusiasm unless the enthusiast believes that his religion is better than some other.

TOBACCO GROWERS and manufacturers note a sharp decline in "chewing tobacco" use and output. The Ways and Means Committee is told that tobacco chewers, more numerous now than twenty years ago, lack the energy of old-fashioned Americans that aroused Charles Dickens' interest.

THE LAST direct link with Charles Dickens was broken yesterday.

Sir Henry Dickens, son of the great genius Charles Dickens, whom modern snobs belittled, because he had too few duchesses in his stories, died in London at the age of 85.

He was the last of Dickens' six sons, the only surviving child. His sister died four years ago.

DR. KNUD RASMUSSEN, only 50, is dead in Copenhagen, from food poisoning, contracted on his last expedition to Greenland.

Deeply interested in the Eskimo race, which his ancestors on his mother's side belonged, Rasmussen studied all Eskimo tribes in reach, believed they were all Indians, originally, and had wandered and been driven into cold regions. That interests those who believe that man is a product of his surroundings.

WILL ROGERS, awe-stricken, learns that Mussolini "interviewed 92 mothers with a gross total of 1,288 children, which divides out to about fourteen head" per mother.

Such admirable mass production would be found with difficulty outside of Italy, Poland, certain parts of Russia.

First question is how long does the average mother of fourteen live and what is the condition of her health at fifty?

Second, how many of the numerous children reach maturity?

It is true that Caruso was a nineteenth child, and the great Marconi almost as high up in his family tree.

On the other hand Alexander the Great was the only child of his mother Olympias.

PROF. BONBRIGHT, of Columbia University, says only revolutionary changes in operation can save utilities companies, power, gas, etc., from passing into public ownership. That prediction has been made for years, but predictors do not recognize the full resourcefulness of utilities companies, or the obliging nature of politicians.

Industrial, financial and corporation feudalism which replaces the old military feudal system will not succumb so easily, or crumple up at the feet of one depression.

There is greater danger for power companies, as Mr. Milton A. Kent wisely suggests, in the economic Diesel engine electric plant than in all activities of indifferent voters.

Local Diesel plants in future may worry public utilities as motor trucks and omnibuses now worry railroads.

GIRL ASLEEP TWO YEARS ROUSES

Recognizes Her Friend By Sight, Hearing Begins to Return

OAK PARK, Ill., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Members of the family of Miss Patricia Maguire, who has been asleep nearly two years, said today there were indications that "for a fraction of a second she recognized a friend" who stood at her bedside last night.

It was the first such indication, said her mother, Mrs. Peter Miley, that Patricia had shown since she lapsed into unconsciousness February 15, 1932.

In the living room near the mother's chair was a "hyperpyrexator" machine in which Patricia is placed twice a week and her temperature increased, by means of electricity, to 102 degrees.

For the first time, Mrs. Miley said, Patricia's reflexes were normal. Until a few weeks ago she had none, her condition being practically inanimate.

Also, Mrs. Miley said, her sense of hearing had started to function. Any loud noise near the bed disturbs her.

Mrs. Miley was elated as she told how Patricia stared intently at the friend. She blinked one eye, the mother said, and physicians said the 28-year-old woman may have been bothered with double vision and was seeking to make her sight more clear by blinking.

Part of the care given her has been to have a dentist come in periodically to examine and clean her teeth.

And yesterday when he was there, "Pat put up quite a battle," Mrs. Miley said. A barber gave her a haircut.

VOTE CHARGES PRESSED

District Attorney Andrew T. Park today ordered the first county election prosecution growing out of last November's balloting with informations made against the election board of the First District of West Homestead.

County Detective David Drexler, ballot expert, made information before Alderman Thomas M. Geary, charging he found more ballots in the district's box than there were persons who voted. He also revealed that he is probing ballot boxes in three other districts in the county.

Members of the accused election board are Andrew Foulds, judge, 210 West Hays way; Anna Guthrie, inspector, 230 West Ninth avenue; William A. Steimer, inspector, and his wife, Pearl Steimer, clerk, of 316 Cherry street, and Maud Richard, clerk, 1004 Neal street.

Bonds were set at $1,000 each for a hearing December 27.

State's First Lady Ignores Battle Over Revenge

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—The joint legislative committee to investigate the Highway Department, in a short and pungent session yesterday afternoon after the Legislature adjourned, apparently developed this situation:

Frank G. Chapman, brother of Senator Leroy Chapman, of Warren County, apparently got a position as assistant superintendent of highways because his brother was for the Pinchot administration in 1930.

He lost his job Wednesday because his brother turned to the Republican organization in voting against the confirmation of P. S. Stahlnecker, a Pinchot appointee to the Public Service Commission.

It was a case of "easy come, easy go," the Senator's brother be-

TAX-FREE HOMES AIM OF M'NAIR

Urges Exemption for 10 Years After Talk With Al Smith

WALTER CHAMBERS
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—An ordinance providing tax exemption for 10 years on one-family houses up to $5,000 will be introduced in City Council as soon as William N. McNair becomes Mayor, he said here today as he boarded a train for Philadelphia, en route home.

McNair's statement was made after he had spent an hour with Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York, who in 1921 promulgated similar legislation here.

McNair said:

"Whether that ordinance passes is up to William A. Magee.

"If the small home-owners do not get relief in January they can blame Magee.

"He is the man who was given the Democratic nomination after he promised to support my Democratic measures.

"What he has done is not to wait even until he is sworn into office to attack every part of my program for tax relief, 5-cent fares and bus fares."

SMITH SUGGESTION

Magee's opposition will not definitely kill hope of aid to working men who want to own their own homes in Pittsburgh, McNair said. He recounted this conversation with Gov. Smith.

"What would you suggest, Governor, if I am unable to get

DANCER AND DOG ROUT PROWLER

When Mrs. Betty Mathias, a dancing teacher, peered through a window of her bedroom last night, she saw a man, a revolver in his hand, standing on the porch of her home at 2219 Lutz avenue, Carrick.

She awakened her sister, her brother-in-law and her father.

Pretty soon Topsy, a water spaniel, began barking.

The would-be intruder took to his heels. The police believe he knew that Mrs. Mathias last night was keeping a sizeable sum of money in the house.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Little Mary Chase, 3, skipped happily away from home last night with two pennies to buy candy at the neighborhood store. Hit by an automobile, she died today.

The two pennies were in Mary's hand when she was carried to the hospital.

M'NAIR AIDE ASKS HIGHER WATER RATE

Wards in South Hills Hit by Economy Proposal

Cancellation of the South Pittsburgh Water Company contract and reductions in the payroll of the Bureau of Water and the Board of Water Assessors were urged on Council today by Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, representing the McNair administration.

Among 19 salaried jobs which Mrs. Smith proposed to eliminate are those of two members of the Board of Water Assessors, including Lon Mackintosh, Republican chairman of the Thirtieth Ward.

Mrs. Smith proposes to let residents of the South Hills wards of the city pay their own water bills to the South Pittsburgh Water Company at regular company rates, which represent an increase of more than one-third over city rates.

$300,000 LOSS

Mrs. Smith declared the city is losing at the rate of $300,000 a year through the water contract. Her report stated:

"Even if the contract is within the power of the city, it is our opinion that the taxpayers of the city generally should not be burdened with an annual charge of $300,000 for the purpose of supplying residents of certain sections of the city with water at rates lower than rates paid by consumers outside the city limits."

At present the city pays for all water purchased from the South Pittsburgh Water Company in the South Hills territory at company rates and bills the consumer at city rates.

URGES DISMISSALS

In the Board of Water Assessors, Mrs. Smith urges that James W. Gray, chairman, be retained, but that two other members of the board at $3,600 a year each be eliminated. They are Mackintosh and John A. Collins.

In addition she recommends that six clerks be removed in the Board of Water Assessors, and 11 clerks, engineers and repairmen be eliminated in the Bureau of Water.

Pointing out that under flat rates the city gets 9.8 cents per 1,000 gallons and under meter rates 18 cents, Mrs. Smith says the city should supply all water through meters.

At present the budget is slightly more than two million out of balance, figuring the tax rate as set by Council, and 75 per cent tax collections for next year.

New 'Mata Hari' Linked In French Spy Expose

MRS. ROBERT GORDON SWITZ . . ARRESTED WITH HUSBAND

Mrs. Switz, the former Miss Marjorie Tilley, of New York, seized by Parisian police with her husband, also an American, and four other men and four women. They were jailed as international spies, charged with the possession of military documents and photographs. These are International News Photograph Service pictures.

U. S. COUPLE DENIES GUILT

By WILLIAM PARKER
International News Service.

PARIS, Dec. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, youthful American couple accused in the big international spy plot uncovered by the French police, today began mapping their defense.

Charles Moyse, Paris lawyer the couple selected to defend them, was scheduled to visit them at Sante Prison and go over their cases. Both have told Moyse they are innocent.

Meanwhile, as all France watched developments in the investigation of the espionage ring, some observers held that the entire spy roundup was "staged" by certain French political factions for its political effect.

Another interesting aspect was the assertion of police that the plot has ramifications in practically every large country in the world, and that it has been definitely linked with such well known recent spy cases as that uncovered in Finland and that of Lieut. Norman Baille-Stewart, young British officer now ailed in England for turning over valuable British army documents to one "Mary Louise."

This very "Mary Louise," in fact, the police assert to have been in the employ of Mme. Lydia Stahl, "Mata Hari" of the present case.

Mme. Stahl, furthermore, is accused of having engaged in spy activities in Washington and other American countries, as well as in many other countries.

PRICES SOAR ONE TO 10 POINTS

Roosevelt's Order Takes Market by Surprise

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Speculative markets soared today in response to President Roosevelt's silver program.

Stocks, led by the metals, jumped $1 to $10 a share. Silver futures in excited trading climbed 2 to 3 cents an ounce, the latter figure being the limit of gain allowed for a trading day. Cotton jumped $1 a bale.

The stock market, shaking off its recent sluggish decline as the President's ratification of the London silver agreement caught traders by surprise, boiled vigorously. Many of the opening blocks embraced 1,000 to 12,000 shares as floor traders lumped the buying orders which had poured into the exchange before the opening gong rang.

LARGE TRANSACTION

The largest transaction was 12,000 shares of American Smelting and Refining Company, which sold at $45 a share, up $5.12. United States Smelting, Refining and Mining, a favorite this year, rose $10 a share to $99 on an initial block of 5,000 shares. Many other stocks advanced $1 to $4.

Foreign exchanges reversed their recent trend. Sterling, which had been working quietly lower, rose approximately 3 cents to above $5.10, and French francs improved about .04 cent to above 6.10 cents.

The Treasury's daily gold price remained unchanged at $34.06 an

FAIR WEATHER GREETS WINTER

By the space of two seconds, today was the shortest day of 1933. Experts at Allegheny Observatory figured it out with respect to the Pittsburgh district.

Nine hours and 13 minutes intervened between sunrise and sunset.

Winter arrived at 1:58 a. m., the Weather Bureau announced. At that moment the sun, having reached its farthest point south, began its return trip north.

Fair skies and moderate temperature greeted the arrival of the winter season.

Observer W. S. Brotzman said there wasn't any cold wave in sight and that normal winter weather likely would prevail for the next day or two.

He declined to make a long range Christmas weather forecast.

Rum Stores Pay More Than Schools

How Do Legislators Get That Way? Educator Asks

MIDLAND, Pa., Dec. 22.—Frank D. Rohmer, president of the Pennsylvania Vocational Association, today came up out of a study of relativity—the relativity of teachers' salaries to those of state rum stors jobs—with this pronouncement:

"There's something screwy somewhere on Capitol Hill."

Dispensers of education of high school level, said he, may be paid the "magnificent" salary of $900 per year to start, and after long years of faithful service, can work up to $1,440 a year.

From the standpoint of remuneration, the school teacher starts all even with the rum store janitor. The janitor also gets $900.

Prof. Rohmer, who is director of the vocational department in the Lincoln High School, said he thought that perhaps the reason for the differential was that those absorbing rum store products get a bigger kick out of the goods offered than those absorbing the experiences dispensed by the schools. Pursuing that logic, he added:

"I am sure there must be some tangible reason since Harrisburg is charged with the responsibility of both activities. Or maybe a truck driver gets $1,600 because he can figure the area of a 60x30 roof, and a hootch wrapper gets $2,000 because he passed the requirements for a second-story worker in determining lengths of ladders to reach certain heights from given distances."

Thereupon, Prof. Rohmer posed the problem:

"Find how salaries are determined for the rum store jobs."

He hastened to explain he did not imply that liquor store workers are overpaid; it is only, he said, that the salaries of both the rum dispensers and teachers were determined in Harrisburg. He declared:

"From the looks of things, our legislators and public administrative officials are more concerned with the current 'rum-fare' of its citizens than about their future welfare."

Finally, Prof. Rohmer asked:

"With state rum store profits and other state taxing resources still untapped, why cannot the state aid the local district more generously than it does at present?

"This would put the teacher at least on a financial level, if not socially or professionally, with the purveyors of booze in the rum stores and grog shops of a great and dignified commonwealth."

Roosevelt Plays Santa To White House Family

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Christmas spirit took possession of the White House today as President Roosevelt passed out the first of his gifts and arranged to open personally an unusual amount of presents pouring in for himself.

Books with his greetings written on the flyleaf were stacked up by the happy President to be handed to the members of the White House clerical staff.

On Sunday the White House policemen and chauffeurs and their families will be greeted by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt in the White House and later the servants and their families will be received.

This is the first time there has been such a reception in the White House in the memory of attaches. Presents will be given the children.

In the White House executive offices three men are working day and night opening letters and packages arriving at the rate of 2,000 a day.

The President's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, Sr.; his daughter, Mrs. Anna Curtis Rail, and her children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie," and the two Roosevelt boys, Franklin, Jr., and John, will be at the White House for Christmas.

On Christmas Eve the President will light a community Christmas tree in a park near the White House and at that time he will send his Christmas greetings to the nation in a brief message over the air.

CONGRESS COMMITTEE AGREES ON WHISKY LEVY OF $2

DRYS, HIGH TAX ADVOCATES VICTORS

Sharing Revenue With States Abandoned In House

By WM. S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Taxes estimated by committee experts to yield 47 million dollars a year on liquor, beer and wine were tentatively approved today by the House Ways and Means committee.

By the vote of 13 Democrats, with nine Republicans voting present, the committee agreed upon a tax of $2 a gallon on whisky and other spirits.

The committee voted to apply the present $5 a barrel tax on 3.2 per cent beer to all beer. Under existing law beer containing more than 3.2 per cent is taxed $6 a barrel.

Wine taxes were fixed as follows:

Still wines, not over 14 per cent alcohol by volume, 10 cents a gallon; 14 to 21 per cent alcohol, 20 cents a gallon; 21 to 24 per cent alcohol, 40 cents a gallon, above 24 per cent $2 gallon; artificial carbonated sparkling wines, 40 cents a gallon; champagne and other sparkling wines, 80 cents a gallon.

TARIFF TO STAND

The committee has yet to adopt a tariff policy but Chairman Doughton (Dem.), of North Carolina, said that no change is expected to be made.

The committee relied upon the estimate of L. H. Parker, chief of staff of the joint congressional tax committee, which indicated a greater consumption than estimated by Treasury experts. Parker estimated consumption of 150 million gallons of liquor the first year, yielding 300 million dollars in taxes; a continuation of the present yield on beer taxes of 160 million dollars a year and 110 million dollars on wine.

The tariff on liquor and licenses may increase the estimated federal tax on liquor of all kinds to more than 600 million dollars during the first year after repeal.

VICTORY FOR DRYS

The $2 a gallon tax on liquor was a victory for the committee drys and advocates of high taxes on liquor.

Four wets on the committee, who had previously announced that they would fight to the end to keep the liquor tax around $1.50 a gallon, yielded so that a straight party vote could be cast.

Chairman Doughton held the proxies of Representatives Cullen and Sullivan, New York Democrats; McCormack, (Dem.), of Massachusetts; McClintic, (Dem.), of Oklahoma; Boehne (Dem.), of Indiana and Vinson (Dem.), of Kentucky.

Asked whether the administration requested the $2 whisky tax, Doughton said:

"It was not requested by the administration but worked out by the committee. It is a tentative rate."

The committee abandoned the proposal of the President's interdepartmental committee to share the liquor tax with states which gave up their own excise taxes because of demands of dry states for share, Doughton said.

ROOSEVELT AGREED

He said the President interposed no objection to dropping the plan. Doughton said:

"We probably will do nothing about the tariff for the present. It appears that the full quotas will be taken up without modifying the present rate and we will get a good deal of money."

The tariff of $5 a gallon now is being paid upon imported liquors.

The proposal to give the President specific authority to negotiate tariff liquor treaties may await enactment of a general tariff reciprocity plan by Congress.

Representative Treadway (Rep.), of Massachusetts, announced that Republican members of the committee refused to vote on the liquor tax because the Democrats made the tax a party matter and because the Republicans "were not informed as to the needs of the Treasury or the expected receipts from the liquor tax."

HAVANA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Students assembled before the Presidential Palace today in a demonstration against President Ramon Grau San Martin and his chief of staff of the army, Col. Fulgencio Batista.

They were encircled by Batista's "Pro Ley y Justicia"—for law and justice—organization, which endeavored to prevent disorders but four members of the Batista force were disarmed by the students.

Street cars were prevented from operating through the crowd by demonstrators who lay on their backs on the tracks and shouted accusations of "Assassins! Bandits!" at the Batista followers.

Ohio Senate Votes Emergency Rum Bill

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Senate early today adopted a liquor control bill providing for a state monopoly and sales of spirits by the glass in hotels, clubs, restaurants and on watercraft. The measure carries an emergency clause.

The House will meet today to pass upon the revised measure.

City and County Leading State in Rum Licenses

Top Number Issued And Refused by Board

Pittsburgh and Allegheny County today added to the laurels they have acquired since repeal.

This city and county not only have obtained more liquor licenses than any other county in the Commonwealth, but today, after a tough session with the Board of Liquor Control in Harrisburg, it became apparent that more applicants have also been refused in this district.

Throughout the state 398 have been turned down. Almost 100 of these, it is estimated, are from Allegheny County. Today's refusals included the Lotus Club.

SITES OPTIONED

The board announced that options on liquor store sites had been taken out at 105 South Richard street, Bedford; 124 West Crawford avenue, Connellsville; 420 Chartiers avenue, Carnegie. Plans to open a store in Sharon have been abandoned tentatively.

Rejected applicants for liquor licenses included:

Samuel Costa, Riverside Restaurant, Dunn's Restaurant, Peter Srsic, Bedford Restaurant, Lindy Club, Inc., Athenian Republican Club, Obegyi Restaurant, Rade Stojanovich, Frank the Barber's Restaurant and Ludwig Slaboszewski, all of Pittsburgh.

Other applications turned down here were Olympic Athletic Club, Bellefield Club, Hazelwood Library Association, Lorigan Tavern, Yank's Luncheonette, Lovas Waskelinnas and Lotus Club.

REJECTIONS NEARBY

Other rejections included Lafayette Hotel, Sharpsburg; Atwood Hotel, West Brownsville; A. M. Finnin, Kittanning; Johnnie's Place, C. M. Taylor and Sossong's Restaurant, Carnegie; Hilltop Restaurant and Beer Garden, Coraopolis; Sulkowski Restaurant, Canonsburg; Rocco's Restaurant, Ellwood City; Roosevelt Tavern Inn, Irwin; Azar Confectionery, Uniontown; Farrell Resaurant, Farrell; Warsaw Restaurant, Wilmerding; Pinea's Restaurant, Rural Valley; Deramo's Restaurant, Midland, and Linden Cafe and Krakker's Grill, East Pittsburgh.

Charles Tomichek, Etna; Louis Passarello, Bethel Township (Library); William Hartwig, Scott Township (Carnegie); Eva Yedinak, Wall; Long Run Barbecue, McKeesport, and Arnold Citizens' Beneficial Society, Arnold, also were refused.

CHRISTMAS PAY GIVES BUYERS 22 MILLIONS

Flow of Yuletide Cash $3,775,00 More Than Last Year

Christmas shoppers jamming stores throughout Western Pennsylvania are distributing a Christmas payroll providing approximately a 22-million-dollar purchasing power.

Cash demand on the Pittsburgh Branch, Federal Reserve Bank, was announced today at $21,237,000 from December 1 to and including yesterday. This was an increase of $3,755,000 over the same period last year. Industrial leaders consider the cash demand equivalent to the money needed in meeting payrolls.

Steel mills and industrial plants are estimated to be distributing Christmas payrolls of 10 million dollars. A total of $4,399,605 was being paid by 19 major steel mills and industrial plants in the Pittsburgh district. Many of the plants reported paydays were advanced from next week to provide extra holiday money for workers.

Railroads of the district have distributed approximately one and a half million dollars. The Pennsy announced its Christmas payroll for Western Pennsylvania was approximately a million dollars.

The total payroll of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for December reached $1,250,000.

Stores report the last minute rush in Christmas shopping is greatly increasing the purchasing power already developed during the early part of the month and which meant gains from 20 to 34 per cent in the tri-state district.

INSULL GUILTY JUDGE RULES

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Federal Judge Evan A. Evans held today that Samuel Insull, Sr., and his bankers were guilty of collusion in bringing about the receivership of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., his 238 million dollar investment house.

The court sustained the charges brought by Samuel A. Ettelson, an attorney, and refused to pay any additional fees to Calvin Fentress, former receiver and bankruptcy trustee, and to the receiver's attorneys.

Judge Evans described the Insull investment trust as it operated in 1929 as "nothing but a glorified gambling institution" with little justification for legal existence.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson announced today that he is going to "fish the aluminum code" out of the NRA division where it has been lying for weeks because of the Mellon-controlled Aluminum Company of America's refusal to accept a code containing any fair practice provisions.

Johnson said:

"I am going to get that code up here and do something about it. We're getting down to the clinkers in the furnace now and that is one clinker I am going to take care of."

UNUSUAL PROBLEM

Johnson is faced with an unusual predicament in the aluminus code. The Mellon-controlled company has a complete monopoly of the production of virgin aluminum in this country and fabricates more of the metal than all the independent fabricators combined.

Under the recovery act the administrator is directed to accept a code only when it is approved by the majority of producers in any industry.

Independent fabricators, at the public hearing on the code, demonstrated that the Aluminum Company of America controls all the production of the metal and virtually controls world prices. It was further charged that the Mellon-owned company sells the unworked metal to its subsidiary fabricating companies at prices below those paid by independents.

BARRIERS CITED

Although the recovery act forbids the administration from writing a code that will lead to "monopolistic practices or monopoly," Johnson is forbidden by the same law to accept a code proposed by a monopoly.

Under the recovery act the President can impose a code upon an industry but cannot include fair practice provisions, as these must originate in the majority of the industry. Johnson admits he does not know himself how he is going to solve this difficult problem.

Jury Gets Suit Against Aluminum Company

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The nine million dollar suit of the Baush Machine Tool Company, of Springfield and Chicopee, Mass., against the Aluminum Company of America, went to the jury today.

The Baush Company charges that it suffered severe losses as a result of a monopoly allegedly exercised by the Aluminum Company.

During the trial, now in its twelfth week, testimony was introduced to the effect that the Aluminum Company exercised its alleged monopoly through control of 30 domestic and foreign subsidiaries.

The Massachusetts firm also charged that the Aluminum Company restricted trade in the industry in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law by controlling the supply of aluminum and its price.

Oil City's Council To Cut Tax 4 Mills

OIL CITY, Pa., Dec., 22.—(INS.)—Announcement of a four mill slash in this city's tax rate was expected to be made today as the Christmas present to taxpayers. The millage will be dropped from 18 to 14 mills.

This reduction is the largest ever made in local taxes and is probably the biggest made by any city in the state this year.

MINE STRIKES LOOM JAN. 1

While action on a proposed strike call at mines in Fayette County was deferred until January 1, union leaders in Central Pennsylvania today threatened to call a strike on that date in their field.

At the Fayette mines of the H. C. Frick Coke Company, union members received a message from Chairman Robert F. Wagner, of the National Labor Board, informing them a dispute with the company was receiving the board's consideration.

Meeting yesterday, the miners decided to wait until January 1 before taking any action on a proposed strike call. They threatened to strike after Martin F. Ryan, insurgent leader, was removed as checkweighman at a Frick mine.

The United Mine Workers of America in Central Pennsylvania demanded a new election by the collective bargaining organization of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation.

An Associated Press dispatch said the Central Pennsylvania miners were informed their complaint will be taken up by the Labor Board at a special meeting next Wednesday.

Three Escape Fire By Two-Story Leap

GETTYSBURG, Dec., 22.—(AP.)—Three persons escaped, as fire destroyed their New Oxford home today, by leaping from a second-story window.

The fire started as Charles Potter slipped while carrying a lighted oil lantern. He awakened his wife and his sister-in-law.

27,000 DRIVERS BEGIN STRIKE IN PHILA.

Christmas Delivery Services Threatened By Labor Fight

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A general strike of delivery and transportation workers gripped Philadelphia today, threatening to seriously cripple Christmas deliveries in many lines of business.

Leaders of nine allied unions who called the strike last night said the order took 27,000 men from work immediately.

Unions participating in the strike vote were those of bakery drivers, piano movers, milk drivers, cleaners and dyers, railway express drivers, Brotherhood of Transportation Workers, Teamsters and Taxi Drivers.

Immediately after the call was issued, men began picketing car barns in efforts to influence trolley men to join the strike.

Outgrowth of a dispute between the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company, operator of the city's two largest taxicab companies, and its drivers, the strike was called in the face of a strong plea from Dr. William M. Leiserson, executive secretary of the National Labor Board, who asked the men not to "ruin" their cause by such drastic action.

Recently the National Labor Board ruled that the month-old taxi strike be called off and the taxi drivers agreed, contingent upon acceptance of the proposal by the company. After a delay, the company said it would take back strikers "as fast as circumstances will permit," drew the line at those who "have had part in violence" and refused to release new men to make places for the strikers.

Philadelphia's largest police mobilization in years was ready for any violence which might meet the attempt of the merchants and trucking concerns to deliver food, fuel and Christmas gifts. Police said 4,400 officers were on the streets or held at station houses in reserve.

Only two untoward incidents were reported in connection with the strike last night. One was the explosion of a dynamite cap on trolley tracks at a mid-city street intersection, and the other was the tossing of small ball-bearings at policemen by men standing near the taxi drivers' headquarters.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST FORD

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Henry Ford's battle with the NRA moved another step nearer a final solution today when it was learned that briefs and affidavits charging the Detroit auto manufacturer with specific violations of the automobile code had been filed with Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson by the American Federation of Labor.

Behind the charges are seen concerted efforts by the government and the Federation of Labor to exclude Ford and his products from further benefits of federal contract awards. Ford won his first battle and was given a contract for 500 trucks when Comptroller General McCarl ruled Ford would have to be proved a violator of the automobile code before he could be disqualified.

Details of the charges were not revealed, but they concern the manner in which Ford has dealt with strikers since they walked out of assembly plants at Chester, Pa., and Edgewater, N. J., several months ago.

Pope to Give Yule Address Tomorrow

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Pope's annual Christmas address will be delivered at noon Saturday, it was announced today.

Although Pope Pius has not fully decided, prelates said the message probably would be broadcast, on a 19.84 meter wave, 15,120 kilocycles. The time would be 6 a. m., eastern standard.

500 of Huey's Henchmen Face Vote Prosecution

International News Service.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 22.—A mild-mannered, be-spectacled man of 40 has essayed the role of giant killer in the tottering political dynasty of United States Senator Huey P. Long.

Storm center of the break-up of the Kingfish's once all-powerful hold on Louisiana politics, District Attorney Eugene Stanley, a short, slight figure with a battered corn cob pipe habitually jutting from his mouth, drove forward today with plans to prosecute more than 500 of Long's election commissioners on charges of fraud in the November, 1932, election.

In an interview, Stanley, who already has brought convictions and prison sentences to three election commissioners in the first trial of the huge group, expressed the belief that a "new deal" was in store for Louisiana voters. He said:

"Long's policies are in opposition to the views of all right-thinking people. I am confident a new deal is in store for the state, and Senator Long will become the forgotten man of Louisiana politics."

The prosecuting attorney predicted that the next test at the polls would show conclusively that Long's political empire has been swept away.

Election of city officials is scheduled for January 23, but Long, following refusal of the powerful "old regular" city machine to support his candidates, has announced he would not enter a ticket.

What's Your Pet Peeve Against Travel Cost?

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—What's your pet peeve against the methods of transportation in the United States?

Does your automobile use too much gasoline? Are Pullman fares too high? Do you favor low-cost one-day railroad excursions?

These and other questions are being asked by Joseph B. Eastman, federal co-ordinator of transportation, in an effort to get the pulse of the traveling public in regard to existing conditions.

He revealed today that he had distributed all over the country a questionnaire with the request that persons who receive copies, fill them out and return them to Washington. A frank is provided so that no postage is required on the letters.

Here are a few of the typical questions:

How many automobiles do you own? How many miles a year is your car driven?

How much do you estimate it costs you per mile to drive your car? What do you estimate is the actual out-of-pocket cost per mile?

What basic fare per mile would cause you to travel to the extent that you would spend more money for rail transportation than you do at present?

Would the rail travel of yourself and your family be increased if railroads gave a discount for family or other groups who travel as a party?

OUIJA BOARD FORCED HER TO SHOOT FATHER, GIRL CRIES

MOTHER EGGED HER ON, SHE TELLS POLICE

Ranch Wife Accused Of Desiring Freedom To Wed Cowboy

ST. JOHNS, Ariz., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Punishment for a 15-year-old girl who admitted shooting her father at the instigation of her mother's ouija board was considered by authorities here today.

After the girl, Mattie Turley, pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted murder, County Attorney J. Smith Gibbons recommended she be sent to the State Industrial School for six years.

The mother, Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley, held as an accomplice, denied the ouija board seance in which the shooting was allegedly ordered so that she would be free to marry "a young cowboy."

Her petition for freedom on a writ of habeas corpus was set for hearing Tuesday.

The victim of the shooting, E. J. Turley, chief gunner's mate of the Naval Reserve, was in the Navy hospital at San Diego, Cal., to which he was taken by airplane. Physicians said the wound in his hip still was under examination.

OUIJA BOARD SPEAKS

Miss Turley testified at her mother's hearing in Justice Court that she followed her father to the corral of their ranch home and took careful aim at his back with a shotgun. She said she lost her nerve, but, after thinking "how much it would mean" to her mother, raised the gun again and fired. The girl testified:

"Mother told me that ouija board could not be denied and that I would not even be arrested for doing it."

Prehistoric cliff writings and a story of buried treasure also figured in Miss Turley's account.

TREASURE HUNT

The girl said her mother, who claims to have been named "Venus of America" in a newspaper beauty contest 15 years ago, noticed the cliff writings and consulted the ouija board, which told her about the buried treasure.

Both Miss Turley and her 14-year-old brother, David, asserted that while their father blasted away rock in search of the treasure at Mrs. Turley's insistence, their mother was much in the company of "the young cowboy."

It was after this, Miss Turley said, that the ouija board was consulted again—

"And it wrote out I was to kill my father."

3 GUNMEN DIE AS POLICE RAID APARTMENT

50 Shots Exchanged in Chicago Roundup; Woman Gives Tip

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A sharp-shooting Chicago policeman bent on capturing John Dillinger and members of his ring of escaped Indiana convicts, wrote finis to the careers of three other gunmen with bullets in a sensational raid on an apartment in the Rogers Park district.

In a short but decisive gun fight the police shot and killed the trio last night, and for two hours afterward believed that their victims were Dillinger and two of his lieutenants, Jack Hamilton and Harry Pierpont.

Finger prints taken from the dead men, however, revealed that they were: Louis Katzewitz, 28, and Charles Tattlebaum, 30, alias Chuck Tiden, both of whom were suspected of helping to hold up the Union National Bank, of Streator, Ill., and Sam Ginsburg, 33, a paroled convict from the Michigan State Prison at Jackson.

A total of $52,000 was obtained in the bank robbery which occurred May 16, 1932.

Katzewitz and Tattlebaum had been sought since last June 15, when they escaped from jail at Ottawa, Ill.

MYSTERIOUS TIP-OFF

Receiving a "tip" from an unidentified woman informant that the first floor apartment at 1428 Farwell avenue was a hideout for Dillinger and his men, 19 picked officers, led by Supervising Capt. John Stege, swooped down on the place, posting men with sub-machine guns at the rear to cut off escape in that direction.

Then, as other officers entered, the men were shot down one by one as they exchanged more than 50 shots with the desperadoes.

Captain Stege said he had established a connection the slain men had with a $100,000 robbery of an express messenger in St. Paul recently and with the hitherto unsolved slaying of two policemen in Chicago, who were killed when they stopped to question a number of men riding in an automobile on West Washington boulevard several months ago.

SCIENCE MAKES GIANT, DWARF AT WILL

Human Growth Secret Bared in Laboratory Experiments

International News Service.

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 22.—A fantastic world in which research workers have moved for four years like "Gullivers" among dwarfs and giants was disclosed here today with the revelation of closely-guarded experiments by Dr. Herbert M. Evans, internationally-known biologist, at the University of California life science laboratories here.

Dachshunds four feet long and rats the size of guinea pigs, which grow to maturity in 90 hours, are among the inhabitants of this weird laboratory world.

GROW OR SHRINK

By taking "pituitary" and "lutein" tablets, extracts from key glands of the human system, human beings may soon be able to rise or shrink to any desired height, according to Dr. Evans.

The key to these astounding metamorphoses is the mysterious pituitary gland, situated in the mathematical center of the head. Dr. Evans said:

"The pituitary gland is a robot, or automatic governor which controls growth, reproduction and health. By controlling this gland we can control these factors at will."

Dr. Evans' experiments are not calculated to produce a race of giants. He pointed out:

"We are not trying to make bigger human beings, but better ones. But by a better knowledge of these glands we can help man to attain the apex of his physical and mental capacity."

A 10-year-old girl, threatened with the life of a dwarf when her growth stopped, has gained five inches in two years through use of gland extracts, or "hormones," Dr. Evans disclosed.

ANIMAL EXPERIMENTS

The scientist's principal experiments are conducted with dogs and rats. Of a litter of purebred dachshunds, half were recently treated with the extracts and in a few days attained double the size of their brothers and sisters.

More than 5,000 rats are ranged in wire cages in the laboratories. Every Monday 800 new rodents are born, and attain maturity and enormous size within four days.

On the other hand, negative experiments have shown that removal of the pituitary gland brings about immediate stoppage of growth.

AVIATOR BARES SECRET CLUE IN DENTIST DEATH

Sleuths Hot on New Trail; Mother Left Victim's Estate

Universal Service.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 22.—Secret information supplied by Charles La Jotte, aviator friend of Dr. Leonard Siever, murdered dentist, today has opened a new channel of investigation to detectives struggling to surmount the wall of mystery surrounding the weird case.

La Jotte, who when questioned by investigators pledged his full co-operation in the attempt to find Siever's slayer, appeared at the police station yesterday and conferred behind closed doors with detectives.

Later two officers and the flier sped in a police car to an undisclosed destination. On their return to the station the detectives held a conference with Deputy District Attorney Hugh McIsaac, who is in charge of the probe.

Developments, perhaps of a sensational nature, are expected shortly as a result of the hurried trip.

Meanwhile, other lines of activity in the widespread hunt for the person who shot and killed the 44-year-old bachelor-mystic outside Pasadena Scottish Rite Cathedral at the height of a rainstorm the night of December 12 remained unproductive of definite clues.

An estate of $12,422 was left by Dr. Siever to his mother, Mrs. Dora Siever, of Norfolk, Conn., as was disclosed today in a petition for letters of administration filed by the public administrator.

JUNE DIVORCED BY INVERCLYDE

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Court of Session today granted Lord Inverclyde, British shipping magnate, a divorce from Lady Inverclyde—the actress, June Tripp.

Their wedding in 1929 was one of the outstanding social events of the season, but the marriage was dissolved at Reno, Nev., in 1931, when Lady Inverclyde was awarded a decree by default.

At that time, she expressed the hope Lord Inverclyde would "play the gentleman and divorce me in England, so that I can not be prosecuted for bigamy in my native land should I remarry and return there."

Reno decrees are not recognized in Great Britain.

CAN'T DIVORCE 'NEAR-NUDIST'

International News Service.

RAVENNA, O., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Cynthia Ann Jeffords' garden appearance clad only in transparent silk was not sufficient cause to grant her husband, Alexander H. B. Jeffords, 54, a divorce, Judge C. H. Curtiss had ruled today.

The 29-year-old wife's costume was said by Gorden Lee, a neighbor who testified at the trial, to have consisted of "shorts," a brassiere and shoes. Another witness declared it was "very novel for the village of Aurora."

Judge Curtiss also denied Mrs. Jeffords' cross-petition for alimony. Jeffords' counsel said he would file suit again.

GOSSIP UPSETS 'CHOTTY'

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The American says that Charlotte "Chotty" Milburn Pickering, who eloped with Hugh Parker Pickering on Monday, has returned to the home of her mother, Mrs. Hollingsworth Peabody, a social registerite, because of illness. She said:

"Charlotte came home Wednesday night. She was upset. Upset about all the publicity and so forth.

"She is sick in bed over the excitement. But as soon as she is able she is going to Miami with her husband."

Pickering called on his bride during the day.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Thomas Heilman, 65-year-old janitor, can "take it."

Three holdup men invaded his employer's home, and Heilman says they forced him to drink a quart of the boss' liquor, tied him to a chair and then stole clothing and jewelry worth $1,380.

Baby Spanking Held Grounds For Divorce

Mrs. Margaret H. Freeland, 439 South Aiken avenue, testified at her divorce hearing today that when she objected to her husband, Fitzhugh, spanking the baby because it annoyed him by crying at night, he left home for a week.

On another occasion, she told Judge Ralph H. Smith, he became very angry when he returned home and found that she was out playing bridge. Finally he told her she testified:

"I quit. I'm through."

They were married June 3, 1926 and he left her three years ago, she charged.

1-POUND BABY LIVES IN WEST

HOQUIAM, Wash., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A "doll baby" born to the wife of Vean Gregg, former big league pitcher, has gained five ounces in the 19 days of her life and now weighs 1 pound 15 ounces, Dr. J. F. MacDonald reported today.

At birth December 2 at the Hoquiam General Hospital she weighed 1 pound 10 ounces.

Dr. MacDonald said:

"She's growing now and I have every hope that she will live."

The infant is so small the doctor slips a ring from his finger over the child's hand and up its arm to the elbow. She has not been named.

REGISTER DROPS MISS HEPBURN

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—Katharine Hepburn, the glamorous motion picture and stage star, was missing from the 1934 Philadelphia Social Register today.

But, among the additions, was Frances Sewzak, pretty sandwich shop waitress, and daughter of a Ukrainian workman, who was married to Robert F. Welsh, wealthy banker and clubman many years her senior, after an over-the-counter romance.

Friends expressed surprise over the dropping of Miss Hepburn, but said she and her husband, Ludlow Ogden Smith, of Strafford, a Philadelphia suburb, probably dropped their subscriptions to the book since they now reside in New York. Although it was not generally known, Miss Hepburn was married to Smith five years ago in Hartford, Conn., her home.

WOMEN FLIERS BATTLE FOG

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Heavy fog is making hazardous the contacts between the Flying Boudoir, endurance plane piloted by Helen Richey, of McKeesport, Pa., and Frances Marsalis, and their service plane.

With Pilot Jack Loesing, of the refueling plane, hesitant to prolong the contacts, the planes were making short connections during the day.

The women are out to break the unofficial women's endurance mark of eight days and four hours.

At 1:03 p. m. today they had completed 48 hours in the air.

Dope Suspect Shot By Federal Sleuth

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Harris Stein, 29, alleged head of a Washington narcotic ring, was shot last night by a federal agent in the entrance of Union Station.

Thomas Maxwell, government narcotic officer, reported he had just purchased 850 grains of a drug from Stein, and fired as the man reached for his hip pocket as Maxwell showed his badge. Stein was wounded in the hip.

SLAYING PROBE FREES 2 MEN

Two men, held in County Jail, were acquitted today in the death of Andrew Andrejck, 45, of 308 Ella street, November 29, when a Coroner's inquest found he had been "struck on the head by persons unknown."

Frank Zamanski, 25, and Benjamin Hendricks, both of Davis avenue, McKees Rocks, were held following a rooming house proprietress' statement that three men had beaten Andrejck in his room. She later failed to identify Zamanski and Hendricks as two of the men.

7 PUPILS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Seven Har-Brack Union High School students, all of Deer Creek, were injured today when the automobile in which they were riding to school struck a coal truck on Bakerstown road.

Harry Gillespie, said by police to have been the driver of the car, was reported in a serious condition in Allegheny Valley Hospital. Luemma Gillespie, his sister; Eleanor Hughes, Eleanor Vanderlen, Grace Scott, Alma Bryson and Jane Patterson suffered body cuts and bruises.

'I'M A SPHINX,' SAYS DOUG, JR.

Universal Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22.—"I'm just a sphinx, that's all, just a sphinx."

Thus, yesterday, did Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., comment upon reports buzzing in Hollywood that he intends to marry Gertrude Lawrence, British stage actress.

Said the actor:

"People are talking about it and writing about it, but as far as I'm concerned I'm a sphinx."

He added that he will still be a married man until Joan Crawford's divorce from him becomes final next May.

Friends of Fairbanks say he was much in the company of Miss Lawrence while in England recently and has sent many cables to her since his return. He is said to have brought with him a gold cigaret lighter initialed "G. L."

Christmas Brings Auto Tag Slump

HARRISBURG, Dec., 22.—(AP.)—The annual battle between Santa Claus and the Bureau of Motor Vehicles began today, the sharp increase in Christmas mail bringing a slight reduction in the volume of 1934 applications for license tags.

As compared with Tuesday's total of 67,263 applications, today's estimate is about 52,000. To date, the bureau has issued 695,840 sets of plates, 44,389 more than on the same date last year.

Lukas, Actor, Hurt When Horse Falls

Touhy, Aides Plead Own Case, Rebuffed

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Roger Touhy and his three gangster codefendants tried a bit of law practice on their own behalf today and were rebuffed by Judge Harry B. Miller, who appointed the public defender to represent them in their trial for the kidnaping of John Factor. The court ordered the trial to begin January 2.

It was their third appearance in Criminal Court without counsel, and Judge Miller refused to dally any longer.

Woman Back in Prison With New-Born Baby

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Released December 3 from jail so that her child might be born in a hospital, Mrs. Veronica F. Swirut went back to the prison today—at her own request—and took the baby with her.

There the baby will spend Christmas with his father, Karl Skwirut, Sr., serving an indeterminate sentence on a contempt of court charge growing out of an alleged bankruptcy fraud. Mrs. Skwirut voluntarily resumes a similar sentence because there is nowhere else for her to take 18-day-old Karl, Jr., for the holidays.

The Skwiruts, owners of the White Eagle Baking company, left the country in 1928. They were accused of taking more than $100,000 which should have gone to creditors of the bankrupt bakery. Skwirut was traced to England, his wife to Poland. They were brought back.

In 1929 Skwirut was sentenced to two years in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta and Mrs. Skwirut was placed on probation.

Creditors still insisted that the couple had concealed assets of the bakery and they were brought before Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick last July. Rejecting their protests that they had nothing, the court ordered them to turn over $40,000. The money was not forthcoming and the contempt sentences followed.

Scots Hunt Sea Serpent With Neck Like Swan

International News Service.

INVERNESS, Scotland, Dec. 22.—With a wierd "sea-monster" of prehistoric dimensions as the chief attraction, the Scottish Highlands today prepared for an unprecedented influx of holiday visitors seeking rich prizes promised for capture of the famed "sea-serpent of Loch Ness."

This city and lesser towns and villages in the rugged stretches of the Monadhliath mountains thrilled to word from London that M. A. Wetherall, big-game hunter of wide repute, had "staked his reputation" on the certainty that some strange monster actually inhabits the blue waters of the Scotish loch.

Hundreds of persons are planning to scour the shores of the loch during the Christmas holidays in search of traces of the monster, which local legend estimates at 50 feet in length, with the neck of a huge swan and the head of a gigantic lizard.

Wetherall reported finding a fresh spoor of the beast on the shores of the loch. While some authorities believe the explorer and big-game hunter was hoaxed, Wetherall was convinced his find was genuine, and sent a plaster-cast of the spoor to London for examination.

When the beast's appearance was first reported, skeptics called attention to the fact that the Loch Ness area products the strongest whisky distilled anywhere in Scotland, and there was an inclination to place the monster in the same category with "pink elephants" and other apparitions of the morning after the night before.

PINCHOT READY TO SIGN CHILD LABOR BLOW

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—With the special session of the General Assembly adjourned, talk at the Capitol centers on the possibility of another session to deal with social legislation in the Spring.

In St. Luke's Hospital, New York, Gov. Pinchot late today will sign the resolution which makes Pennsylvania the twentieth state to ratify the Child Labor Amendment to the Federal Constitution. Men and women prominent in the fight for the resolution, which passed in the final day of the extra session, will be at the Chief Executive's bedside as he attaches his signature.

After the Governor signs it, the resolution will be forwarded to the State Department, Washington.

PINCHOT ANGRY

Pinchot, in the hospital with a nervous disorder since December 12, makes no attempt to conceal his ire over the defeat of many of the measures he advocated "to give the average man a break," notably the minimum wage bill designed to abolish sweatshops.

Some observers believe the Executive will call another session in March to keep the lawmakers busy until the primaries, if necessary, to get action on his welfare measures.

The Governor, too, is irked by the Senate's refusal to act on his five nominees to the Public Service Commission.

The executive's disappointment over the fate of social legislation is shared by the Democrats. Last night they wired President Roosevelt saying that because of the defeat of the measures, they believe Pennsylvania will "go Democratic" from Governor down the line next year.

MARTIN PLEASED

Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, said he is very well pleased and congratulated the Legislature for its good work in the "short inexpensive session."

He also complimented the Senate for refusing to be forced into action on the Public Service Commissioners.

The Governor's condition is improved and he hopes to spend Christmas at Grey Towers, his Milford home.

But on his return he will find his desk stacked high with bills passed in the last week of the session.

He is expected to sign the bulk of them.

One appropriating 40 million dollars for unemployment relief from April, 1934, to May, 1935, probably will be slashed. The Governor recommended 20 million dollars, but the Senate doubled it. The Governor has the authority to reduce appropriations.

STATE G. O. P. DOOM SEEN

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Democratic members of the State House of Representatives today had wired President Roosevelt that because social legislation they sponsored was killed at the special session, Pennsylvania next year will elect a Democratic Governor, United States Senator, congressional delegation and State Senate and House. The Democrats wired:

"We go back to our respective communities with our program for social justice and economic assurance for the people mutilated and killed for the most part on orders from the same men who would, if they could, mutilate and kill the NRA."

They predicted that Democratic victories next year "will strengthen your hand in guiding this nation to a new era for everyone."

Warren Van Dyke, Democratic state chairman, said:

"There is great rejoicing today in the seats of Pennsylvania's mighty.

"It will be a merry Christmas for the Mellons, the Grundys, the Atterburys, the utility racketeers and the Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce.

"But it will not be a happy new year."

MISS CARR GETS HER JOB BACK

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—Gov. Pinchot today reappointed Charlotte E. Carr, of Harrisburg, as Secretary of Labor and Industry. Her nomination failed to get action in the Senate at the special session of the Legislature just ended.

He also reappointed these members of state boards:

Jere C. West, Bedford County, member of the Pennsylvania Securities Commission; Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, Sharpsburg, Forest Commission; David J. Davis, Scranton, Aeronautics Commission; Dr. William D. McClelland, of Pittsburgh, Athletic Commission, and Miss Emma S. Ballamy, of Wilkes-Barre, member of the Board of Examiners for the Registration of Nurses.

Berry Asked to Head Young Republicans

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—J. Howard Berry, former University of Pennsylvania athlete, has been asked by Edward Martin, chairman of the Republican State Committee, to accept the position of state chairman of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania.

Charles W. Carroll, Philadelphia publisher, resigned from the office last week.

Mrs. Pinchot Silent On 'Revenge' Charges

ing a pawn in the political game as it is played in Harrisburg, Pittsburgh and wherever politics exists.

Senator Chapman in a dramatic statement Wednesday night, after he had voted against Stahlnecker and after his brother had been fired, charged that he had been threatened with penalties by the "substitute governor," a designation generally interpreted as applying to Mrs. Cornelia Bryce Pinchot, wife of the Governor. The Governor is ill with shingles in a New York hospital.

MANSFIELD IN CLASH

It was to investigate this charge that the committee was hastily called yesterday, with Secretary Samuel S. Lewis of the Highway Department subpenaed as the chief witness. The hearing was a dud, except for a sharp interchange between Chapman and Senator William D. Mansfield, of McKeesport, who resented Chapman involving him in a verbal picture of what went on in the Governor's office Wednesday before the vote was taken on Stahlnecker.

Mrs. Pinchot, since the inferential charge that she was substituting for her husband, has remained silent, and those in a position to speak for her declare she will have nothing to say about contentions that she was wielding the patronage club in an effort to swing into line sufficient Senators to secure the confirmation of Stahlnecker and the four other Pinchot appointees to the Public Service Commission.

The Senate majority, loyal to the regular Republican organization, has balked every effort to secure action on the commissioners.

DESCRIBES MEETING

At yesterday's session of the Investigating Committee Chapman recounted a scene in the Governor's office Wednesday when he said John L. Hanna, of Venango, secretary of property and supplies; Senator Andrew Sordoni, of Luzerne, and Senator Frank J. Harris, of Allegheny, were present, together with the "substitute Governor." Hanna is from Chapman's senatorial district.

Senator Chapman also thought that Senator Mansfield was present.

Chapman said he had been told that unless he voted for Stahlnecker, Hanna would be fired summarily. He asked if this was true, he said. The question was put to the "substitute Governor," he said, and "the eyes fell."

The committee thought this was pretty hot, for the "nays" had it when the Stahlnecker question came up shortly later in the Senate. Mansfield challenged Chapman's recollection. He said he was in the executive chamber when Chapman arrived, and when he left, and that he had never heard Chapman say a word.

LEWIS GIVES ORDER

Secretary Lewis said he had received an order from the personnel office of the executive department Wednesday afternoon directing that the Senator's brother be fired. Mr. Lewis intimated that he had followed orders with pleasure, explaining that he had never thought Frank Chapman efficient.

The investigators decided not to call any witnesses from the Governor's office, Mr. Pinchot having scared them off at a previous hearing from interrogating his employes.

Morgan Bird, an employe of the Governor's office, who described himself as only a "messenger" in the Chapman transaction, presented correspondence between Senator Chapman and Stahlnecker when the latter was secretary to the Governor.

Bird presented a letter which under date of May 21, 1932, contained this sentence:

"If Mr. Frank G. Chapman is not appointed within a week I will take it you do not want my support in the next session of the Legislature."

LOYAL TO GOVERNOR

This would apply to the 1933 session. In the same letter to Stahlnecker Chapman said he had been loyal to the Governor in the 1930 campaign and had been a factor in Franklin County going for Mr. Pinchot by 1,000 majority.

Mr. Stahlnecker appeared to be outraged at this letter, and replied to Senator Chapman with the expression describing it as:

"The rawest threats ever made during my experience in Harrisburg."

However this rawness apparently smoothed itself out, as the Senator's brother kept his job, and despite the inefficiency with which he was charged by Mr. Lewis, held it until Wednesday when his brother got off the reservation.

Behind the scenes of this batting back and forth is the apparent fact that the Pinchot administration did exert extreme pressure for votes on the Stahlnecker case Wednesday.

On the other hand, the organization also is reported to have put on pressure for an opposite effect. The whole drama was played out in an atmosphere of cold politics, which is the way most things are played here.

Pinchot Reappoints P. S. C. Commissioners

International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—Five Public Service Commissioners ignored completely by the Senate during the extraordinary special session were re-appointed to office by Gov. Gifford Pinchot today.

The commissioners renewed their oath of office at the office of Richard J. Beamish, Secretary of the Commonwealth.

The commissioners and the date of expiration of their terms follow:

P. S. Stahlnecker, July 1, 1942.
Herman Goldberg, July 1, 1937.
George W. Woodruff, July 1, 1941.
C. Jay Goodnough, July 1, 1943.
Frederick P. Gruenberg, July 1, 1940.

Goodnough, former speaker of the House, was re-named chairman of the Commission.

Gov. Pinchot, who sent the reappointments here from a New York hospital where he is confined with an attack of shingles, made no comment.

DENOUNCED SENATE

Previously, however, he denounced the Senate for not taking action on the nominees and served notice the "fight is not over." Throughout the recent session, he made numerous demands for action and blamed delay on Edward Martin, Republican state chairman.

In the closing stages of the session, the Governor's forces in the upper branch were defeated in an attempt to discharge the Executive Nominations Committee from further consideration of the name of P. S. Stahlnecker. The severe defeat administered to this move caused the chief executive to abandon plans to force the names of the four other appointees to the floor for confirmation or rejection.

The re-appointments were made today under a Supreme Court ruling in the King case. The court ruled all terms expire when a General Assembly adjourns without confirming or rejecting the commissioners.

CLEANERS BALK AT RATE CUT

While the minimum cleaners and dyers price here has been dropped by NRA officials from 85 cents to 70 cents, effective Tuesday, local plant owners today planned to seek an agreement among themselves to maintain the present rate.

A meeting will be called by the Pittsburgh Cleaners and Dyers Association, probably tomorrow, according to Chairman W. J. Mooney. While the NRA authority sets a minimum rate for suits and plain dresses, its ruling does not govern the charging of a higher rate, Mooney said. It is contended that the present minimum price is necessary to operate under the code requirements.

Quality cleaners, who charge considerably above the minimum, will be provided with a special blue eagle insignia, Washington authorities advise.

Flannery to Arrange For Catholic Meet

J. Rogers Flannery is chairman of local arrangements for the annual meeting of the American Catholic Historical Association Convention to be held December 28 and 29, at the William Penn Hotel. Bishop Hugh C. Boyle of the Pittsburgh Catholic diocese is honorary chairman of the committee.

SHOW OPENED BY PETROVITS

By PENELOPE REDD

Milan Petrovits emerges from a summer's retirement battling with sciatica to show a collection of about 30 paintings at the Wunderly Gallery until January 5. Crisp and incisive, they sing of suburban hills around Natrona in mid-summer and in autumn. "Morning Shadows" is a well-observed synthesis of the many greens from dark to light that one is likely to see flooding the hills. "Vista of Hills" is vibrant with the sense of secret brotherhood between trees and hills and clouds. "Late Autumn" shows the same hills and valleys mberging into golden-brown and red.

Miss Redd

When Petrovits comes to the city, the world is different whether it be the orderly progress of Wood street from Sixth avenue to the river or the chaos of "Monday" at a hillside home above Bigelow boulevard.

Milan Petrovits' abounding zest for nature sweeps the spectator along with his enthusiasm. These landscapes would enliven a dull space in any room. They are joyous and invigorating.

NADINE DELAY MAY BE AVOIDED

The Allegheny River boulevard through Nadine "bottleneck" may open January 15, as planned by the County Commissioners.

E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, announced yesterday the railroad would apply to the Public Service Commission for permission to operate cars across the temporary roadway.

The Commissioners were told Wednesday the railroad had refused to co-operate in this respect, which would have delayed opening until a coal conveyor under the road could be completed to replace cars serving the Nadine pumping station.

Smith suggested the Commissioners provide signs and a flagman, saying the railroad also would take safety precautions.

The American Family at Christmas

Here's to DAD who pays our bills all year long and then beams happily on Christmas morning over his gifts, bought with "our very own money."

Here's to MOTHER! May God Bless Her.

Here's to the CHILDREN! Why they make Christmas. Naughty, noisy, darling angels!

Here's to GRANDMOTHER AND GRANDFATHER! Here's to all the Aunts and Uncles, the Cousins, and Nieces and Nephews. Here's to our Friends. Here's to You!

The Merriest Christmas Ever!

CHRISTMAS is one thing this modern age has never succeeded in modernizing, and we're glad this is so. How fortunate never to have exchanged a modern, emaciated figure for the fat, jolly old man with the stomach "that shakes like a bowl-ful of jelly" and a white-whiskered face that never knows the sophistication of a smooth-shaven cheek. Though we send our fantastic black-and-silver Christmas cards and slouch in modern chairs before a chromium fireplace this Christmas Eve, when all is said and done, we still pay homage to a twinkle-eyed, bearded old gentleman who radiates simple, robust happiness.

TOMORROW we're going to do our own Christmas shopping. Up to now we've been pretty busy helping you, but we've got notes scribbled down somewhere...Mom, blue velvet negligee, Aunt Mary, white hankies, and so on. We hope you're through this last mad, joyous scramble, but if you're not, come in. Even this last day before Christmas we know you'll find in our $3,000,000 stock the perfect gift for anyone left on your list. And then tomorrow evening, at five oclock, we're closing up shop and going home, to wrap our gifts in gay tissue, to go to sleep to hear . . . do we dream it or are the carolers below so soon . . . . .

EXEMPT HOMES FROM TAXES, M'NAIR AIM

that ordinance through Council?"

The former Governor replied:

"I would form a Pittsburgh Home Authority, a quasi-public corporation, and borrow funds from the RFC to enable working men to build home of moderate cost at low interest."

Gov. Smith also gave him some good advice on building up a Democratic organization in a Republican stronghold like Pittsburgh.

[The Mayor-elect's plan to grant tax exemptions to small houses may encounter constitutional opposition. One Pittsburgh authority said today that any such exemptions must be provided by the Legislature, not by Council.]

McNair leaned back in his chair in the Governor's ante-room in the Empire State Building, high above crowds of Christmas shoppers along Fifth avenue.

He asked Smith:

"What would you do, Governor, to build up a Democratic organization in Pittsburgh? It looks like I've got to appoint some Republicans because they are better men than some Democrats."

Smith replied:

"Well, I had to appoint some Republicans for the same reason, but the only way you can develop a Democratic organization there is to give the people service.

"Forget patronage and pick the most able men and women for office."

"Let the people know that you're trying to give them an honest and efficient government."

McNair visited Smith to discuss the 10-year tax exemption law which Smith forced through the New York Legislature in 1921.

The Governor told him that in 1931, when taxes were needed, nine hundred million dollars of property suddenly went on the tax lists. The New York law provided a $5,000 exemption for one-family houses; $10,000 for two-family and $15,000 for three-family homes. McNair said he will advocate exemption only for one-family homes in Pittsburgh, granting $5,000 exemption on any-sized house.

Pittsburgh's Mayor-elect was not as friendly toward Joseph R. Grundy as last night when he told of Grundy's promise to help his five-to-one tax bill through the recalcitrant Senate in Harrisburg. He said:

"Maybe Grundy knew the Legislature has already adjourned."

TO FIGHT SENATORS

Every Senator who voted against the bill in Harrisburg will find his re-election contested in April, McNair promised. He particularly appeared angry at Senator William D. Mansfield who, he said, promised to vote for the bill.

McNair left New York at 1 p. m., and was to confer in Philadelphia this afternoon with Warren Van Dyke, internal revenue collector, and mentioned as a possible candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. He wants to get Van Dyke's position on the graded tax laws, he said.

Tonight McNair will stay with his brother, Harold McNair, burgess of Middletown, Pa. He will arrive in Pittsburgh Saturday afternoon, he said.

As to Grundy, McNair told of this telephone conversation:

"I told Grundy that we ought to work together; that I had worked for him in Pittsburgh; that I worked to defeat the taxes on machinery and corporations, and that this bill affected only Pittsburgh and that he ought to ride along with me.

"He said that he didn't know anything about it but that he would call the boys in Harrisburg and get it out of committee, if the Legislature hadn't already adjourned."

But even before he had talked to Grundy, the Legislature had adjourned and the five-to-one bill had been defeated.

McNair's account of his "deal" with Grundy was given during the preliminary speeches last night at the banquet tendered by the Association for Scientific Taxation. This is the modern organization of the followers of Henry George, proponent of the single tax theory.

McNair's carefree conduct in the preliminaries to his own speech in no wise detracted from the economics of his prediction that the passage of the five-to-one bill will further enhance the value of small homes without necessarily being a hardship on anyone.

EXPLAINS THEORY

The theory, as he explained it, is instead of the city tax rate being $20 per thousand on land and $10 per thousand on buildings, as at present, the proposed law would tax land values $25 per thousand and improvements $5 per thousand.

M'Nair Dared By Communists To Join Debate

Pittsburgh Communists have challenged Mayor-elect William N. McNair to a public debate, or rather they say they are accepting his implied challenge to debate made in a recent speech at the Y. M. & W. H. A. At that time McNair is reported to have said:

"I hope we have some Communist meetings here. I'd like to get up and debate them. I'd show them where they have nothing to say, or where I think they have nothing to say."

Issuing its challenge acceptance, District No. 5, Communist party, wrote McNair:

"We suggest that this debate be arranged for the latter part of January."

The subject to be discussed, if McNair accepts, according to the letter is:

"That the program of the Communist party is the only program that can adequately solve all of the basic, social, economic and political problems facing the working people of this country."

PHILLIPS FIGHTS M'NAIR UTILITY TAX PLAN

Removal of present city and county tax exemptions on utility property, as advocated by Mayor-elect William N. McNair, would cost the Philadelphia Company group additional taxes of $675,000 a year, Frank R. Phillips, president, declared yesterday.

With the Duquesne Light Company revenues off approximately five million dollars a year, plus $700,000 dropped through the recent rate reduction, the additional taxes of this concern alone would be $567,000 yearly, Phillips said in an address before the Election League of Pittsburgh luncheon in the Hotel William Penn.

He said:

"We have reached the point where taxation is draining the purchasing power of the people, generally, to such an extent as to stifle distribution and the flow of trade. The specter of taxation and of unbearable tax bills has greatly increased the fear which freezes the channels of commerce."

Phillips said total taxes paid last year by the Duquesne Light Company were $1,034,200, and the Philadelphia Company, $2,368,400. In face of the federal taxes already being paid and contemplated new sources, Phillips charged that the government plans for building public-owned utility systems, were unfair.

Municipally-owned plants cannot supply current at less cost than the utilities and claims that such operations lower taxes are false, he said.

TWINS PARTED IN 100TH YEAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Death has parted twins in their one hundredth year.

And the survivor will never be told of her sister's death.

Mrs. Jeannette Lauchheimer—she would have been 100 years old on January 16—died at the home here of her daughter, Mrs. Fannie Harris.

Her twin, Mrs. Henriette Dannenbaum, of Philadelphia, is an invalid and Mrs. Harris said she will not be informed of the tragedy. The shock might kill her.

Always, until last year, the twins celebrated their birthdays together. Inclement weather defeated last year's plan for a joint party.

The sisters came to America 73 years ago from Germany.

Three Boys Held For Court in Thefts

Three youths, accused of more than a dozen thefts in Squirrel Hill district, were held for court on larceny charges at hearings before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today.

The youths, Mike Gombos, 17, of 5806 Pierce street; James Fraima, 17, of 335 Beelan street, and William Plunkett, 16, of 339 North Elizabeth street, were arrested yesterday.

M'NAIR VISIT PERILS MAN'S PAROLE

The surprise visit of Mayor-elect W. N. McNair to an alleged bookie shop in Market street proved troublesome today to Patrick (Paddy) Nee, whom McNair said he had been informed was the proprietor.

Nee had been paroled November 30 after serving 7½ months of a sentence of a year and a day in the federal prison at Lewisburg, Pa. He had pleaded guilty last April 13 in Federal Court here to violating the narcotic laws.

George G. O'Brien, federal probation officer, today sent for Nee and questioned him about the newspaper account of McNair's visit to the bookie shop to run down a rumor that "a fixer" had been named for the new city administration.

According to O'Brien, Nee denied having any conversation with the Mayor-elect, denied he was a "fixer" or that he had interest in the Market street place. He went there only to loaf, he told O'Brien.

O'Brien said he would report the incident to the Federal Parole Board, which had released Nee from prison before expiration of his term. Nee, aged about 60, resides in Beechview.

McNair Aide to Speak On Single Tax Plan

Percy R. Williams, Mayor-elect William N. McNair's secretary, will be the guest speaker at an open forum sponsored by the Louis J. Affelder Club at the Y. M. and W. H. A. Sunday at 3 p. m. His subject will be "Single Tax versus Present Methods of Taxation."

Dorrance Tax Suit Postponed by N. J.

MT. HOLLY, N. J., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Surrogate George Bitting stated today that uncertainties in the case in which the state of New Jersey seeks to collect $16,768,477 in inheritance taxes on the estate of the late Dr. John T. Dorrance, made a postponment necessary.

The case was deferred until June 21. The action was approved by Judge Charles A. Rigg. Dr. Dorrance was head of the Campbell Soup Company.

LABOR ESCAPE FOR MILLIONS IN U. S. SEEN

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Even when complete recovery comes, millions of workers who can obtain jobs will never go back to them, Walter B. Pitkin, author and Columbia professor, says in the January issue of Good Housekeeping.

In an article entitled "How to Take It Easy," he points out that these people enjoy escape from the old routine ways and "have learned to despise our money and profit system."

Three classes of people, Pitkin finds, have special leisure problems today: People with little income and no jobs, who are used to working; boys and girls through with high school and college, who have found no employment, and middle-aged women emancipated from housework and the care of children.

Emancipated housewives, with no acute financial problems, Pitkin says, should form themselves into working groups to make life better in their communities, and should devote the rest of their time guiding their children and training them for leasure.

To young people through with education but without jobs, he suggests preparing for tomorrow's job. He advises them to seek jobs as apprentices in promising fields and acquire what skill they can without salary.

To people with little income he says:

"If your income suffices for your needs, strive for no more money. Thousands of Americans are willingly escaping from our money - a n d - profit system. Money no longer makes the man, for the man no longer makes money. Intelligent men and women forego money and profits for the sake of life more abundant."

CONVICT THREE IN DOPE PLOT

Vincent Siciliano and John Siciliano, brothers, of Johnstown, and John Roberto, of Altoona, were convicted yesterday in Federal Court of conspiring to defraud the government of $225, in a trial before Judge R. M. Gibson. Joseph Regina, of Johnstown, another defendant, was acquitted.

The two brothers arranged for a sale of three ounces of morphine to a government informant, and when the supposed delivery was made in a Johnstown hotel by Roberto, the "buyer" turned over $225 in marked money, which had been given him by a government narcotic agent.

When Roberto was leaving the hotel he was arrested by Agent William T. Duffy and other officers, and the marked money found on him, according to the testimony. But the government agents also got a surprise. When they opened the package, turned over to them, they found no morphine, but only a few strips of cardboard.

The only testimony against Regina was that he had driven an automobile in which Roberto went to the hotel to meet the purchaser. The convicted men will be sentenced later.

PITTSBURGHER DIES IN CRASH

A Pittsburgher was killed late yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding with a companion collided with a Pittsburgh-Charleroi street car near Charleroi. The dead man was Robert Racklee. His companion was John Duch, of 116 Fourth street, Rankin. Duch was taken to the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital. Walter Pfeil, of Charleroi, driver of the auto, was uninjured.

James Spiller, 42, of 39 Chatham street, suffered a possible fracture of the skull when struck by an automobile driven, police said, by J. S. Johnson, 42, of 227 South Mathilda street, at Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue, late yesterday. He was taken to Mercy Hospital.

William C. Foley, 64, of 1107 Webster avenue, sustained a probable skull fracture when he walked against the side of an automobile at Oliver avenue and Wood street last night, police said. He also was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Louis Dowler, 2, of North Bessemer, received lacerations and bruises when an automobile driven by his father, R. L. Dowler, was struck by another car in the Boulevard of the Allies at Van Braam street, last night, police reported. The child was treated at Mercy Hospital. Police said the other machine failed to stop after the crash.

Joseph Postognack, 55, of Moon Run, was in Presbyterian Hospital today with fractures of the left arm, left leg and two ribs suffered when struck by an automobile in Steubenville pike, Robinson Township, yesterday.

Girl Disappears After Home Row

Miss Henrietta Bigger, 20, of 804 Hillsboro street, disappeared from her home at 2:30 a. m. today, following a quarrel with her father, according to a police report.

Police said the girl had been reprimanded by her father upon her return home. She was wearing a black party dress with white sleeves, police were informed.

Minehart Estate Willed to Widow

In a brief will, Ralph C. Minehart, of 143 Lincoln avenue, Bellevue, prominent Mason and founder of the Order of De Molay in Pennsylvania, left his entire estate of $57,500 to his widow, Mrs. Emily R. Minehart. She is named executor.

BOY SNATCHERS GET PURSE

Two boys between 13 and 15 seized the pocketbook of Mrs. R. W. Brannon, of 1243 Monterey street as she was walking in North avenue, near Resaca place, and fled with two diamond rings valued at $135 and $27 in cash.

A Negro snatched the purse of Beatrice Pasley, of 3314 Camp street. It contained $8.75.

A sneak thief entered the locker room of the Grill Restaurant, at 339 Fifth avenue, late yesterday and stole jewelry and cash valued at $115 from the locker of Raymond Kibler, an employe, of 1907 Forbes street.

AUTHOR VISITS PARENTS HERE

Edwin Prince Booth, professor of church history, School of Religious Education of University of Boston; author of "Martin Luther —Oak of Saxony," a recent publication, and a native of Pittsburgh, is here spending the Christmas season with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Booth, of 1675 Beechwood boulevard.

Prof. Booth received the degree of bachelor of sacred theology from Boston University in 1923 and after a year of post graduate study was awarded the Jacob Sleeper Fellowship for a year's study abroad. During the year he studied and tutored in Berlin, Rome, Paris and Oxford, specializing in church history.

His early education was received in public schools in New Castle and Charleroi. In 1920 he was graduated from Allegheny College. He married Miss Elizabeth Fehr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Fehr, of Aspinwall, and is a brother of Attorney William Wallace Booth and Dr. George Booth, of Pittsburgh, and Miss Helen C. Booth, teacher in the Fifth Avenue High School. He makes his home at Islington, Mass.

BISHOPS SCORE STERILIZATION

International News Service.

VIENNA, Dec. 22.—A pastoral letter attacking the Hitler government's sterilization program was issued by the Austrian Catholic bishops today.

The letter attacked race hatred and appealed to all Catholics in Austria to support Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, declaring the Nazi policies toward the church had not changed despite the recent concordat between Germany and the Vatican.

Perjurer Sentenced In Reichstag Blaze

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Perjury in the Reichstag fire trial in which he testified in favor of Wassil Taneff, one of the five defendants, today sent Rudolf Soenke, a former Communist, to three years imprisonment at hard labor.

Soenke was Taneff's Berlin landlord. His testimony was intended to show Taneff could not have been near the Reichstag on the night of February 27 when it was burned. The court which is trying Taneff and the four co-defendants is expected to give its verdict tomorrow.

Official—Pittsburgh 111

NO. 311.

AN ORDINANCE—Amending an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance regulating and restricting the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified uses and regulating and limiting the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected or altered, and regulating and determining the area of yards, courts and other open spaces in connection with buildings hereafter erected or altered, and establishing the boundaries of districts for the said purposes; conferring certain powers upon the Superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection; providing for a Board of Appeals; and imposing penalties," approved August 9, 1923, by changing the Zone Map, Sheet Z—N20—E15, so as to change from an "A" Residence Use and Fourth Area District to a Commercial Use and Fifth Area District all that certain property fronting on the westerly side of Forty-fifth street, beginning at a point 29.00 feet southwardly from the southerly line of Davison street and extending southwardly therefrom a distance of 22.00 feet and maintaining a uniform depth of 50.00 feet; being the front portion of Lot No. 2 in John Chislett, Jr., Plan.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That an ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance regulating and restricting the location of trades and industries and the location of buildings designed for specified uses and regulating and limiting the height and bulk of buildings hereafter erected or altered, and regulating and determining the area of yards, courts and other open spaces in connection with buildings hereafter erected or altered, and establishing the boundaries of districts for the said purposes; conferring certain powers upon the Superintendent of the Bureau of Building Inspection; providing for a Board of Appeals; and imposing penalties," approved August 9, 1923, and recorded in Ordinance Book, Vol. 34, page 556, shall be and the same is hereby amended by changing the Zone Map, Sheet Z—N20—E15, so as to change from an "A" Residence Use (U-4) and Fourth Area (A-4) District to a Commercial Use (U-3) and Fifth Area (A-5) District all that certain property fronting on the westerly side of Forty-fifth street, beginning at a point 29.00 feet southwardly from the southerly line of Davison street and extending southwardly therefrom a distance of 22.00 feet and maintaining a uniform depth of 50.00 feet; being the front portion of Lot No. 2 in John Chislett, Jr., Plan.

SECTION 2. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Passed in Council December 11, 1933.
Approved December 19, 1933.

NO. 312.

AN ORDINANCE — Providing for the purchase from Florence Townsend of a certain lot or piece of ground in the Twentieth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, located on Chartiers avenue, for Playground purposes, and providing for the payment of the purchase money thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the proper officers of the City of Pittsburgh be and they are hereby authorized and directed to purchase from Florence Townsend a certain lot or piece of ground in the Twentieth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, located on Chartiers avenue, for Playground purposes, the same being bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

ALL that certain lot or piece of ground situate in the Twentieth Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, County of Allegheny and State of Pennsylvania, being part of Lot "D," Purpart No. 3 in the Partition Plan of the Estate of Sidney H. Lorenz at No. 451 March Term, 1883, of the Court of Common Pleas No. 1, of record in Partition Docket, Volume 8, page 18, and more particularly bounded and described as follows, to-wit:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of Chartiers avenue distant south 38 degrees 15 minutes east 256.40 feet from the center of Lorenz avenue, at the line dividing Lot "E" of Purpart No. 1 and Lot "D" of Purpart No. 3 in said plan; thence extending along said center of Chartiers avenue south 38 degrees 15 minutes east, 105.95 feet to a point; thence continuing along said center of Chartiers avenue south 17 degrees 30 minutes east, 49.81 feet to a point; thence south 53 degrees 15 minutes west, 99.54 feet to a point on the southeasterly line of said Lot "D" in said plan; thence along same south 53 degrees 15 minutes west, 98.82 feet to a point on the southwesterly corner of said Lot "D;" thence along the southwesterly line of said Lot "D" north 44 degrees 50 minutes west, 145.67 feet to a point on the line dividing said Lot "E" of Purpart No. 1 and Lot "D" of Purpart No. 3 in said plan; thence along same north 51 degrees 45 minutes east, 233.47 feet to the place of beginning.

BEING part of same premises which Jacob Adolph, et ux., by deed dated November 12, 1920, and recorded in Deed Book, Volume 2103, page 537, conveyed to one Florence Townsend.

SECTION 2. Upon delivery of a General Warranty Deed by Florence Townsend conveying title in fee simple, free and clear of all encumbrances, in a form approved by the City Solicitor, the Mayor shall be and is hereby authorized and directed to issue and the City Controller to countersign a warrant in favor of Florence Townsend for thirteen thousand three hundred dollars ($13,300.00), together with the exoneration and satisfaction of record of all City taxes, as a full consideration of the said property and charge the same to Bond Fund No. 278, Playground Bonds, 1926.

SECTION 3. That any ordinance or part of ordinance, conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance, be and the same is hereby repealed, so far as the same affects this ordinance.

Passed in Council December 14, 1933.
Approved December 19, 1933.
JOHN S. HERRON, Mayor.

PROTESTS HOLD UP GARBAGE CONTRACT

The possible awarding of the North Side 1934 garbage and rubbish disposal contract to the Spiniello Construction Company, Inc., low bidders, is resulting in protests to Dr. William W. McFarland, health director.

Dr. McFarland said late yesterday protests have been made by township commissioners to the reported plans of Spiniello Construction Company to dispose of the garbage and rubbish at reduction plants in Penn and Collier Townships.

Penn and Collier Township Commissioners, Dr. McFarland said, object to the hauling of garbage and rubbish through the townships and also to additional incineration resulting, if the Spiniello firm receives the contract.

MUST HAVE LICENSE

Before the contract is awarded a license must be granted to the contractor by the County Commissioners. Under a state act, effective this year, "no municipality in counties affected by the act shall enter into a contract for the collection, transportation or disposal of its garbage with any person or municipality who or which has not secured proper license from the County Commissioners."

Dr. McFarland said that he will insist upon the license before awarding the contract. He also said that he is studying the status of the Spiniello company to determine if it is capable of carrying out the provisions of the contract. He expects to complete his study within the next two days.

MUCH LOWER COST

The bid submitted by the Spiniello company is $5.85 per ton for the disposal of both garbage and rubbish, or 42 cents per ton on garbage and 73 cents per ton on rubbish under the bid submitted by the Allegheny Garbage Company, present holders of the North Side contract.

On the basis of the Spiniello bid the city would save approximately $25,000 in 1934 in garbage and rubbish disposal on the North Side, according to St. Clair Cooper, chief clerk in the health department.

GUSKY PLAQUE PROPOSED

A memorial plaque to J. M. Gusky, most philanthropic man in the history of the county, in the opinion of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern, may soon adorn a corridor wall of the courthouse.

McGovern announced his intention of having the Gusky plaque made after the Commissioners had authorized requisition of three or four men to look up the history of the county's notables for similar memorials. The work is to be done under the CWA.

Praising Gusky, McGovern said:

"He gave to all creeds and races. Although very successful, he left no extensive estate because he gave so generously during his lifetime."

Gusky was proprietor of the old Gusky department store at Third avenue and old Market street. The Gusky orphanage was founded by his widow.

STATE RECORDS TO BE STUDIED

Plans for a state-wide inventory of county archives being undertaken as a part of the CWA program was to be discussed today by Dr. Solon J. Buck, director of the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, and Dr. Curtis W. Garrison, state archivist.

The historical society has been acting as the state's local representative in organizing the work.

Policeman Denies Being at Elks' Fete

Corner Policeman Leo Connell, stationed at North Highland avenue and Kirkwood street, today denied he had been a participant in festivities at the Allegheny Lodge of Elks that were interrupted by hoodlums Tuesday night. He blames some joking friend for giving his name to police as one of those who lost articles of clothing from the Elks checkroom when four hoodlums forced their way into it.

+ ON BROADWAY +

The Private Papers of a Reporter

I have watched so many little girls grow up on Broadway . . . Edith Babson, frinstance . . . She was so pretty . . . When she was a child of eleven I first met her with her mother at the N. V. A. Club—when I was serving my apprenticeship on a magazine—back in 1921 . . . The police told the reporters that Edith's last known act—before she jumped from the roof of her Greenwich Village home to her death—was to phone me at the office . . . I wish I could know in some way what she wanted to say . . . When she jumped—at 9:15 p. m., I was betting on "corners" with Charles L. at the Madison Sq. Garden bouts—and I remember, too, at about that time—I lost another bet and took the kidding of the lads, who made me laugh loud . . . And all the while a distressed little girl I had known for a dozen years—was trying to reach me! . . . Maybe if I had been at my desk, which I usually am at that time—I could have talked her out of destroying her lovely self . . . Poor thing . . . They say she was miserable because she lost her modeling job the day before—and that she had started a divorce action a few weeks ago—and she was broke and hungry . . . It's hard to believe the divorce stuff—she loved her husband very much, and he her—so they told me the last time I saw them ever so many weeks ago . . . I wish I hadn't gone to those fights.

Clara Bow's attorney and Jean Parker's, probably, will appreciate knowing that one of the Forty-second street honky-tonky girlesk joints displays photos of them along with the beefy Cleos of the show . . . I like J. C.'s definition of Love—"An audition for despair" . . . Somebody certainly out to be ashamed of himself in Tammany Hall, for the deal handed the 6,600 cops' widows—who won't get their pensions until after the new year arrives—a sour Christmas for the families of heroes who died in action. . . . What a lot of citizens probably do not know is that President Roosevelt himself takes care of at least a dozen families in New York State—the money coming out of his none too large salary . . . Soviet film producers are angling with Hollywood experts to come over and make a series of musical shorts around the Russ ballet—to be used as gentle U. S. propaganda . . . I hear that art students in Los Angeles are ogling a touring exhibition of nudies of various film stars. Most of the pictures were taken while the ladies were asleep at their sun baths—and by friends!

Mr. Woollcott, who has more fun twitting sappy names of products and shops in his magazine page every now and then, may add this to his list of ka-yute items: A company which is turning out toy animals has titled its products: "Ideal Beasties" . . . David Selznick, the youth who piloted the MGM studios while Irving Thalberg was Europing it—and who is still a mighty exec on that lot, has another distinction which should be noted . . . There have been six smash successes on the screen this year—and he is responsible for three of them! . . . The six include: "Dinner at Eight," "Dancing Lady," "Little Women," "Tugboat Annie" and the two Mae Westerns . . . David's trio of biggest money makers are the first three . . . True—"Little Women" is a Radio Company picture — but Selznick started production on it while he was with that studio. He shifted to Metro before it was finished and Merian C. Cooper's name is credited—not Selznick's . . . And here is something to cheer about. Mr. Cooper himself told his predecessor that the glory belongs to him—Selznick . . . Only a big man would say that—but Merian Cooper is like that.

There have been several travesties, burlesks and clown pieces done on me by such worthies as the late Ring Lardner, F. P. A., Norman Anthony, Milt Gross, Frank Sullivan, Westbrook Pegler and this and that librettist, playwright and scenarist. . . Not all of them were free from spleen—but many of them were funny. . . Ring Lardner's, a few years ago, was the best, I thought. . . . They all are in my files—and when I run across them every now and then—I can still get a laugh out of them. . . Only Pegler's heckling was fashioned to show what big clay tootsies I really have . . . He took off his coat and went to work on me. . . . Pegler, it appears, resented my ringing in the bride and the baby when I wrote pieces for the paper. . . . He argued that in a way it was like bringing Walda on "for bows"—and, come to think of it, it was. . . . I know just how fed up he must have been, at that. . . . I get a little "ick" in the middle when some writers waste my time with accounts of their dogs, cats, goldfish and other pets. . . But whenever I find my baby "good copy" I will, of course, patter about her—all of which reminds me of this story—Last Summer Walda and her pal, "Chopsie" Baer (daughter of Bugs Baer) were being bulldozed by other kids in Central Park. . . . "Chopsie," who is also six and a half, knew the power of the press. . . "I'll tell my daddy on you," she stormed, "He'll put your name in the paper!" . . . Walda was seized with an inspiration—she could top that one. . . "And I'll tell my daddy," she said, "and not only will he put your name in the paper—he'll put it on the radio, too!"

Rudy Vallee Making Film Record of His Career

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22.—Some celebrities write diaries, others autobiographies, but Rudy Vallee plans to leave a motion picture record of his life.

At least the crooner is now busily engaged in shooting Hollywood scenes to add to the reels he already has collected. These reels go back as far as Rudy's first trip to the movies. At a cost of $800, he had his entire picture, "The Vagabond Lover" reduced from a standard to a 16 millimeter film.

Mr. Vallee

He also has engaged a man to shoot scenes when he is working on the film version of George White's "Scandals" for Fox.

Some of the Vallee celluloid biography is in color. There are scenes, for instance, from the megaphone star's vacations at Kezar Lake in the Maine woods.

As for the women in the crooner's life—well, Alice Faye is represented by considerable footage.

The Sandra Shaw-Gary Cooper honeymoon will be the best-chaperoned on record. First, the bride's parents accompanied the newlyweds to Arizona and now Judge and Mrs. Cooper have left to join them. But everyone will be home in Hollywood in time for Christmas dinner.

* * *

Always the bests of friends, the Herbert Marshalls and the William O'Bryans are planning a novel Christmas celebration. Marshall is in Hollywood, appearing with Norma Shearer in "Rip Tide," and his wife, Edna Best, is in London with the baby. The O'Bryans are separated the same way, only he is in London and Elizabeth Allen is in Hollywood.

Miss Best

Consequently the two couples will console each other Christmas afternoon, the big feature of the celebration being a long distance telephone conversation to their spouses, with special time for Marshall to listen to the baby.

One of the most ususual of the holiday parties will be given by Sally Rand for all of the boys who have appeared with her in vaudeville. Those asked include the three Crosby brothers (no kin to Bing and Everett), Sally's brother Harold, Harvey Karles (Sally's former dance partner), Harold Prendergast, Red Hudson, Sam Brown, Perry Mansfield and Perk Lazell.

At one time, Sally traveled in an act with 12 boys. It was then she originated the fan dance which you'll see—if the censors aren't too mean—in Paramount's "Bolero."

Cameras and lights were taken to Joan Blondell's house yesterday to make the final scene for "I've Got Your Number." This was the only shot left when doctors sent Joan to the hospital for an appendicitis operation. Warners asked Dr. Louis Regan if the star could come to the studio, but he vetoed it for several weeks. As the script merely calls for a closeup of Joan and Pat O'Brien doing a clinch at her bedside in a hospital, the company decided to take the studio to the star.

Buster Crabbe is taking daily boxing lessons, so he can get a chance at a big role in Mae West's new picture, "It Ain't No Sin." One of the principal characters is a boxer . . . Most friends of Kay Francis were that surprised over the story of her separation. When she left here, she said it was to spend Christmas with Kenneth McKenna in New York . . . You've heard, of course, about the feud between Ricardo Cortez and Al Jolson. Well, one of the gifts Ric got at his pre-wedding shower, was a ham in blackface . . . Next year, Wallie Beery won't be so insistent about having a tremendous Christmas tree brought in from the mountains. He has spent six nights decorating it, and is only half through .

Odds and Ends

MY CALL for Santa Claus stories brought a number of yarns to this desk. Many of them were similar, however, and I could find but one that I considered worthy of publication. Here it is:

From Mrs. Lillian Griffiths, of Cleveland, Ohio, comes the tale of the youngster who had been given the Santa Claus build-up throughout the year. If he was a good boy, Santa would bring him so-and-so. If he told Santa what he wanted, maybe Santa would bring it to him. And so on and so forth.

Eventually, mamma took the youngster to one of the local department stores. There was Santa in all his glory, right in the center of the toy department. Both mamma and son walked over to him. Santa reached over and patted the boy's dome.

"Ah," he cooed, "what a fine little man we have here! And what would you like for Christmas, my lad?"

The boy stepped back and glared at Santa. Then he turned to his mother.

"How do you like that, mom?" he cried. "The bum never got my letter!"...

IN THE washroom in Moore's restaurant there is an attendant named Gaston Hernandez. Gaston is a very talkative gentleman, and never fails to discuss the topics of the day with his visitors. Since he is a Cuban who speaks English with a slight Greek dialect, however, it sometimes is a bit difficult to understand him.

This little fact has never curbed Mr. Hernandez's enthusiasm for a conversation. Whenever I see him I am assured of a few words about John McGraw, the Cuban revolution, the price of liquor, the efficiency of the modern floor mop, and the respective merits of Eddie Cantor and Al Jolson. Mr. Hernandez never fails me.

Last night he popped up with a new one. He discussed my recent travels, and assured me that he, too, had been in many strange ports throughout the world. Best of all, he said, he liked the city of Batavia, in Java. I regret that I cannot duplicate his accent for you.

"Boy, oh boy," he enthused. "That Batavia; he's some city! Boat pull in and I meet beautiful girl. She take me her house, give me all kind wine, and make love to me. I stay all day, and when I leave I get bill. And how much you think bill? Fifty cents American money!"

"Fifty cents!" I repeated kiddingly. "What did you want to throw your money around that way for?"

He shrugged his shoulders.

"I couldn't help it," he replied seriously. "I was drunk!"

* * *

"I ENJOYED your story," writes a head waiter who prefers to remain anonymous, "of the extra head waiter who found a valuable bracelet and decided to return it. His reward, as you pointed out, consisted of two cigars.

"Much the same thing happened to me a while ago, with the exception of the fact that my story had a different ending. The husband of the wife who lost her bracelet was the owner of a large racing stable. I returned the lost bracelet, insured incidentally for $14,000, and was thanked profusely for it.

"The husband took me to one side and told me that he wished to reward me for my honesty. He gave me the name of one of his horses, and told me that it would most certainly win the following day.

"Although I never bet on horses, I took his advise and plunged to the extent of $25 the following day. As so often happens in your columns—and in real life—the horse ran nowhere. So that my reward for returning the bracelet was actually a loss of $25.

"But that is not all. The horse ran again three days later and the owner was again in my place the previous night. Thinking that there had been some mistake on the other occasion, I asked the man if I should place another bet on the same horse. He told me to lay off this time because the horse didn't have a chance.

"And this time, at the odds of twenty to one, the horse won easily.!" . .

The Twentieth Century Club presented its chorol group yesterday afternoon in the cozy club lounge before a large audience. It is the only concert of the year by this choral body and their singing was nicely adapted to the spirit of the season. Anna Laura Cree conducted as heretofore and Helen Machette played accompaniments.

Mr. Lissfelt

The program was made entirely of Christmas songs, a fact that gives a program some monotony. Only because the singing was more lively than on former occasions and that the voices sounded far richer than before did it strike a note of happiness.

Cass Ward Whitney lent his good baritone to a group of carols and assisted the choral during the last songs.

Horse Is Hero In Fulton

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

A beautiful, intelligent horse is the hero, and bad men are the villains in "Smoky," a decidedly worth-while film in the Fulton. "Smoky" is the name of this horse, the names of the human principals in the picture being Victor Jory, Irene Bentley, Hank Mann and Frank Campeau. The incidental romance is portrayed by Jory, as a cowboy, and Miss Bentley, as a rancher's daughter.

The picture is based on a popular book of the same title by Will James, cowboy artist and author, and the continuity of the picture is broken occasionally, as this writer gives illuminating descriptions of the action for which no dialogue is possible.

Everybody should enjoy "Smoky," especially lovers of horses and children. While the atmosphere is western, it is not the customary shoot-em-up West of the screen that is illustrated, but the actual West as it is known to the hardy rancher and cowboy, reflected in the depiction of the life of a noble horse, from the day he is foaled until he almost has an inglorious finish at the slaughter house.

Incidental to that career is his schooling, his escape from a brutal thief, roaming of the range as an "outlaw," his rebelling as an animal unconquered by any "bronc" rider at many rodeos, and—near the last—laboring as an inglorious nag attached to a junk wagon, who pricks up his ears and starts to join a parade being held as the opening feature of a big rodeo. But eventually he gets the reward of a hero—restoration to the ranch, where there will be good care and proper feeding.

Don't let this description fool you—"Smoky" has much more punch, action and appeal than is indicated here. It will be shown last on Saturday night.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The special "good-will-to-men" spirit associated to Christmastide that will be reflected in the Walter Hampden engagement in the Nixon next week, opening with "Richelieu" Monday night, will come with the presentation of "The Servant in the House." This is described as a human allegory through which its central character moves quietly and serenely, as an embodiment of the spirit that heals all wounds, calms all fears, solaces all troubled souls. Mr. Hampden has revived this part of Manson only occasionally in the more than 20 years that have elapsed since he made his first American hit in it. Charles Rann Kennedy wrote the play, which will be staged Tuesday and Friday nights. The matinees of next week will be "Richelieu," Wednesday, and "Macbeth," Saturday, the only performance of the latter play which Mr. Hampden is playing for the first time in a dozen years.

Fined $50 for Failing To 'Aid' Lamp Post

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Thomas P. Herbert, Negro, brought into court after a traffic mishap, heard himself charged with "failing to stop and lend assistance"—to a lamp post.

He was fined $50 or 50 days in jail, but only after Judge John P. McMahon quieted tittering observers, and the charge was changed to failing to stop and make known identity after an accident involving property damage. The clerk who made out the papers had obtained the wrong blank.

Bandits Gets $30 In Store Holdup

Two armed men escaped with $30 after locking James Izislin, manager, and Andrew Vetter, of 320 Fram street, a customer, in a back room in a chain store at 571 Brushton avenue, late yesterday, police reported.

Muni and Wife Sued Over Dogs' Damage

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A suit for $9,100 was filed yesterday against Paul Muni and his wife by Mrs. Hattie Margolies, who said dogs owned by the film actor had damaged furnishings in a house they had rented from her.

Firemen's League Backs 'Clean' Voting

Legislation for permanent registration, abolition of paid poll [illegible] and restraining city em- ployes from working at the polls was indorsed last night by the Firemen's Independent Progressive League. The league is composed of volunteer, veteran and paid firemen of the county.

A special resolution commended the election laws conference for sponsoring these measures and called upon every member of the Legislature to support "clean" elections.

AUTO INDUSTRY EXPERT JOINS BIG MAGAZINE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Announcement of the appointment of Herbert J. C. Henderson, of Detroit, as vice president of the American Weekly magazine, with headquarters in Chicago, was made from the executive offices of that publication here today.

Henderson will assume his new duties on January 1. He goes into the magazine field from the Fisher Body Corporation, where he has been director of advertising and service for the last seven years. Henderson went to Fisher Body from the Ford Motor Company, where he had been sales manager of the Lincoln car division.

His experience in the automobile industry includes executive work in every phase of manufacture, distribution and advertising. He has been salesman, dealer and branch manager.

One of Henderson's notable successes at Fisher Body was the upbuilding of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild which he originated three years ago. This is a permanent foundation for the promotion of craft spirit and excellence among boys of high school age. More than 750,000 youths are enrolled in it now, and thousands annually compete for the guild awards of university scholarships, valued at more than $50,000.

Henderson is a native of Chicago, and it is a coincidence that after his career in the automobile industry he should be taking up quarters within three blocks of the house where he was born. Said W. A. Fisher, president of the Fisher Body Corporation:

"Henderson's association with us has been constructive at all times and he leaves us with our best wishes for continued success in his new undertaking."

COUPLE SLAIN BY BANDIT

International News Service.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 22.—Charles J. Abeln, 44, president of a chain of local tobacco and cigar stores, and his wife, Mrs. Anna Abeln, 42, were shot to death today by a bandit who made a futile attempt to rob Abeln of more than $2,000 in store receipts.

Two police officers attracted by gunfire gave chase to the slayer who escaped. Abeln fired once at his slayer before he succumbed to four bullet wounds.

Mrs. Abeln, who was dead before she reached a hospital, had been shot through the back of the neck, the bullet emerging near the left chest.

Junior Patrol

Boy, oh, boy, fellows, Christmas is rushing up on us so fast now we can feel the breath of old Santa Claus on the back of our necks!

We'll be glad when he catches up with us—Monday—but we all have a lot to do yet. We are not forgetting that there are many families who are going to be unhappy Christmas unless we help. And the Toy Mission tells us that they don't have enough toys to go around this Christmas.

Did you read Junior's speech in the paper the other day, fellows?

He asked every Junior Patrol member who could afford it, to get some extra toys, and good things to eat this Christmas, and then to take them to people in your neighborhood who aren't going to have a merry Christmas.

Here's the first letter today from Billy Lightbody, of Freeport, Pa., and he sends a beautiful Christmas card to wish us a Merry Christmas, too!

"Enclosed is a pledge for a new membership badge. I lost mine at school and wish to have another one.

"Our club cannot play over the radio yet as we live far away and have no way of getting to Pittsburgh just now. Maybe we can arrange to play sometime this coming summer when we will not be so busy with our school and all.

"The members of our club are arranging to have a Christmas party which I hope will be a success. The instrument (guitar) which I play belongs to my brother, but I hope to have one of my own some day. I will send a picture of the orchestra boys with their instrument in my next letter."

Okay, Billy, we will be looking for it.

And now here's a letter from Kenneth Miller, of 713 Hasting street, Pittsburgh, who writes:

"Me and my family give to the poor and make them happy. I obey the rules you have. We have a club in our back yard. And we do good things. I hope Junior and his pals have a Merry Christmas."

Thank you, Kenneth. Just remember that to get a new badge you have to send a pledge. Your brother, the captain, should have an armband. Has he 10 members in your patrol, who've sent pledges?

The long-distance member today is Robert Straus, of 263 Queenston road, Cleveland, O. Bob goes to the Canterbury School. Tell everybody in your town a Merry Christmas for us, will you, Bob? And a Happy New Year!

Slav Varsity Club Will Dance Jan. 12

Diana Vujnovic of 3947 Brownsville Road, Overbrook, has been named general chairman for the annual winter dance of the Yugoslav University Club, January 12 in Webster Hall. Committee members who will aid her include William Potter, Katherine Zeleznak, Nellie Vujnovic, Anthony Tomasic, and Fabian Mihelic.

HEROISM WINS BOY PAROLE

Heroism of Earl Williams, 17, of 93 Wyoming street, won him a parole from Judge Sylvester J. Snee.

Williams pleaded guilty to stealing the automobile of Dr. N. E. Erwin, dentist, of 1835 Boggs avenue, December 11, in company with another youth.

The court was told that two months ago Williams saved the life of a girl who jumped into the Hudson River near New York in an attempt to end her life, and that he had been recommended for a Carnegie nero medal.

DENY RANSOM BY LIVERMORE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Federal authorities said today their investigation into the 24-hour disappearance of Jesse L. Livermore, Wall Street operator, is closed and that published reports that he might have been kidnaped and paid a ransom are "absurd."

When asked concerning reports that Livermore might have been a victim of kidnapers, Department of Justice agents said:

"It's news to us. So far as we are concerned the case is closed."

Livermore disappeared Tuesday and returned home yesterday. He remained in bed today.

His wife attributed his disappearance to a temporary lapse of memory.

Rich Broker's Wife Plunges to Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Clad in flimsy negligee, Mrs. Elizabeth Billings, 29, wealthy broker's wife, plunged to death yesterday from a window of their fashionable third floor apartment off Fifth avenue.

Sleuths Free Man In Holdup Hearing

Sam Talenfield, 27, of 5494 Hays street, who was arrested as a holdup suspect by city detectives more than a month ago, was discharged by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg at a hearing in Central Police Court today when arresting officers testified they had no evidence to warrant holding him. City Detective John Dean asked that Talenfield be released.

WIFE 'LONELY,' ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Phyllis S. Haines, of 119 Jefferson street, Mt. Lebanon, had a lonesome married life, she told Judge Ralph H. Smith at the hearing of her divorce suit against Howard R. Haines today.

She said:

"He was a salesman and didn't come home as a rule until early morning. When he did stay at home he would go right to bed after eating."

He also gambled, and finally deserted her, she said. They were married February 8, 1921.

MUSEUM GETS LINDY PLANE

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The low-winged monoplane in which Charles and Anne Lindbergh visited five continents has found a permanent resting place in the American Museum of Natural History.

After January 1 it will be the central exhibit in the museum's new hall of ocean life. Along with the plane will be all the equipment used by the Lindberghs in their recent five-month exploratory flight, including everything from electrically heated flying clothes to tropical sun helmets.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh presented the plane unexpectedly to the museum yesterday. F. Trubee Davison, president of the museum, in accepting it, said the plane was "of rare historic value."

There is another Lindbergh plane on exhibit in a museum. It is the famous Spirit of St. Louis, in which Col. Lindbergh made his epic flight from New York to Paris. It is in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

AUTOISTS TOLD OBLIGATIONS OF NEW LAW

The new financial responsibility law for automobile owners and drivers will be effective January 1 in Pennsylvania. The Sun-Telegraph has obtained a resume of the law from the State Department of Revenue and the Pittsburgh Motor Club.

The following are the first of a series of questions and answers designed to clarify the requirements.

Q—If someone told you it would be necessary, after January 1, 1934, to carry automobile insurance, what would you reply?

A—Automobile insurance will not be compulsory in Pennsylvania. In fact, the law is referred to as the Financial Responsibility Act, which does not imply that insurance must be carried. Proof of financial responsibility simply means that individuals must be able to pay damages, resulting from motor vehicle accidents. Whether this is done by insurance or not is unimportant.

Q—When does an individual know if he has to furnish proof of financial responsibility?

A—An individual will not be required to furnish proof of financial responsibility until notified by this department. It will be advisable, however, for every operator to familiarize himself with the provision of the act so as to avoid this necessity.

Q—How can financial responsibility be shown to the Secretary of Revenue?

A—In these ways:

(a) A certificate stating that insurance has been written to comply with this act.

(b) Surety bond.

(c) Cash in the amount of $11,000.

Q—If a person is covered by the usual type of automobile insurance on the first of January, 1934, would it not be necessary for him to do anything in order to furnish proof of financial responsibility?

A—Not unless he comes within the provisions of this act because of suspension of his license, accident record, or unsatisfied judgments, will it be necessary for him to make a change in his insurance policy. If, however, he should hove to file proof of financial responsibility, his insurance company should be contacted to have a proper policy written or his old policy endorsed so that a certificate of financial responsibility can be forwarded to the Secretary of Revenue.

Q—Where may a certificate of insurance be filed?

A—With the Secretary of Revenue. Usually, insurance agents on writing policies in compliance with this Act will mail a certificate direct to Harrisburg. No restoration of privileges will be accorded to an individual until a satisfactory certificate of insurance or other form of proof has been received by the Secretary of Revenue.

Q—Shall operators be permitted to file certificates of insurance even though they may not come under the provisions of the Act?

A—No. The Secretary of Revenue will not accept any certificates unless operators are required to file them. Any effort on the part of agents to sell insurance with a promise that a certificate can and will be placed on file in Harrisburg even though the party is not required to furnish one, is a misrepresentation.

Q—Does the commonwealth plan to write any automobile insurance in connection with the Financial Responsibility Act?

A—No. The commonwealth will not engage in the insurance business as far as this act is concerned, that function being designated to the authorized insurance companies. As a matter of fact, insurance is not absolutely necessary for furnishing proof of financial responsibility. Proof can be furnished in two other ways, viz., surety bond or cash.

Q—Does this act cover only the operators of motor vehicles?

A—The act is primarily designed to affect operators, but in case of unsatisfied judgments, owner may also be restricted by not being permited to register their vehicles. That is, if they allow judgment in excess of $200, because of an automobile accident, to remain unsatisfied for 15 days, they must then show proof of financial responsibility or their registrations and operator's licenses will be suspended. In addition to this, they must pay the judgment in full.

SILVER COINAGE ORDER TILTS STOCKS

ounce. Dollars have been firming despite official purchases by the United States abroad, estimated at around 50 million dollars. Exchanged dealers thought the silver program had had some psychological effect, resulting in renewed dollar depreciation.

PRICE-LIFTING

The general impression in the financial community was that the inclusion of silver in the administration's monetary policy constituted another link in the chain which Washington has been endeavoring to forge for the lifting of home prices.

It was pointed out, however, that proponents of aid for silver have long contended that higher levels for the white metal would improve purchasing power of the vast populations which use silver, notably the people of India and China. Thus the reaction in the Far East to the step became a matter of wide interest.

Program Aimed at Raising Commodity Prices

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The government today re-enforced its monetary program aimed toward higher commodity prices, opening federal mints for silver coinage and continuing its offer of $34.06 an ounce for domestic gold.

By President Roosevelts' order, newly-produced silver was worth 64½ cents an ounce at the mint if half were surrendered to the Treasury. The plan was to absorb at least 24,421,410 ounces of silver annually under the London agreement that lasts until December 1, 1937.

Gold buying progressed, meanwhile, with the same evidences of heavy foreign purchases which have marked the plan during December. The RFC increased its gold fund another 25 million dollars to 100 million dollars. There were indications 60 million dollars had been spent, but only $16,976,000 domestically.

GOLD PRICE UNMOVED

Announcement of silver coinage left the gold price unmoved today, a fifth repetition of the peak figure reached today. London's bar gold value was $32.07 on sterling's opening exchange value of $5.08 to the pound.

The mints opened to silver at a time when the Treasury held $506,732,000 silver dollars against which were outstanding $489,265,000 in silver certificates and $1,195,000 in Treasury notes of 1890. There were $16,271,000 silver dollars in the Treasury's general fund.

Another development in the financial picture was an unexpected meeting in the office of Governor Eugene Black, of the Federal Reserve board, of Reserve bank governors from all the nearby banks. It could not be ascertained immediately what was under consideration, but apparently the only governors absent from the meeting were those too distant from Washington to get here.

Throughout the mining West, President Roosevelt's ratification of the silver agreement and simultaneous command to the mints to coin silver, were received jubilantly.

Bombay Lukewarm To U. S. Action

BOMBAY, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's announcement that the United States would purchase silver was accorded a lukewarm reception here today. Some quarters held the action was a step forward to higher commodity prices and others said the United States' gold prices had not affected the world price of gold and the silver proposals likely would suffer the same fate.

The silver market, which was recently seven rupees (one rupee is worth 38 cents) per 100 tolas—37½ ounces—and below the silver parity in London, opened this morning one rupee higher on covering by short traders.

There appeared to be no disposition to increase the buying pending a lead from London.

Shanghai Greets News By Selling Dollars

SHANGHAI, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's ratification of the London silver agreement resulted in further sharp slumps in the United States dollar on the local exchange market today.

Speculators were heavily short, selling American dollars in anticipation of further silver rises.

It was considered unlikely that China would generally welcome a substantial rise in silver, due to the fact that imports exceed exports.

Silver Coinage Plan Acclaimed by Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—President Roosevelt's plan to purchase silver at 64½ cents an ounce was hailed generally today as a stimulant to all forms of business and industry in Utah. The state leads the nation in silver production with an annual output ranging between seven million and 14 million ounces.

Mining leaders said the program would reopen many silver mines in the state with resultant heavy employment and increased wages and dividends.

Yellow Peril Fear Stressed by Wheeler

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Fears of a yellow peril were further stressed today by Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.), of Montana, as he discussed President Roosevelt's silver proclamation.

The executive's order was a step in the right direction, Wheeler observed but only the remonetization of silver will enable the American business man to fight off the industrial competition in Japan and other exporters of the Far East.

Roosevelt Silver Proclamation Opens Mints for New Coinage

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Following is the text of President Roosevelt's statement and proclamation issued last night in connection with the ratification of the London Silver Agreement:

THE STATEMENT

The text of the Presidential statement follows:

Under the clear authority granted to me by the last session of the Congress, I have today, by proclamation, proceeded to ratify the London agreement with regard to silver, which has already been put into effect by the Government of India, and which I understand other nations concerned are about to act on.

This proclamation, in accordance with the act of Congress, opens our mints to the coinage of standard silver dollars from silver hereafter produced in the United States or its possessions, subject to the depositors of such silver surrendering to the government one-half of it as seigniorage and to cover all usual charges and expenses.

The dollars coined from half of such newly mined silver will be returned to the depositor. The half surrendered to the government will be retained in the Treasury.

66 GOVERNMENTS AGREE

It will be remembered that at the London conference 66 governments unanimously adopted the silver resolution proposed by our government, providing in substance that these governments would refrain from the policy and practice of melting up and debasing silver coins; that they would replace low-valued paper money with silver coins, and that they would not enact legislation that would depreciate the value of silver in the world market.

This resolution, however, was contingent upon an agreement between the governments of those countries producing large quantities of silver and the governments of those countries holding or using large quantities, looking to the elimination of an unnatural oversupply of silver on the markets of the world.

This agreement, of course, was for the purpose of allowing demand and supply to govern the price of silver by the limitation and neutralization of this over-supply derived from the melting up of silver coins.

INDIA'S POWERS

India had the power to dispose of, on the markets of the world, at any time, and at any price, hundreds of millions of ounces of silver.

In fact, India had the power and capacity to dump silver derived from the melting up of Indian silver coins in an amount equal to the world's production from the mines—for the period of two years. This power and the uncertainty attending its execution was destructive of the value and stability of silver throughout the world.

China agreed, during the period of four years commencing January 1, 1934 and ending January 1, 1938, not to permit the sale of any silver derived from the debasing or melting up of silver coins.

India agreed to limit the sales of such silver to a maximum of 35 million ounces annually during such period and Spain agreed not to sell in excess of five million ounces of such silver annually during such period. After such sales, these governments are to be bound by the general resolution adopted at the London conference to which I have heretofore referred.

UNITED STATES LIMIT

As a condition of the agreement by China, India and Spain, however, it was required that Australia, Canada, Mexico, Peru, and the United States should take silver from the production of their respective mines to the gross amount of 35 million ounces annually for such period of four years.

The United States, by reason of its large population and its large silver production, agreed to take from its mines annually at least 24,421,410 ounces of silver during such period.

The production of the United States for 1932 was approximately 24 million ounces of silver.

THE PROCLAMATION

The text of the President's proclamation follows:

WHEREAS, by Paragraph (2) of Section 43, Title III, of the Act of Congress, approved May 12, 1933 (Public No. 10), the President is authorized "by proclamation to fix the weight of the gold dollar in grains nine-tenths fine and also to fix the weight of the silver dollar in grains nine-tenths fine at a definite fixed ratio in relation to the gold dollar at such amounts as he finds necessary from his investigation to stabilize domestic prices or to protect the foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to provide for the unlimited coinage of such gold and silver at the ratio so fixed; and

WHEREAS, from investigations made by me, I find it necessary, in aid of the stabilization of domestic prices and in accordance with the policy and program authorized by Congress, which are now being administered, and to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, that the price of silver be enhanced and stabilized; and

WHEREAS, a resolution presented by the delegation of the United States of America was unanimously adopted at the World Economic and Monetary Conference in London July 20, 1933, by the representatives of 66 governments, which in substance provided that said governments will abandon the policy and practice of melting up or debasing silver coins; that low valued silver currency be replaced with silver coins and that no legislation should be enacted that will depreciate the value of silver; and

SEPARATE AGREEMENT

Whereas, a separate and supplemental agreement was entered into, at the instance of the representatives of the United States, between China, India and Spain, the holders and users of large quantities of silver, on the one hand, and Australia, Canada, Mexico, Peru and the United States on the other hand, as the chief producers of silver, wherein China agreed not to dispose of any silver derived from the melting up or debasement of silver coins, and India agreed not to dispose of over 35 million ounces of silver per annul during a period of four years commencing January 1, 1934, and Spain agreed not to dispose of over five million ounces of silver annually during said period, and both of said governments agreed that at the end of said period of four years they would then subject themselves to the general resolution adopted at the London Conference, and in consideration of such limitation it was agreed that the governments of the five prodcing countries would each absorb from the mines in their respective countries a certain amount of silver, the total amount to be absorbed by said producing countries being 35 million ounces per annum during the four years commencing the 1st day of January, 1934; that such silver so absorbed would be retained in each of said respective countries for said period of four years, to be used for coinage purposes or as reserves for currency, or to otherwise be retained and kept off the world market during such period of time, it being understood that of the 35 million ounces the United States was to absorb annually at least 24,421,410 ounces of the silver produced in the United States during such period of time.

CITES CO-OPERATION

Now, therefore, finding it proper to co-operate with other governments and necessary to assist in increasing and stabilizing domestic prices, to augment the purchasing power of peoples in silver-using countries, to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, and to carry out the understanding between the 66 governments that adopted the resolution hereinbefore referred to; by virtue of the power in me vested by the act of Congress above cited, the other legislation designed for national recovery, and by virtue of all other authority in me vested;

I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do proclaim and direct that each United States coinage mint shall receive for coinage into standard silver dollars any silver which such mint, subject to regulations prescribed hereinunder by the Secretary of the Treasury, is satisfied has been mined, subsequently to the date of this proclamation, from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof.

The director of the mint, with the voluntary consent of the owner, shall deduct and retain of such silver so received 50 per cent as seigniorage and for services performed by the Government of the United States relative to the coinage and delivery of silved dollars.

The balance of such silver so received, that is, 50 per cent thereof, shall be coined into standard silver dollars and the same, or an equal number of other standard silver dollars, shall be delivered to the owner or depositor of such silver.

The 50 per cent of such silver so deducted shall be retained as bullion by the Treasury and shall not be disposed of prior to the 31st day of December, 1937, except for coining into United States coins.

SECRETARY TO REGULATE

The Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to prescribe regulations to carry out the purposes of this proclamation. Such regulations shall contain provisions substantially similar to the provisions contained in the regulations made pursuant to the act of Congress, approved April 23, 1918 (40 statutes at large, page 535), known as the Pittman act, with such changes as he shall determine prescribing how silver mined, subsequently to the date of this proclamation from natural deposits in the United States or any place subject to the jurisdiction thereof, shall be identified.

This proclamation shall remain in force and effect until the 31st day of December, 1937, unless repealed or modified by act of Congress or by subsequent proclamation.

The present ratio in weight and fineness of the silver dollar to the gold dollar shall, for the purposes of this proclamation, be maintained until changed by further order or proclamation.

Notice is hereby given that I reserve the right by virtue of the authority vested in me to revoke or modify this proclamation as the interest of the United States may seem to require.

GRILL EX-SUITOR IN GIRL'S DEATH

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Police today were apparently without a clue to the slayer of Ethel Zuckerman, 18, bakery clerk, brutally beaten and stabbed to death in a South End bakeshop.

John Wheldon, father of six children, who had been in the store shortly before the girl's body was discovered by other customers, was questioned throughout yesterday by police officials and then released.

A search was instituted, meanwhile, for a young former suitor of the girl, who was known as Dicky Brown. Brown, whose real name is Nicholas Foti, 22, went to police headquarters last night when he learned he was being sought.

He admitted, police said, he formerly had kept company with the girl but asserted he was in his home Wednesday night playing cards.

Police, however, continued to question him.

PITTMAN SEES SILVER ACTION SPUR TRADE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—World-wide stabilization of silver was forecast today by Senator Key Pittman (Dem.), of Nevada, sponsor of the London silver agreement, as the result of President Roosevelt's ratification of the silver pact.

Hailing the President's action as a forerunner of credit expansion and as a boost in the purchasing power, in this country, of foreign nations, Senator Pittman predicted foreign imports of American products would be increased about 49 per cent.

He added:

"President Roosevelt has stabilized silver in the United States, and set an example that will result in stabilization throughout the world.

"The President has accomplished by this action the stabilization of the silver exchange money of the world which has been so anxiously sought and so sorely needed.

"Without ratification by the United States the silver agreement would have fallen. With this ratification, success of the agreement is certain.

"My personal opinion is that the result 'will be permanent stabilization of the exchange value of silver at around 64.5 cents an ounce as a minimum, until such time as its value may be increased by the further action of leading governments.

"If the result of this agreement stabilizes the world price of silver, as I am certain it will do, then it will increase the exchange value of silver money of China, India, Mexico and South America by about 49 per cent.

"I would expect then, imports from our country into those countries, under favorable trade agreements, to be increased by 49 per cent.

Mine Men in West Hail Silver Decision

BUTTE, Mont., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Montana mining men were thrilled today over announcement that the federal government would purchase silver at a price of 64½ cents. The action will permit reopening of scores of mines dormant from three to 40 years.

Zelienople Doctor's Crash Injuries Fatal

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 22.—Dr. Louis H. Gribble, 31, Zelienople physician, died today in Ellwood City Hospital. He was injured Saturday when his car struck a tree. He formerly was an interne at the Allegheny General and Magee hospitals, Pittsburgh.

Roosevelt Silver Order Booms Dictionaries

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt sent a lot of newspapermen scurrying to the dictionaries when, in making his silver announcement, he said half of the silver turned in to the federal government would be surrendered as "seingniorage and to cover all usual charges and expenses."

You can take your choice on "seigniorage" from Webster, to wit:

"Something claimed or taken by virtue of sovereign prerogative.

"Specifically: A charge or toll (over and above brassage) deducted from bullion brought to the mint to be coined; the difference between the cost of a mass of bullion and the value as from it."

SILVER COINAGE ACT EXPLAINED BY SENATOR

By SENATOR ELMER THOMAS
Democrat, of Oklahoma
(Written expressly for International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—President Roosevelt's proclamation ratifying the London agreement on silver and fixing the price for newly-mined domestic silver at 64.5 cents an ounce is a further use of the wide powers granted by Congress with a view to cheapening money and therefore raising the price level.

This proclamation is the beginning of a much wider use of silver for monetary purposes. I approve of all the steps the President is taking but I am afraid they are not sufficiently substantial to bring about the results hoped for.

The so-called inflation amendment gave the President five specific powers. They were:

1—To put money in circulation through open market operations of the Federal Reserve system. Under that power the administration has bought possibly two hundred million dollars worth of bonds.

2—To issue three thousand million dollars in Treasury notes to buy bonds. That power has not been used.

3—To devalue the gold dollar in weight. The President is in the process of doing that. He has the dollar devalued in effect about 35 per cent.

4—To accept silver from foreign nations in payment of their obligations. Under that power he has received about eleven million dollars in silver.

5—Remonetizing silver at a ratio fixed by himself. His proclamation of yesterday comes under that power.

The President, it will be seen, has used four of these five specific powers granted him.

Based upon that outline the President's silver policy will be approved by all who favor cheaper money, which means more money.

The policy as outlined is very limited, providing for the purchase of newly-mined silver of only about 24 million ounces a year. It is a step in the right direction, but will have little effect upon commodity prices and practically no effect upon bond prices.

BULLITT DANCES IN MOSCOW

Universal Service.

MOSCOW, Dec. 22.—American Ambassador William C. Bullitt danced four dances with Mme. Maxim Litvinoff yesterday and then entrained, with his daughter, Ann, on his way back to the United States. Father and daughter will celebrate Christmas in Paris.

Bullitt expects to return to Moscow with members of his embassy staff in February. Ann is disappointed that she cannot rejoin her father here until June. The ambassador wants her to finish her school term.

He left the farewell tea given him by Mme. Litvinoff, wife of Russia's foreign commissar, looking very tired, but well satisfied with results of his brief stay in the soviet.

He has investigated all possible buildings that might serve as an embassy, Bullitt said, and found it preferable to establish headquarters in a hotel for the time being. He added:

"It would seem desirable to build eventually, but that, of course is up to Congress."

11 Kinds of Money Circulating in U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's silver coinage program opens today at a time when 11 kinds of money aggregating 5,743 million dollars are in circulation in the United States. Here's the list:

Two thousand 998 million Federal Reserve notes, 913 million national bank notes, 394 million silver certificates, 311 million gold coin, 285 million United States notes, 269 million subsidiary silver, 217 million gold certificates, 206 million Federal Reserve bank notes, 117 million minor coin, 29 million silver dollars, one million Treasury notes of 1890.

MONEY IN USE INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Dec., 22.—(INS.)—Reflecting a continuation of the flow of additional money into the channels of commerce, currency circulation for the week ending December 20 increased 86 million dollars and was 119 million dollars higher than a years ago, the Federal Reserve Board announced today.

Circulation reached a total of $5,849,000,000. Officials said indications pointed to a return of money from hoards, the increase being attributable to the larger requirement for retail trade and other commercial purposes.

CITY OF PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA
NOTICE OF SALE OF BONDS

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the City Controller of the City of Pittsburgh until the 27th day of December, 1933, at 11:00 a. m., Eastern Standard Time, for the purchase of the following issues of bonds of said city:

$1,490,000.00 Public Work Relief Bonds, 1933, Series C.

All of said bonds will be dated as of December 1st, 1933, and will mature in twenty (20) equal installments on December 1st, of each year. Said bonds will bear interest at the rate of four and one-half (4½%) per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the first days of June and December in each year, without deduction for any taxes which may be levied thereon by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pursuant to any present or future law.

Said $1,490,000.00 Public Work Relief Bonds, 1933, Series C, are issued to provide funds for providing supplies, materials, equipment, labor and supervision (including engineering expenses) for the improvement of streets, parks, playgrounds, wharves, sewers, water lines, bridges, and other public properties of the City of Pittsburgh, the labor to be provided from among the unemployed, and were authorized by the Electors at an election held April 26th, 1932.

Official—Pittsburgh 111

Said bonds will be coupon bonds of the denomination of One Thousand ($1,000.00) Dollars, exchangeable at the optior of the holder at any time for a registered bond or bonds of the same maturity and of the denomination of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars or a multiple thereof not exceeding the aggregate principal amount of the coupon bond or bonds surrendered in exchange therefor.

Unless all bids are rejected the said bonds will be sold to the highest responsible bidder complying with the terms of sale. No bid for such bonds at less than par and accrued interest from the date of said bonds to the date of delivery will be accepted. The right is reserved to reject all bids and any bid not complying with the provisions hereof will be rejected. Any bidder may condition his bid upon the award to him of all or none of the bonds for which he bids.

All bidders are required to deposit a certified check drawn to the order of the City of Pittsburgh, on a National Bank or Trust Company for two per centum (2%) of the principal amount of bonds bid for. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be returned upon the award of the bonds. No interest will be allowed upon the amount of the check of the successful bidder and such check will be retained and applied in part payment for the bonds or to secure the City against any loss resulting from the failure of the bidder to comply with the terms of his bid.

Official—Pittsburgh 111

The City of Pittsburgh reserves the right to deliver to the successful bidder temporary typewritten or printed bonds, in the form of one temporary bond for each issue, or one bond for each maturity of each issue, which shall be substantially in the same form as the definitive bonds, with appropriate omissions, insertions and variations as may be required. Until their exchange for definitive coupon bonds, the temporary bonds shall be in full force and effect according to their terms, and shall bear interest from December 1st.

Proposals should be addressed to James P. Kerr, City Controller, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked on the outside "Proposal for Bonds." Bids must be made upon blank forms which may be obtained from the City Controller.

The successful bidder will be furnished with the opinion of Messrs. Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay, of Pittsburgh, that the bonds are binding and legal obligations of the City of Pittsburgh.

JAMES P. KERR,
City Controller.

Dated at Pittsburgh, Pa., December 7, 1933.

Jack Benny Patches Up Quarrel

By AIRCASTER

Jack Benny and his sponsors have patched up their quarrel and it has been agreed that Benny will take over entire supervision of the program for 17 more weeks, and spot himself as he pleases.

The sponsors were moved to make this concession by the published criticism of their intended change in the routine of the Sunday show.

But Benny lost out on one point. The spoofing romance between Mary Livingstone (Mrs. Benny) and Frank Parker is out.

Too many listeners thought it out of place for a married gal to be making up to a single guy, with hubby looking on. Thus the show loses what was its only love interest.

Strange how conventional the listeners are! But it's best that way!

* * *

FIVE TO ONE

They'll give you odds of five to one along the street that no major program will exclude its studio audience in 1934, despite the controversy between Cantor and Ed Wynn on the subject.

Cantor suddenly opposed the audience, and Wynn promptly defended it, in a curtain speech the other night.

It is Wynn's contention that by dressing in grotesque costumes he can be much funnier than in a dress suit, even to the audience outside.

Orchestra tunes from the sky will be one network way of celebrating Christmas.

Herbie Kay and his musicians, now playing in Chicago, will take off in an airplane in time enough to broadcast via CBS at 12:45 p. m. Monday.

As the machine soars over Chicago they intend to produce typical Christmas selections for a short wave relay to the ground connection with the chain.

* * *

SILENT NIGHT

Two of the country's favorite singers will offer the famous "Silent Night" on the NBC chain as part of the Christmas celebration.

On Christmas Eve at midnight, Mme. Schumann-Heink will make a special microphone appearance to sing it, while Lawrence Tibbett will include the song in his Christmas night program.

* * *

The special one-hour performance being arranged by CBS-WJAS for Sunday night, January 7, with Alexander Woollcott as master of ceremonies, will include five bands under the title, "New York Goes to the Auto Show."

The orchestras will be those of Claude Hopkins, Isham Jones, Leon Belasco, Little Jack Little and Freddie Rich.

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

To start the social whirl of the New Year there'll be a wedding on the very first day of 1934 which will unite one of the leading families of the South and one of Pittsburgh's oldest families.

I'm talking, of course, about the wedding of Edwina Pickrell, daughter of the Louisville (Ky.) Pickrells, and Joseph Wood Oliver, the Augustus K. Olivers' son. Shortly after Christmas the entire Oliver family will leave for the South.

Debutante Margaretta Oliver, sister of the bridegroom-to-be, will be one of the bridesmaids, and Harriet Fickes, Lucile Todd, Mrs. Harry Rafferty (Mary Margaret Marshall) will be Pittsburgh bridesmaids, too. Edwina, on her many visits here, has made many close friends, so it is not at all surprising that so many members of our younger set should be in her bridal party.

Other Members Of Bridal Party

Mrs. Edward Delaney, of Louisville, will be matron of honor, and Mary Ferris Lindenberger, also of Louisville, will be maid of honor.

William H. Oliver will be his brother's best man, and Pittsburgh ushers will be Henry Oliver, Jr., Harry W. Lafferty, Chauncey Hubbard, Alexander Blair and Leonard Mudge.

Robert Wilson, of Cincinnati, will be an usher, and as will the bride's brother, Otis Pickrell, Jr., and Stoddard Pickrell.

The wedding's to take place New Year's Day in Calvary Church with a reception to follow in the Pickrell home.

Two Buds to Make Bows This Evening

Now for a bit of debutante news—tonight the John Blair Suttons will present Mr. Sutton's daughter, charming young Mary Ormsby Sutton, at a dinner dance at the Allegheny Country Club, and later in the evening the William K. Robinsons will present their rogueish daughter, Peggy, at a ball in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

John R. Divens, Jr., will arrive from Harvard today to spend the holidays with his parents, the John R. Divens, of South Linden avenue.

Tropical Setting For Dinner Dance

The Pittsburgh Golf Club was transformed into a brilliant tropical setting last night with smilax and poinsettias and ferns entwining the balcony railing of the ballroom. And red and white flowers—red roses and white snapdragons—decked the tables for the dinner.

All this description is of the decorations at the dinner-dance the John G. Frazers gave last night in the Pittsburgh Golf Club with covers laid for 250 guests.

Season's Debutantes Guests of Honor

The guests of honor were debs Margaret Robinson, Margery Hillman, Florence Willock and Mary Edwards.

Then most of the guests motored from the golf club later in the evening to the Fox Chapel Golf Club for the dance Ernest Hillman gave for his debutante nieces, Florence Willock and Margery Hillman. Again red and green Christmasy decorations, of which we can't have too many now, made the clubhouse festive.

Men Going to Tea—Tea-Dance, of Course

Men are going to go to a tea Monday—a tea dance, of course. The Neill S. Browns III, of Shields, are giving the tea-dance in the Edgeworth Club Monday afternoon to present their daughter, Ann Howard Brown. And all the men home from college will be tea-dancing that day.

Suzanne White, who, with her parents, the Charles Mason Whites, of Akron, is visiting the Browns over the week-end, will be one of the debutante's aides, and so will be Marnie Hodge, Louise Collier, Dorothy Clark, Frances Frampton, Gretchen Lappe and Barbara Verner.

Inroads Made on State Yule Greens Deplored By Mrs. S. D. Pearson

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Mrs. S. D. Pearson, of New Castle, district chairman of conservation for the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, admits that she is "rabid" on the subject of Christmas decorations, particularly outdoor ones. And no wonder!

For years, Mrs. Pearson says, holly and ground pine and laurel have been used at Christmas with such prodigality that today they are threatened with complete destruction.

Nature has penalized Pennsylvanians for their ruthless waste, she adds, and where once Penn's Woods were carpeted with mosses and trailing pines, these can be found now only in a few protected areas. It will be many years before there is again such a stand of native greens as could have been found even 25 years ago.

Mrs. Pearson calls attention to the fact that hemlock being the state tree and the laurel, the state flower, these are excluded from use in decorating and she suggests that they be grown more generally. Both can be grown on small property if given some shade and acid soil. Holly is even less exacting; it will grow in any backyard equally well in sun or shade, in clay, sand or gravel and in locations that are either wet or dry. The conservation chairman further calls attention to a pamphlet which the Department of Agriculture has published on the commercial growing of holly on unproductive farm lands.

Ground pine, now, will resent moving and will not grow under city conditions, she says, and she warns against gathering greens without permission of owners, for Pennsylvania's trespass law is active and carries a heavy penalty.

Concerning illuminated outdoor trees, Mrs. Pearson begs it be done with restraint. She pronounces "little short of sacrilege" a blue spruce garish with high-powered colored lights. Trimmed with small lights, frosted or blue ones, or with a single softly-glowing star poised at the very tip end it becomes an indescribably beautiful thing, the illusion of light rather than the fact of light should be created and it should be remembered that an illuminated Christmas tree does not mean competition with a carnival or street fair.

Another thing on which Mrs. Pearson has her very definite mind made up is that wreaths should be hung on the outside, for, she says, just as the tree in the home is the symbol of peace, joy and goodwill, so the wreath on the door is "the outward and visible sign" of that "inward and spiritual grace."

Auxiliary Fills Stockings for Poor Tots

Members of the Women's Auxiliary, assisted by a number of young women, some of them members of the Family Welfare staff of the association are busy today filling stockings for hundreds of poor little boys and girls whose names and addresses the Association for the Improvement of the Poor has on its long list—youngsters who, without this service, would not know "the joy of a toy" on Christmas morning.

Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, a member of the Women's Auxiliary Board, is supplying the many things, such as candy, nuts and toys, that go to fill a Christmas stocking.

In addition to the stockings full of good things to eat, there will be Christmas presents, such as carts for boys and dolls for girls and wearing apparel for parents. Hundreds of pathetic letters, appealing for "just a toy for my little boy" or "just a doll for my little girl" have been received by the association from parents, many of whom have never before appealed for help at Christmas.

In the four restaurants of the association on Christmas Day, hundreds of men, boys and women will be fed turkey dinners and at night there will be special Christmas programs in the Duquesne way and Webster avenue buildings and in the Boys' Home, Liverpool street, North Side.

Charleroi Girl's Engagement Announced

Mrs. Louis Collins, of Charleroi, has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Eleanor Violet Collins to Maurice Waldemar Lowell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Waldemar Levine, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Miss Collins attended the University of Wisconsin and her fiance is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin law school. He is now a member of the Eva Le Gallienne Civic Repertory Theater Company.

Alpha Epsilon Phi Will Give Breakfast Dance

The active chapter of Alpha Epsilon Phi, social sorority of the University of Pittsburgh, will give a formal breakfast dance in the Spanish room of the Hotel Schenley tonight from 10 o'clock until 1 o'clock, cabaret style.

Alumnae Chapter will be guests of the active chapter. Miss Sylvia Lauter and Miss Rhea Colker are in charge of the arrangements.

Alpha Epsilon Dance To Be Given Thursday

The Alpha Epsilon's annual Christmas dance will be held in the Edgewood Country Club on Thursday. On the committee are Miss Nancy Langfitt, chairman; Miss Mary Jane McCutcheon, Miss Beota Pennock, Miss Jane Gracey and Miss Jean Brenner. Members of the sorority include students of the Winchester, Ellis, Thurston and Peabody schools.

Notre Dame Club to Give Ball New Year's Day

The Notre Dame Club of Western Pennsylvania will hold its annual New Year's Day ball in the Pittsburgh Field Club the night of January 1, and will be the tenth annual ball. John C. Sheedy is chairman.

Jewish War Veterans Plan New Year's Dance

The Jewish War Veterans of Pittsburgh are sponsoring a New Year's Eve celebration to be held for members of Post No. 49 in McDougall's ballroom, Shady and Penn avenues, East Liberty, December 31.

Greensburg Cadet, Eastern Girl Betrothed

Still another betrothal is being made known during the holiday season, that of Miss Anne Booker Mallory, daughter of Lieut. Com. and Mrs. Charles King Mallory, United States Navy, of New York, formerly of Washington, to Cadet Peter J. Kopcsak, of Greensburg.

Miss Mallory is descended from a long line of distinguished Southern ancestors, among whom was Sir George Yeardley, early colonial governor of Virginia, and Thomas Wythe, grandfather of George Wythe, a signer of the Declaration of Independence. She attended Mlle. Maret's French School, the National Cathedral School and the Georgetown Convent, Washington.

Cadet Kopcsak will be graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in June. The wedding will take place soon after his graduation.

University School Works Until Saturday

There are no pre-Christmas parties or plays at the University School. It is all study and classroom work right up to the time of the closing of the school for the holidays this Saturday. So the University School is the last of all local schools, private or public, to fold up books for the Christmas vacation.

Every girl and boy enrolled in the school is a candidate for admission to some college, university or technical school. Headmaster Guy H. Baskerville called the attention of the students to the very high standard of scholarship always maintained at the school proved by the all-time record of 98 per cent success of the students presenting themselves for the college entrance board examinations.

The present student body at once resolved to maintain that standard and agreed enthusiastically to the schedule that keeps them at their desks until the day before Christmas Eve.

Former students of the school, now attending college, are returning home for the holidays and reports, from all higher institutions where University School graduates are enrolled, show that the University School boys and girls are upholding the honor of their prep school in college scholarship.

Lissfelt Turns Mimic At Press Club Dinner

If Fred Lissfelt ever grows weary of being a musician and critic he will find a new field of his own creation waiting to receive him. As raconteur and mimic, Mr. Lissfelt made his debut last night at the Christmas dinner of the Women's Press Club in the College Club.

He gave what for want of a better name were called "imitations," but they were in reality bits of histrionism, always intensely interesting, sometimes amusing, sometimes moving, lifted out of his own life as soldier, musician, teacher and critic. There were Schumann-Heink, Lilli Lehmann among the many, and even a "local" or two, all done with such artistry and verisimilitude as to make them readily recognizable.

Henry Harris and Mrs. Lissfelt were the club's honor guests, too, and at Mr. Lissfelt's request Mr. Harris played a piano number or two with the brilliance and warmth that always characterize his work.

Miss Bernice Shine was chairman of the dinner, which was a beautifully appointed affair, marked by unusually lovely decorations of silver, red and green. Miss Shine was assisted by Miss Mary L. Hay, Miss Marie McSwigan, Mrs. Vincent Drayne, Miss Mary Shine and Mrs. John F. Collins, Jr.

Scrap Book Given Pen League Head At Yule Tea

A scrap book containing clippings, photographs, criticisms and many original contributions by the members was presented to Mrs. May T. Neff, president of the League of American Pen Women, at the charming Yuletide tea given yesterday by Mrs. Chester F. Story, of the Dithridge Apartments.

The book was compiled and arranged by Mrs. Story and was presented by Mrs. John A. Shoemaker. The presentation, which was done by the light of many red tapers, very appropriately included the reading of Mrs. Shoemaker's poem, "Let Candles Lighted Be." Mrs. Neff was also given a League emblem pin.

Among Mrs. Story's aides were Mrs. Edward O. Tabor, Miss Betty Neff and Mrs. Katherine Dawson.

Boyle Home Benefit To Be Held Thursday

A card party will be given Thursday afternoon at the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium as a benefit for the Bishop Boyle Home for the Aged. Mrs. J. R. Borie is chairman.

Travellers to Celebrate Holidays With Luncheon

Following their long established custom, the Travellers will have a luncheon in the Congress of Clubs to celebrate the holidays, changing their day, however, from Tuesday to Thursday of this week. Luncheon will be followed by a musical program by Mrs. Jane Lang Hervey and Miss Marguerite Lang, soloists, with Miss Minnie Hickey as accompanist. Mrs. Norval R. Daugherty will read.

Female College Group Changes Meeting Day

The Pittsburgh Female College Association has changed the day of its meeting from Monday until Thursday next week. Carols will be sung by a quartet including Mrs. Paul McCandless, Miss Helen Heiner, Robert Topping, Paul Moore, with Mrs. Topping accompanying.

The Pitt Players will present "The Ivory Door," completing the program, which will begin in the usual meeting place, the Women's City Club.

Emsworth Scouts to Form Living Christmas Tree

Some decidedly new features will mark the Christmas tree dedication in Emsworth on Sunday evening. Girl Scouts from Troop 74, the new troop under Miss Jean Donaldson, will form a living tree with illumination and will sing carols. Troop 79, directed by Miss Helen Hauser, and Miss Ruth Grant, will present a pageant with carols and a double quartet, a male choir and a junior choir will sing, the last two giving some old English carols in antiphonal form.

Catholic High School Junior Prom Thursday

The Boys' Catholic High School junior prom will be held Thursday evening from 9:30 to 1:30 o'clock in the Georgian room of the Webster Hall Hotel. Robert Ellis is chairman of the dance, which will be the beginning of an annual observance.

* * *

Their holiday bridge tea, planned for the students who are home from Maryland College for the holidays, will be held Wednesday in the Woman's City Club by the Maryland College Club. Mrs. Albert Supplee is president.

Bridge to Open Holiday Festivities at Shannopin

The holiday festivities at Shannopin Country Club will begin with a bridge luncheon for members and guests on Wednesday at 1 o'clock in the clubhouse. The hostesses for the event will be Mrs. J. Smith Christy, Mrs. W. C. Hansen, Mrs. W. D. Reed and Mrs. J. L. McBride.

On Friday evening the school and college set will be honored with a dance which has been planned by Clifford Behrhorst, Knox Young, Miss Mary Elizabeth Junkin, John Rodrigues, James Bunting, Jr., Miss Bessie Hubach, John Junkin, Fred Stout, Jr., Miss Mary Jo Rodrigues and Miss Kay Supplee.

Greensburg Younger Set Settles Dance Problem

To dance or not to dance on New Year's Eve, which falls on a Sunday this year, has caused much discussion this season.

The younger set of Greensburg has settled the question by having its annual New Year's hop begin at midnight, December 31, with the first step to be taken the first minute of New Year's morning, Monday.

But the dance will not be held in the Greensburg Country Club this year, since the clubhouse had already been reserved for another party, for which invitations had been sent. Instead it will take place in the Penn Albert Hotel, Greensburg.

The committee for the hop includes Heister C. Painter, Harold T. Ryan, William T. Brunot, Richard Coulter III, Rave F. Marsh, Jr., and Ralph W. Carson.

Viewing the New

To find out the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column . . . CALL GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK FOR THE SPYGLASS. Or . . . send a stamped self-addressed envelope for your reply.

* * *

Just to show you that there is news . . . Christmas news . . . in even the everyday things of life like telephone directories, we dug up the information on these "spinner" telephone indexes which have burst out in colors now!

Plenty of room to list all your calls . . . and then turn to them with a flip of your thumb and finger.

In willow green or white (for madames boudoir!) . . . with side knobs of contrasting color. Capacity for 700 names . . . and therefore a good gift for the big-butter-and-egg-businessman! $2.50.

* * *

Now . . . as you know . . . every woman loves really nice toiletries whether it's Christmas or otherwise. And with one of the stores flaunting their special brand of toiletries done up in a silver gift box, holly and all, for $1 . . . we think it's about time we used this opportunity to do a little murmuring about it!

For the set includes liquifying cleansing cream . . . powder . . . tissue cream . . . skin tonic and freshener . . . and paste rouge. And this should occasion many raised eyebrows even if it weren't for its being Christmas!

* * *

Snitch a dollar from your lunch money and get the boy friend a gift which is usable, and looks like several millons more bucks!

A tie case—of smooth, soft tan leather with engaging little snaps to hold it "as is" . . . and lots of tie room for even the most wholesale owner of ties! Just a nice size to keep at one side of a drawer when folded up . . . . and yet plenty long enough to keep the ties without rumpling when unfolded. The modern answer to how-shall-we-keep-his-neckties-from-falling-onto-the-floor! And for a lone buck!

* * *

Fat, puffy little pillows of cocktail biscuits! Crunchy ones with caraway seeds peppered throughout their middle and salt crystals clinging to their outsides! An addition to any holiday cup of cheer! And only 25c the half-pound package put up in cellophane.

* * *

And the last call before Santa Claus climbs down any chimneys . . . we hasten to blurt out the word that one shop is reducing ALL their gift wrappings, ribbons, ties, tags, and seals ½!

Which is a wonderful chance to get really good looking ones for next to nothing . . . and they're nicer than most we've seen, too!

* * *

With high hopes did we sally into the sweater department! And what did we see but little turtle necks walking out with their matching caps over one eye ($5.95). And suede boucle smoothies doing their stuff in such lovely shades as robin's egg blue, $1.98. And wild stripes (copied from the Vogue's Smart Economies ones you've looked at before this!) $3.98. And really so many others that our mouth stood open (bad manners!) and we just gulped with amazement!

Unquestionably, this is a Sweater Christmas! And when we think of these in every type from wooden buttoned ones to fuzzy eiderdowns . . . we don't wonder!

* * *

One more shopping day before Christmas . . . and genuine Lenci dolls are appearing at reductions!

The self-same dolls which were $5 to $10 . . . in little coats, dresses and suits just like real children . . . now to be sold for ⅓ off! Give your child a REAL doll by giving one of these.

* * *

We're forward-passing this news to you . . . a tiny football which stirred our very soul when we looked at it!

A regular rough-and-ready one . . . of real leather, with leather thongs . . . and a zipper closing the side. The idea being, that inside dwell four tiny sterling silver cups (to make sipping easier at odd moments!). And the whole business costs $4 . . . a reasonable amount for such chic, and downright good quality.

BETTER AND BRIGHTER SHIRTS

The top-hatted gents in the background know that the shirtwaist frock steps out formally these days.

Very sophisticated, the tangerine lame blouse to the right, and what a youthful collar! The buttons are beaten silver, the skirt black crepe.

At the left, another one-piece shirt and skirt model of white satin, with fin frills, and a yoked and kick-pleated black crepe skirt.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS WINTER'S fixings for a tea party seem to be a shirtwaist frock and a cocktail. Nothing except the ubiquitous tiara seems to have sneaked up to such a permanent place in styles as this shirtwaist costume, and it is very likely the comfort and becomingness of the thing that has put it over so solidly.

For women like to be brightly dressed on the dark days when wind and weather howls, and they can be practical as well as bright when they put on a brilliant blouse over a dark skirt which shows inconspicuously below their coats. It is virtually a subway costume from the outside looking in, but quite dressy when the coat is removed.

* * *

ALL THE shirtwaist successes are not formal, however; in the daytime one can wear Scotch plaid or plain flannel frocks cut on these lines as knockabout chilly weather costumes. And frocks made of flat silk in wine shades, or subdued jewel tints such as lapis and amber, titivated with mirror buttons and a velvet flower in lieu of a necktie, make a fine afternoon frock that can stay on for a fairly smart tea, though it might not do so well at dinner.

One of the most becoming frocks in this genre combines a shiny white satin blouse with a plain black skirt cut on straight lines. Without the dip and grace of a flared skirt, such a costume becomes highly useful for casual wear.

TZIMMES (SWEET ROAST MEAT)

One and one-half pounds short ribs of beef.
One teaspoon chicken fat.
Two Irish potatoes.
Six large carrots.
Two medium-sized sweet potatoes.
Three-quarters cup molasses or corn syrup.
Salt and pepper.

Cut short ribs into several pieces that will fit into a saucepan. Cover the meat with sliced carrots and potatoes. Potatoes can be quartered or cut into thirds. Add one scant cupful of water and place on fire which is not too hot. Cook for 30 minutes. Then add molasses and place in a moderate oven—350 degrees Fahrenheit. Time for about one and one-half hours, or at 300 degrees Fahrenheit for about two hours. By this time both meat and vegetables will be ready and nicely browned.

MRS. GEORGE SWENSON

SWEDISH FLANK ROLL

Five or ten-pound flank, according to the amount required. Must be all in one piece. Roll very tight and tie with cord. Place in a large kettle and cover with cold water, add salt and pepper to taste. Whole black peppers may be added which enhance the flavor. Cook until tender or well done. Serve sliced cold. The broth may be used for making soup for the first course of the Christmas dinner. This meat roll is usually served in accordance to the old Swedish custom of serving a meal at midnight Christmas Eve.

MABEL CARNAHAN
High street, Saltsburg

CANDY SUPREME

Boil two cups of white sugar with three-quarters cup sweet milk until it forms a soft ball when dropped in cold water. Set in a cool place and add a lump of butter the size of an egg. Do not stir the mixture after adding the butter but let stand until completely cool. Beat briskly until the mixture is creamy. When it no longer runs from the spoon pour on to a buttered dish and cut into squares. Flavoring, cocoanut, or nuts may be added if desired but the flavor of the butter is sufficient to make a delicious candy.

Quinces Have Same Food Value as Other Fruits

A Native of Persia, Where It Is Still to Be Found Growing Wild, It Is Popular for Use in Jellies and Jams and as Flavoring in Combination With Other Fruits

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
United States Senator From New York,
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Its praises are seldom sung, yet the food value of the quince is as high as that of many other fruits which are much more in demand. When I was a boy the quince was very popular in my section of the country.

The quince was originally found in Persia, and it is still found as a wild plant in that land. It was prized for its food properties, but the wise men of olden days advised the eating of quinces also for the relief of many physical ailments.

This tempting and delicious fruit belong to the same family as the pear. It is known as a "pome." The pome fruits have fleshy content, strong skin, a core and many small seeds. It is in season from October to December. New York State supplies most of the markets of the country.

Many changes and improvements have been made in the cultivation of this fruit, yet its fine flavor and pleasing appearance have changed little from the days when it was gathered from wild trees.

RESEMBLE APPLES

The quince grows on a short tree which carries many crooked branches. The leaves are green and soft. The blossoms are white and pale pink. The fruit is yellow or yellow-green in color, and its shape is similar to that of an apple or pear.

The finest species are the "apple," "pear," and "Portugal." The Portugal quince is the largest, but the apple variety is regarded as having the most delicate flavor.

The quince tree is often used as a stock on which to graft the common pear. A particular variety is grown for this purpose, known as the "Fontenay quince." This tree has no other use, for its fruit is without flavor, or taste.

VALUABLE INGREDIENTS

Quinces must be handled with care. They bruise easily and the slightest discoloration spoils the appearance of the fruit. But they can be kept for a long time if properly stored in a dry and cool place.

Though this fruit contains all of the valuable ingredients found in pears, apples and similar products, it is rarely used as a table fruit. This is due to the woody pulp and sour taste of most quinces. Many housewives stew the fruit, add sugar and make delicious quince jelly, jam and marmalade. Also it is mixed with apples for stewing and preserving. The fruit can be canned successfully if a heavy syrup is used.

The quince is inexpensive, keeps well and may be used in various ways. Include it on your shopping list tomorrow. I am sure it will be welcomed by most members of the family who enjoy variety in the diet.

FIRE ON CHICKEN THEFT SUSPECT

Wilkinsburg police in ambush arrested two suspects in chicken thefts today after firing several shots at one of them.

Francis Ruffa, 24, and Edward Camp, 21, were apprehended as they alighted from an automobile at 1401 Clark street. Officers Winslow Nichols and Charles DeOvre had been detailed to watch the house after chicken coops in the district had been raided.

The officers said the men drew a blanket containing 10 chickens from the car. As the policemen appeared, they said, the men ran. Nichols captured Ruffa, but Camp eluded DeOvre and ran to Monroe and Park street. DeOvre fired four shots and Camp fell down an embankment. The officer captured him unhurt.

The house was watched after Charles Kikler, 2091 Chalfont street, reported his chicken coop was raided.

New Registration Board Of Two Members to Be Appointed

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Dec. 22.—The new Pittsburgh Permanent Registration Bill, passed yesterday by the Legislature also means a new Board of Registration Commissioners and the opportunity for some political realignments. One of the provisions of the bill reduces the number of commissioners from four to two.

Mr. Shields

It is probable that none of the present commissioners, John K. Morrow, chairman, and Mrs. Sarah C. Braun, Republicans, and John McCarthy and Mrs. J. Wood Clark, Democrats, will be reappointed. They are ripped from office by the bill, and the Governor is authorized to appoint January 1st, the effective date of the bill, two commissioners to constitute the new board.

One must be a Republican and the other Democrat, in effect, though the bill merely stipulates that both commissioners cannot come from the same party. In this respect the language is similar to that dealing with the complexion of the Board of County Commissioners, the stipulation for that office being that electors can vote for but two members of a single party.

The present board consists of three Republicans, though the law is respected because Commissioner C. M. Barr was elected as a "square deal" candidate. The point is that there is nothing either in the law applying to the County Board or to the Registration Commission guaranteeing the Democrats representation, something which not many people in Allegheny County understand.

* * *

Smith and Lawrence To Be Consulted

It was assumed in political circles that Judge Ralph H. Smith, Pinchot leader in Allegheny County, and Democratic County Chairman David L. Lawrence will be consulted in the naming of the new commissioners and that their recommendations will be followed.

It also is taken for granted that the Democratic recommendation will have to bear the approval of Judge Smith. Gov. Pinchot wishes to maintain pleasant relations with the Democrats, but he is expected to submit the nominee of Mr. Lawrence to the scrutiny of Judge Smith.

The new commission will have an important task. It will have to prepare a complete new registry by the May primary of 1934.

It will have the naming of many assistants and the opportunity to award many political jobs, especially for the three registration days established prior to the primary.

One prediction, made in this column before, and now reiterated, is that Robert Waddell, former football coach of Carnegie Tech, and in the last municipal primary a candidate for councilmanic nomination on the independent Republican ticket, will be the Republican commissioner.

It is known that he is favored by Judge Smith, not alone because of his ability, but as a step toward erecting a newer political organization with some of the party's young blood taken into the inner councils.

It also is assumed that when the Governor makes the appointments he will condition the Democratic gift upon an agreement that the Republican shall be the head of the commission. The present chairman, Mr. Morrow, is a Republican.

McCarthy is not expected to be reappointed, and Mrs. Clark, though she is vice chairman of the Democratic County Committee, also may be replaced, she and McCarthy securing places in the Democratic administration after January 1.

* * *

Democrats Want Political Expert

Democratic leaders are represented as wanting on the board an experienced person with some political acumen, able to match wits and politics with the Republican member.

There is a report that James P. Kirk, treasurer of the Democratic County Committee, will be the Democratic registration commissioner if he does not become city treasurer. The $3,000 salary is a great descent from the $8,000 the city treasurer receives, but Mr. Kirk has experience as a former member of the board, and would be loyal to the interests of Mr. Lawrence.

Furthermore, he would be alert to what goes on, no mean consideration.

Mr. Morrow, it is understood, is slated for another state appointment, perhaps in some Pittsburgh branch of the government. Mrs. Braun, it is expected, also will be given another appointment. Her work on the board has never come in for criticism, and she is represented as being satisfactory to the Pinchot element—but for some other job.

The new commission, inaugurating a new registration system, will require executive direction and organizing ability. This, it is contended, can be furnished by Mr. Waddell, who is in the insurance business. He has developed a taste for politics, and wants to stay in the game.

If he becomes a member of the Registration Commission he will be in it—up to his neck.

Auto Injures Boy, Woman Driver Held

Eric Hofstrom, 6, of Oakwood street, was in a serious condition in Pittsburgh Hospital today suffering from a fractured thigh and possible internal injuries when he was struck by an automobile near his home. Mrs. M. Carter, 40, of Shadyside, Md., driver of the car, according to police, was arrested.

VOTE MACHINE WAREHOUSE PLANNED

Building Approved Despite Heavy Budget Cuts

With a drastic cut effected and a shakeup promised in the Elections Bureau, County Commissioners had today reduced their 1934 budget by $331,170.

Revelation of plans for a four-story brick building to house vote machines and ballot boxes and appropriations for new polling places did not prevent the Commissioners from slashing more than $75,000 from the Elections Bureau yesterday.

Yesterday's cut alone came to $176,912, bringing the budget total as now proposed down to $20,347,329.

The new election's storage house announcement came as a surprise after Maj. W. T. Rees, director of the Elections Bureau, asked an appropriation for storing ballot boxes.

FINANCED BY BONDS

To be financed by the five million dollar delinquent tax bond issue, the building is to be constructed on county property under the South Side end of the Liberty Bridge, Commissioner C. C. McGovern explained.

The structure, which McGovern said he hoped to have ready for the spring primaries, will have only one door to the storage room and only three keys to that door. One of the keys will go to the Commissioners and one to each of the two major parties.

Striking at the expense of elections when he saw the bureau's $501,680 requested appropriations, McGovern said that, taking into consideration all services, it cost about $3 per person to vote in the county. He told Maj. Rees:

"We have a $60,00 payroll in your department. We have got to cut it so you won't recognize it."

Consideration of salaries awaits a meeting of the Salary Board, and has played no part in the cuts to date.

FIRE-PROOF POLLS

Another election innovation was foreshadowed when McGovern directed Maj. Rees to report to him on the practicability of portable fire-proof polling places.

These would be used where schools were not available, McGovern said, to stop what he censured as the bad practice of voting in "poolrooms, garages and barber shops."

Expressing a belief that $100,000 should be appropriated to this end, McGovern finally agreed to $17,000. It is estimated the structures would cost about $300 apiece.

The Commissioners then proceeded to rip the total $15,000 appropriation for instruction of election officers from the budget, explaining most of them had received instruction before anyway. Funds will have to be provided later for beginners.

They cut in the same way $9,500 for election officials, referring its legality to the legal department, and reduced by two-thirds the $15,000 for instruction of voters.

Boy's Legs Broken When Hit By Auto

Arthur Hammesfahr, 11, of 934 Kennebec street, will spend Christmas on a hospital cot. While playing near his home late yesterday he was struck by an automobile, suffering fractures of both legs.

He was taken to St. Francis Hospital by S. E. Riess, of 2214 Manor avenue, Swissvale.

ROOMER FOUND DEAD, GUN NEAR

J. E. Elliott, 30, who is believed to have immigrated to this country from England a year ago, was found dead in his room at 601 Pressley avenue, North Side, early today—a rifle clutched in his lifeless hands, a bullet in his right temple.

The body was found by Agnes Moran, daughter of Mrs. Mary Moran, proprietor of the rooming house. She told police Elliott was an accountant and employed at night in the downtown. He was last seen alive Tuesday.

Homicide detectives, investigating, have been unable to find a motive. Elliott so far as could be ascertained left no notes.

For the best exclusive news tip of the week $15.00 will be given, for the second best, $10.00, and for the next 25 best, $1.00 each.

JONES SLATED FOR U. S. JOB

The complicated business of selecting a cabinet for Mayor-elect McNair, which has been perturbing not only Mr. McNair but any number of Democrats, was slightly less complicated today.

This was accomplished by finding a $10,000 job in Washington for Edward N. Jones, who was a candidate for the directorship of the Department of Public Works. Thus the field is reduced by one.

Jones, who handled the publicity of the mayoralty fight, is slated to be named Pennsylvania director of the National Emergency Council. His job will be to co-ordinate other government agencies in Pennsylvania.

Under former Mayor William A. Magee, Jones served first as the Mayor's secretary, later as superintendent of police.

Jones was the central figure of one of the city's police corruption investigations conducted along political lines by a councilmanic committee. The announced goal of the investigation was to explain:

"Why did Jones quit?"

Jones, whose friends say he gave up in disgust because of political meddling in the conduct of his job, never explained why he quit and the investigation never reached its goal.

WORK BUREAU HERE SPEEDS EMPLOYMENT

CWA Office Puts on Night Force to Place Jobless

Adding a night shift to the office force, the State-Federal Employment Bureau is working 24 hours a day assigning Civil Works employes to jobs. From midnight until 8 a. m. today 15 newly-appointed clerks drew from application files the names of those to get work under the CWA.

More than 100 messengers were to be added to the staff today to carry employment notices to all parts of the county. Notices will be delivered personally, according to bureau officials, until the mails are cleared of the flood of holiday mail.

ASSIGN 1,300 JOBS

Job assignments yesterday totaled about 1,300. Most of them were in connection with the unemployment census to be taken in the county, which will require 1,500 workers.

Abandoned mine sealing, which started yesterday, will require additional workers almost daily, according to the employment office.

John W. Rogers, local comptroller of the project, has set up an office at 5100 Forbes street in a building loaned by Carnegie Tech. The office is on the school campus.

Twenty-four workers will comprise the office force which will arrange for equipment and materials needed for the sealing of abandoned mines.

PROJECTS APPROVED

Approval of 56 projects were received yesterday at CWA headquarters. The largest job sanctioned, replacing water lines in Pittsburgh, will provide employment for 1,235. One in Sharpsburg will employ 306 and one in Wilkinsburg 200.

Since the latest quota of workers aimed at by CWA headquarters is 36,000, officials are calling for the submission of more plans by communities throughout the county. It has been suggested that boroughs and townships with brick roads needing improvement arrange to have the bricks lifted and relaid smoothly. The community would need no funds for materials, and would profit by improved streets as well as by putting a number of men to work.

The avalanche of job requisitions that has descended on the employment bureau has caused it to announce that no applications for work will be accepted today or tomorrow.

Applicants will be interviewed next week, but all activity over the week-end will be devoted to assigning men and women to jobs.

JOHNSON HITS CWA PAY RATE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Hugh S. Johnson protested to the Civil Works Administration today against its paying higher wages than are being given by many industries under codes. He said at a press conference:

"It is an absurd situation, but it is up to the CWA. All I can do is call their attention to the inconsistency."

He went on to explain that the code-fixed minimum wages in all cases are supposed to represent the utmost that industries now can afford to pay.

He considered it "ridiculous" that men from bread lines, placed on what he said amounted virtually to a federal dole, should have more attractive pay than those normally employed in industries, some in competing lines.

Told that Civil Works officials considered the situation an "indictment" of code wages, Johnson said that was "just words" and that he could not be disturbed by it.

'Yes, Virginia—'

Is There a Santa Claus?

Many years ago little Virginia O'Hanlon, of New York City, wrote to the editor of the Sun, of that city, asking if there is a Santa Claus. In accordance with custom, the Sun-Telegraph reproduces the letter and the Sun editor's answer as follows:

We take pleasure in answering at once, and thus prominently, the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of the Sun:

Dear Editor—I am eight years old and some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, "If you see it in the Sun, it's so." Please tell me the truth. Is there a Santa Claus?

VIRGINIA O'HANLON,
115 West Ninety-fifth Street.

* * *

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except what they see. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little in this great universe of ours. Man is a mere insect, and his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, is measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of the truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life the highest beauty of joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable its existence. We should have no enjoyment except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

* * *

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would they prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world. You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all of the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view a picture of supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus? Thank God, he lives and he lives forever! A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Dec. 22.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph.

California has a new ruling on the sale of liquor in hotels. The latest one is you buy it in the lobby of the hotel at the newsstand, then take it in the dining room and drink it—"Give me a quart of gin, the Morning Times, a pint of French Vermouth, some bitters, some magazines and a box of aspirin."

Will Rogers

See where they captured an American spy in France. He must have been working on his own, for we already know all we want to know about 'em.

Yours, WILL.

TRUE YULETIDE SPIRIT WILL PREVAIL

Treats, Music, Song To Welcome Happy Day

Adopting the role of Santa Claus, scores of civic and fraternal organizations of Pittsburgh will sponsor treats for thousands of needy children and unemployed during the Christmas holidays.

Week-end activities will open tomorrow morning, when officials of the Salvation Army welcome Saint Nicholas to the city with ceremonies atop the Grant Building, preceding a party for underprivileged children tomorrow afternoon.

HOSPITAL PARTY

Specialty dances, impersonations of Mickey Mouse, the Three Little Pigs, Big Bad Wolf and other characters, and a musical program will mark the annual Christmas party for patients of the West Penn Hospital in the Nurses' Home tomorrow night.

Scores of automobiles and trucks laden with gifts and candy, will start out at noon Saturday from Syria Mosque, in charge of 16 Santas Claus, under direction of Chairman Uriah W. Tinker, of Syria Temple's 1933 Santa. Over 60 orphanages, homes and hospitals in the jurisdiction of the temple, in nine counties will be visited. Santa will leave gifts for over 6,000 children. Other counties to be visited are Westmoreland, Indiana, Beaver, Lawrence, Butler, Washington, Fayette and Armstrong.

Members of Pittsburgh Chapter No. 1, De Molay Alumni, will form a caravan of cheer tomorrow to provide a "real Christmas" for children of the United Presbyterian Orphans Home. The caravan will start at 5986 Center avenue at 2 p. m.

FIRE ASSOCIATION

The Seventh District Fire Association, of Ross Township, will entertain children of that area at a party in the organization's headquarters, Jacks Run and Neely roads, at 2 p. m. tomorrow.

Christmas music by a choir of 200 voices and an address by the Rev. Joseph Piper, of the Dormont Methodist Episcipal Church, will mark Dormont's community celebration at the Borough Building tomorrow night.

The choir, composed of young people of various Dormont churches, was organized by D. G. Henkins, vice president of Pittsburgh District Epworth League, and is directed by H. E. Culen, of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Episcopal Church.

Yuletide events scheduled tonight include an entertainment under the auspices of Penn Avenue Lodge 801, I. O. O. F., in the lodge hall, 4203-5 Penn avenue, and a party for children of the Junior Moose branch of Pittsburgh Lodge at Moose Temple, Penn avenue.

Noon carol singing by the Chamber of Commerce chorus and preparation of hundreds of Christmas stockings and presents for children of needy parents by the Women's Auxiliary and the Family Welfare staff of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor, were earlier features of today's program. The gifts will be sent to homes throughout Allegheny County by truck tomorrow.

Christmas Eve highlights will include distribution of baskets of food to the homes of needy veterans by the drum and bugle corps of the 111th Veterans' Association and the Society of the 28th Division.

Hundreds of toys are to be distributed to unfortunate youngsters throughout the city. The toys were repaired by workmen of Goodwill Industries, Liberty avenue and Twenty-eighth street.

In addition to toys, furniture and bric-a-brac, re-condtioned by unemployed workmen, are being exhibited and sold at the downtown building of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 428 Duquesne way.

About 500 needy children will

OPERATOR 13 — By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Gail Rents Place Near Home of Gen. Lee

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Operator 13 laughed. "When, where and for what was I supposed to have been arrested, sir?"

"Why not at the New York Hotel? That's, where all southerners go when they're in New York. Time: last July. Charge: intercepted and treasonable letters to Fernando Wood."

"What were they about?"

"What was Fancy Fernando about?"

They both laughed.

"Be ready by sunset," said Col. Sharpe, and he walked away.

The girl was in highest spirits. She danced across the rough pine flooring of her tent to close the tent flap, humming gayly to herself.

She had noonday dinner, cooking the army rations herself and ending with a sutler's peach tart and cheese. The remainder of the afternoon she devoted to turning herself into a blonde.

She was a little startled at the effect her golden lashes gave to her eyes, which looked more like two velvet-dark orchids than ever. "My light eyelashes give me almost a pig-like expression," she thought. Indeed, there was a furtive provocation in them, now—almost a slyness—which seemed certain to trouble men.

She dared take no papers with her. For everything necessary in her complicated impersonation she must depend upon her memory.

The sun set, and she lighted her candle and waited.

Darkness was long in coming; in the western sky a clear lemon-yellow light still outlined the woods, when she heard horses coming. Two "Jessie Scouts" in their gray uniforms rode up beside a covered spring wagon driven by a Negro. In it was her baggage.

In a few moments Col. Sharpe spoke in a guarded voice outside her tent. She told him to come in.

Fears Chancellor

He appeared surprised by so complete a transformation. The girl's blonde-gold hair, and the way she wore it, seemed to make her face plumper; the golden eyelashes utterly changed her expression, lending to the mouth a hint of humor and enhancing the provocation in the beautiful eyes.

"Do I suit you?" she inquired demurely, conscious of her triumph.

"Yes. You are entirely another person."

"I've been troubled a little," she ventured, "about John Gailliard."

"You needn't be troubled, ma'am. Nobody would recognize you."

"My particular danger from him," she explained, "would be my voice and intonation. But I can alter both to one of those husky-sweet contraltos. I don't mean to brag—but I can do almost anything with my face and voice."

"Yes," he said: "I realize that."

"I am wondering, also," she went on, "whether Chancellor might be suspicious if I should encounter him. I really am afraid of that man.'

"I am, too," said Col. Sharpe.

Operator 13 put on her traveling hat and Paisley shawl, with its jewel-like central medallion. "Goodby," she said, extending her pretty hand.

"Goodby."

That was all. She went out,

Girl Enters Enemy Territory Without Trouble

AXMAN KILLED IN SKID ON ICE

David Richardson, 19, of 840 Washington avenue, Heidelberg, a Civilian Conservation Corps worker, was killed today and two companions are in a hospital, the result of a collision on an ice-sheeted road near Brookville, Pa., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Richardson, Raymond Allshouse and Steve Nagy, the latter two of McKeesport, workers at the Clear Creek Camp, Brookville, were en route to Pittsburgh for the holidays. Their automobile was said to have skidded and struck a truck. The hospital reported Allshouse and Nagy in a serious condition.

MT. LEBANON TO SELL BONDS

Sale of $90,000 worth of bonds to fund part of the floating indebtedness caused by failure of tax payments to meet school requirements, was authorized by the Mt. Lebanon School Board last night.

The bonds will go to the S. K. Cunningham Company and McLaughlin, MacAfee & Co., joint bidders. Delinquent taxes for 1930-31-32 are collateral for the bonds, which are of a 10-year issue.

Delinquent and liened taxes for the three years against which bonds are issued total $102,000.

Harvard Again Can Imbibe Its Midnight Oil

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Harvard students will get their beer. Provided they are 21.

However, they can prep at Milwaukee or St. Louis.

Seems that Harvard ran a real brewery a century ago. The students drank their midnight oil. There were junior proms and freshman hops.

Boston is just south of the Maine stein song. Those college boys up there don't look at ginger pop through rose colored glasses.

Old Heidelberg has been famous for its beer and song. We don't mind the Harvard lads singing so long as they don't get a commercial sponsor.

And, up in West Point, all they have is button polish.

2,100 CHILDREN GIVEN RIPLEY FUND SHOES

More than 2,100 barefoot boys and girls in poor families are being given orders for new shoes from proceeds procured by the Sun-Telegraph through the recently-presented Ripley's Odditorium.

The fund totaled $4,450, and it was completely exhausted.

Orders were sent teachers who are quietly dispensing them and may be traded in at downtown stores next week.

School teachers and principals of city, county and parish schools furnished the lists of needy children, the majority of whom were not on welfare lists, but whose parents are unable to buy them shoes.

One of the surprise contributors to the fund was the Woman's Auxiliary of the Pittsburgh Optometric Association which sent a check for $15.

MANY OUT OF SCHOOL

Many of the children, forced to remain indoors, will now be able to return to school. Others who will receive new shoes were attending to classes in lawn tennis shoes, or bedroom slippers.

Of the 4,000 requests for shoes, lists were selected to cover those considered most needy. The demand exceeded the supply by 100 per cent, but the Allegheny County Emergency Association promised to secure shoes for those children who need them most.

Most of the children supplied through the Sun-Telegraph were of school age, but some few under the age who were barefoot were also included.

TRUCKS DELIVER SLIPS

Sun-Telegraph trucks, to rush the orders out before Christmas, delivered the lists to the city schools. Those in the county were sent through the mails.

The teachers will hand out the order slips with the child's name and the name of the store where they are to be fitted. The store will do the rest.

The children can be fitted any day next week—excepting, of course, Christmas Day, when all the stores will be closed.

Those whose requests were unfilled were referred to the County Emergency Association. The state has furnished this organization with a supply of shoes for children of the unemployed. In the county, the agency is the Poor Board, which supplies children of school age.

MAIL CARRIERS TO GET HOLIDAY

The holiday schedule of the Pittsburgh postoffice, announced by Postmaster William M. Turner, is as follows:

All departments and sections of the main office, stations and branches will be closed to the public Sunday and Monday, except the film station, which will be closed from 3 to 9:30 p. m. Sunday and from 12 noon to 9:30 p. m. Monday.

No carrier delivery and no window service on either day. Special delivery and perishable matter will be delivered from the main office and East Liberty station as on Sundays and other holidays.

From midnight, Saturday, until midnight, Monday, all work will be suspended except special delivery service and the regular holiday collections and dispatches of first-class mail, and there will be retained on duty only such number of employes as will be required for this purpose, and to receive and store, but not work, incoming mail.

At midnight Monday all activities will again be resumed in the usual manner and with sufficient energy and force to meet the situation as it appears.

Christmas Cantata To Be Sung at Jail

Christmas cheer is being prepared for prisoners in Allegheny County jail. A Christmas cantata, "Prophesy and Fulfillment", will be sung for them Sunday at 2 p. m., by the Christian Church Choral Club, 75 voices under the leadership of William A. Davis. A platform for the singers has been erected in the center court of the jail.

The annual Christmas dinner of roast beef, mashed potatoes and hot gingerbread is planned by the jail cooks.

Santa Gives Ickes Pass From Hospital

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Physicians at the Naval Hospital today gave Secretary Ickes the Christmas present he wanted most—permission to leave the hospital in time to spend the holiday at home.

So improved was the Secretary from injuries he suffered in a recent fall on the ice that he was able to attend the President's cabinet meeting yesterday at the White House, but he returned immediately afterward to the hospital.

CITY HOME PARTY

A series of seasonal entertainments, including movies and dances, and special services for patients of the City Home and Hospital, Mayview, have been announced by Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Public Welfare. The entertainments will continue through New Year's Day.

Christmas parties, plays and community treats at all city playgrounds and recreation centers supervised by the Bureau of Recreation also have been announced to continue through January 2. About 3,000 children and mothers will attend, it is estimated.

Combining observance of Christmas and the fortieth anniversary of Kingsley House, 220 Larimer avenue, a series of parties for all members opened last night. Neighborhood carol singing will be held at the house tonight, following a party for girls from 11 to 14 years of age today.

North Side Moose Plan Yule Parties

A two-day Christmas celebration will be held by Allegheny Moose Lodge, at the North Side Moose Temple. Tomorrow night members and their relatives will attend a family party. Monday night a card party will be given for the members. The affairs are in charge of William Hoffman, dictator; O. E. Feldheimer, secretary, and John Kroeger, treasurer.

Yule Tradesmen, 9 and 7, End Career in Show

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Although not an accurate indication of improved business conditions, the Yuletide merchandising venture of 9-year-old Virginia Kashey and her brother, Harry, 7, certainly was a financial success.

Virginia bought 25 Christmas cards at a cent each as the first step in a commercial career. Then she and Harry sold 16 of them to mid-city shoppers at a nicked a piece. A Negro boy came along at this point, however, and stole the remainder of the stock.

Business had begun to pall on the youngsters, however, so they "took their profits" and bought tickets to a movie.

It was an all-night theater, though, and the whole story was not learned until detectives found the pair asleep in their seats hours later.

Man to Live 200 Years Soon, Chemist Says

Man in the near future will live to the ripe age of 200 years, according to the prediction by Dr. Charles Lee Reese, president-elect of the American Chemical Society.

Speaking last night before the Pittsburgh section of the American Chemical Society at the Bureau of Mines, Dr. Reese said:

"Somebody asked me to tell about the future of chemistry. Physiological chemistry will be the most important field—thousands of dollars have been spent experimenting on animals but not a dime on man. There is no limit to what the next 25 or 50 years will bring—the field is wide open."

After his address Dr. Reese, who is director in charge of research of the DuPont Company, explained further to a group of chemists gathered about him:

"Man is a chemical machine. As soon as the chemists learn more about that machine—the ductless glands and other parts of the human body—man will live not to be 100 years old but 200 years."

GODLESS GROUP STARTS DRIVE IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—A drive of the All-Union Godless Society to convert to the ways of disbelief those who retain their religious beliefs was in full swing today as Christmas approached.

The government itself set an example in Godlessness and demonstrated to the proletariat its complete indifference to the religious significance of the day. The central executive committee, the chief administrative arm of the government, scheduled the opening of its winter convention for December 25.

INTENSIVE DRIVE

The atheistic organization, acting as a private agency with the full support of the Communist party, relies on an intensive propaganda and educational campaign to attract people away from the churches, which still function legally and usually are crowded on Christmas and Easter.

"One hundred per cent attendance of workers at their jobs on Christmas Day" is the Godless Society's slogan, sounded by speakers in addresses to clubs, factory groups, schools, administrative units of all dwelling places, and even in the ranks of the Red army.

INSTRUCTIONS ISSUED

Instructions issued by the central council of the society to its workers read:

"Reveal the counter-revolutionary meaning of the Christmas legend, which is used by capitalists, Fascists, and clergy to conceal war preparations, to resist the revolutionary movement, and to justify starvation, poverty and unemployment."

Prisoners Choose Beef Over Turkey

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—County jail inmates like their roast beef.

Sheriff Homer C. Toothman, through Jailer B. B. Garrett, told the prisoners that for Christmas dinner they could have turkey, chicken, roast beef or roast pork. They unanimously selected roast beef.

Dogs in City Pound To Eat Roast Duck

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Because life is not as lonely as it was for Manuel Silva, of Martinez, the dogs at the Oakland pound will have roast duck for Christmas dinner.

Silva came to the pound from Martinez a few days ago and obtained a fox terrier that no one else wanted. Yesterday he sent two live ducks to the pound. In a message, accompanying the ducks, he requested they should be roasted for the dogs remaining at the pound.

Falling Lamp Post Kills Mine Worker

A fractured skull suffered Wednesday when a lamp post fell upon Davidco Zateli, 56, of Sutersville, in the Warden mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, claimed the man's life last night in Mercy Hospital, according to a report to the County Morgue.

CHANCE TO LIVE, GIFT TO BOY

International News Service.

CLEVELAND, O., Dec. 22.—Steven Jambor, 14, seriously ill with pneumonia, has been given a 450-gallon tank of oxygen and a chance for his life as a Christmas present today.

Firemen administered oxygen until the small tanks were exhausted.

The boy's mother, a widow, was unable to pay the $8 a 450-gallon tank of oxygen costs but Joseph Zucker, manager of a "Give-A-Christmas" fund, came forward with the necessary money. He said:

"No better Christmas gift than a chance for a life could be given any boy."

Steven's condition was reported as steadily improving.

"HONEYSUCKLE" Is a Gorgeous Doll

Dear Little Girls:

"Honeysuckle" is 18 inches tall, just the right size the average little girl would like to cuddle up to. The word beautiful doesn't really describe her. She's more than beautiful—she's GORGEOUS.

"Honysuckle" has flexible rubber arms and hands and rubber legs that can be washed just the same as you would wash your baby brother's or sister's. And WHAT A SMILE! And behind that smile are the most lovable, most roguish eyes you ever looked into. They open and close and she rolls them from side to side like a real flirt. By pressing her legs or by moving her body forward or back, she says "Ma-ma" in the sweetest voice you ever heard. She's dressed like a little queen in dainty organdy and lace, with bonnet and shoes to match.

Oh, we forgot to mention her cute dimples, and just as this was written "Honeysuckle" looked up and seemed to say, "Yes, you forgot to tell them about my rubber panties."

"Honeysuckle" is really the DOLL OF ALL DOLLS, and she is going to be so easy to get for New Year's. Shall I save a "Honeysuckle" for you?

Sun-Telegraph Doll Lady

MORE ELECTION FRAUD TRIALS IN FEBRUARY

With the close of the regular fall term of Federal Court yesterday, with conviction of three members of the election board of the Ninth District, Third Ward, government prosecutors began laying tentative plans for vote fraud prosecutions at the special four-week session to convene February 5.

The three convictions yesterday brought the total to 17 found guilty, in five trials. Eight defendants were acquitted and in another case the jury disagreed, and the case will be retried, it was said.

Neither Special Federal Prosecutor Earl F. Reed or First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh has divulged plans for further prosecutions, but indications are State Senator James J. Coyne and other political leaders under indictment will not be tried at the special session.

The government prosecutors said they hope to dispose of the other cases involving members of individual election boards before taking to trial the so-called big cases. During the trials just ended there were eight acquittals, mostly clerks on boards.

The three convicted yesterday were Mike Wendell, judge, and Carman Bosco and Charles P. Betters, inspectors. James Stuhlfire and Louis D. Petty, clerks, and George Taylor, election constable, were acquitted.

Defense Counsel Sebastian C. Pugliese announced he would ask a new trial in the latter convictions, as has been done in each of the other cases. Judge F. P. Schoonmaker has not yet set a time for arguments on the motions for retrials.

The jury in the last trial deliberated nearly 23 hours. It was a retrial. In the first trial the jury deliberated 30½ hours without being able to reach an agreement. The jury in the second trial recommended mercy of the court.

Liquor Toter Caught After Traffic Breach

Driving through a red traffic light and narrowly averting a collision with an auto driven by Patrolman John Bray, according to a police report, Sylvester Zak, 19, of 1915 Larkins way, South Side, was stopped at East Ohio and Sandusky streets late last night.

Charges were preferred against Zak after the officer said he found 24 pints and 14 half-pints of whisky in the car. Zak had neither a driver's license nor owner's card, police said.

BOY SENT TO HOSPITAL BY COURT RECOVERING

Parents Who Fought Medical Care Now Happy at Gain

Time is healing the spinal tuberculosis of 4-year-old Billy Lesic and softening the revolt in the hearts of his parents.

Last April Billy was a daily figure in the headlines. His case was a close parallel to the "better dead than blind" fight waged by the parents of 2-year-old Helen Vasco, of Hastings, N. Y., whose tumored eye was removed to save her life. Her parents thought the operation "barbarous."

The little Millvale boy's parents, George and Mary Lesic, vigorously fought Juvenile Court's efforts to send their child to the hospital for care, although doctors agreed that his life was in danger. They considered cruel the forces of the law, medicine, religion and charity that sought to bring about treatment.

Finally Judge Benjamin Lencher of Juvenile Court sent the boy to the Allegheny General Hospital. There he is becoming healthy again, and his spine is healing. Doctor John A. Heberling said:

"Billy is getting along nicely and his general condition is very good. An operation known as a spinal fusion will have to be made, however, in order to hurry the healing process and make his back stronger."

Mrs. Mary Lesic, who took her son from the Children's Hospital in order to treat him at home, is now reconciled to the decision of medical science and the court. She said:

"He's getting better and it might not be long until he is home. I'm glad he is in the hospital and so is my husband. He is in the children's ward with the other children and I know he likes it there."

Nurse Hannah Manning had a few good words for Billy:

"He's a very sweet patient."

ACTORS FAVOR SALES TAX

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—"No more inequitable, unfair and unjust method of raising government revenue was ever devised than the income tax," was the outspoken declaration today of Kenneth Thompson, secretary of the Actors' Guild, who pointed out that he is wholeheartedly in favor of a general manufacturers' sales tax as a substitute.

In commenting upon the matter he said:

"A general manufacturers' sales tax would distribute a substantial portion of the cost of government far more equitably than the income tax. This has proved a most unpopular method of getting revenue. The rich invest their surplus in tax exempt securities, leaving the salaried and professional man and woman to bear the brunt of this tremendous burden."

THREE SLAYERS DIE IN CHAIR

CHESTER, Ill., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Harry Shelby, 45, and John Allen, 26, torture slayers of an aged Jasper County woman, and Martin Gray, 28, a Negro, slayer of a Negro woman in Centralia, were executed in the electric chair of the Southern Illinois Penitentiary early today.

Shelby and Allen were convicted for the murder of Mrs. Mary Schrader, 82, who died from a beating and criminal attack. Gray was executed for slaying Susie Gregory, Centralia Negress. Gray told officers he had committed four other slayings and had three wives living in the South.

Shelby, asked if he had anything to say, started to sing. Authorities told him he would have to stop. He shouted:

"Well, if I can't sing, cut it loose."

The current was thrown on.

Man's Yells Foil Attack on Street

Four men who attempted to drag Matt Russo, 37, of 120 Twenty-fifth street, into an automobile as he walked in Twenty-fifth street and Penn avenue late last night fled when Russo yelled, he told police.

Russo said he believed the quartet were the same who attacked and beat him in Watson street several days ago after robbing him of $125.

HUSBAND TELLS OF PARTIES IN DIVORCE SUIT

Karl H. Linn, 5626 Broad street, objected to his wife practicing her profession as a nurse, he declares in a divorce suit against Katharine M. Myers Linn, of 5814 Black street.

After their marriage, August 23, 1926, Linn said, his wife brought her sister, Rose Myers, and a girl named Olga to their home. Frequently, he charged, they entertained "boy friends," with Mrs. Linn participating.

As a result, Linn said, he was compelled to withdraw to his own room and was deprived of his wife's companionship.

He declared he found whisky and wine bottles and demanded his wife's sister and girl friend leave.

Charging desertion, he said his wife explained absences from home by saying she was nursing patients or visiting her parents.

Mrs. Linn's address was given as 5714 Margaretta street at the time of the filing of the suit.

Divorce suits also were filed by Edna M. Gibson against William L. Gibson and by Irene A. Richardson against James A. Richardson.

A divorce was granted to Pattie S. Sparrow from William Sparrow.

U. S. to Eliminate Gas Tax January 1

About $51,500 per month will be saved by Allegheny County motorists as the result of the elimination of one-half cent a gallon federal tax on gasoline effective January 1, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today. The tax, collected since last June 17, was one of the extra levies designed to service public works borrowings.

Lack of Spirit, Not Beauty, Is What Hurts Girls

How important is beauty?

Has a homely girl no chance?

Fritzi thinks she hasn't. And she should know—for hasn't she been a wall-flower all her life—all because she has mouse-colored hair and one of those faces that men forget? So isn't that proof that Beauty is all-important? Or is it?

Dear Elsie—

What chance is there for a homely girl to ever be happy?

I just know there isn't any, and I don't see why I was ever born. People will try to tell you that "handsome is as handsome does," or some such twaddle, but all I've ever had, ever since I can remember, is just loneliness and disappointment.

I know you read stories about homely girls that get their man, but my life proves that isn't true. And every time I see a pretty girl, popular, happy, I just feel so low I could die.

No one ever has any time for a girl who is just plain homely, and I am it. I've got hair that is a sort of dull color, neither blonde nor brunette. My eyes are a pale blue, and my face is what you would call "nondescript" I guess. My nose is turned up, and to make matters even worse, I am freckled, and have short, discouraged looking eye-lashes.

I wish you could tell me how to be a success, but I know you can't. It's simply hopeless, when you look like I do.

QUIT GOING OUT

And I do so long for a little home of my own, and someone to love. Sometimes, thinking of it all, I wonder if I shouldn't end everything. I can't see where I will ever be anything but unhappy.

I long for fun and dates, but I've just quit going out. If some sympathetic girl friends do take me to a dance, the boys I'm introduced to dance with me once, out of politeness, and then fade out of the picture. Then I just sit, feeling like a fool. It is too much. I would rather stay home—or not be alive at all.

Why is it like this?

HOPELESS FRITZI.

Why is it like that? I suspect, youngster, that things are that way because you haven't pep and gumption enough to make them different.

Yes, I know—you started out with handicaps. But so did Cleopatra. So did plenty of other famous heartbreakers. Handicaps can't stop you unless you sit down and let 'em—which is what you have been doing.

THINK OF OTHERS

It isn't your lack of beauty that makes you a wall-flower. It's your lack of spirit, your lack of joyousness and sympathy. You've been so busy feeling sorry for Fritzi that you never thought of other folks. There's a chance for you, if you've spunk enough to make it. So get busy!

Quit moping. Your hair may be mouse-colored, but you can groom it till it shines. Your face may be "nondescript," you can be so healthy and so gay that people will forget that, and look at the glowing soul behind it. You can be so interested in the grand adventure of living that you will be like a magnet.

Above all, you can be so friendly. Friendliness is the strongest, sweetest magic on earth. Here's a secret which I learned long ago, when I was a homely, lonely little girl myself—these strangers who pass you by are actually as lonely as you are; as hungry for kindness and admiration.

If you'll forget your own need, and think of theirs—if you'll give them your fun and flattery and friendliness—they'll give you theirs in return.

Try it and see!

Fay King Recommends Steady, Hard Worker as a Husband

I MAKE A LOT OF EASY DOUGH AND I LIKE TO SPEND IT TOO
DO YOU THINK WE COULD GET ALONG ON MY SALARY?

FAY KING

By FAY KING.

If you marry a man who lives by his wits, be prepared to live high some of the time and be flat broke the rest of the time.

Such men are "flash spenders." The best is none too good while they are flush with "easy money." But when that's gone, it is back to cheap life knee deep in cigaret butts while they think out new schemes.

If you marry a rich man's son you may have to lend him his dimes. No parents are tighter than some with big bank rolls. Many a millionaire's son has less spending money than a good mechanic has in hand.

The best man to marry is a steady earnest one who slowly but surely will improve his life.

Madge Restrains Impulse to Flare at Dicky

Dicky's malicious gibe, "Sure you wouldn't rather have Faithful—I mean our neighbor of The Larches," was so anger-provoking that for a long second I stood silent, motionless, battling with the primitive impulses to scream and scratch which it brought to me.

I knew that Dicky, though realizing the reason for and the reasonableness of my actions, nevertheless had not fully forgiven me for letting Hugh Grantland escort me on the trip to Patchogue the day before. But that he should take this particular time of stress to indulge himself in this jeering reference to the incident infuriated me almost beyond control.

I mastered myself finally, however, and with head held high, turned toward the door.

"As you please," I said. "I'll telephone Hugh at once. Will you kindly take over my task of explaining to your mother why it is necessary for me to go to Patchogue, instead of remaining here for the last dinner before Mary leaves us?"

I had my hand upon the door-knob when he reached me, wrenched it free, and wrapping powerful arms around me effectually prevented me from movement.

"Let me go!" I demanded furiously but he only laughed and held me the more tightly.

DISAGREEABLE JOB

"What's the matter with the little sense of humor this afternoon?" he demanded, and resentfully I recognized an old ruse of his. Whenever he sees that he has gone too far in baiting me, he pretends that his caustic remarks have been made only in jest, and that my perception or nerves are at fault.

"'I haven't a laugh left in my system,'" I said. "Neither have I any time for airy persiflage. If you're going with me, say so, and let us get started. I still have your mother to see."

He gave me a little shake, planted a kiss between my ear and my nose and released me.

"That's where you have your little revenge," he said. I wouldn't hand mother the news of your going to Patchogue for a million. And if that's where you're going now, accept my sympathy and my blessing."

"I shall need both," I said, as again I went toward the door. "Please go downstairs and see that Jim has the car ready. I'll be with you as soon as I've seen mother. By the way, what are the small boys doing?"

"Meditating on their sins, one in each corner of the room. I saw to it that Harry didn't get in, or he would have demoralized all discipline. But I suppose I would better tell him to let them out in half an hour. Don't you think so?"

"Yes, indeed," I answered, and went on down to my mother-in-law's room, knocking at her door with a feeling that my legs would fail to carry me across the threshold.

WINS SYMPATHY

But the moment was to be counted among my lucky ones. For my mother-in-law not only listened quietly to my story of what Avis Arlen was trying to do, but arose with decision when I had finished and, coming over to me, put her hand upon my shoulder.

"You've only one job—you and Richard," she said, "and that is to go and get that girl and see to it that she has no chance to see Noel. Don't think another thing about the dinner. I've presided over dinner tables many times and I can do it again.

"There's only one thing I want you to do before you start, and that is to tell Katie that you're going, and that she is to serve dinner just as she would if you were here. I'm perfectly willing to act as hostess, but I'm not equal to standing any impertinence from that ape in the kitchen."

"I'll see to Katie," I promised, "and thank you so much, Mother."

I waited until her door was safely closed upon me to indulge in the silent laughter which I could no longer control. For my mother-in-law was too deliciously transparent for words. She had so nearly caused a domestic cataclysm by her interference with Katie the day before that I knew she would steer clear of the kitchen for a long time. But she had characteristically "saved her face"

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Phlebitis Is Confused With Varicose Veins

Recently I wrote on the subject of varicose veins. You will recall that I spoke about the so-called injection treatment, a new method of cure. Today I want to tell you about "phlebitis," which is often confused with varicose veins. In fact, in phlebitis it is advisable to avoid any injection.

Dr. Copeland

Phlebitis, or inflammation of a vein, as its name implies, is commonly found in individuals who have varicose veins. The inflammation can often be traced to rheumatism, gout, an injury or wound of the vein, or some constitutional disease. Phlebitis may occur during or after childbirth. This type of phlebitis is spoken of as "milk leg."

The victim of phlebitis usually complains of chilly sensations. He has fevers and chills. The inflamed leg is painful. The pain is usually dull or sharp, and is increased by walking or standing. The leg swells, becomes extremely painful, making it impossible to walk or stand.

The sufferer should go to bed as soon as the vein becomes inflamed and tender. Complete rest in bed will shorten the duration of the attack and hasten recovery. A good plan is to elevate the inflamed leg on a pillow or pad.

During the acute stage, benefit is derived from cold applications. When the acute symptoms subside a hot water bag or electric pad can be beneficially used. Flannel bandages are sometimes helpful.

Since infection is the primary cause of phlebitis, every attempt should be made to treat and remove all underlying infections. The teeth, tonsils and nasal sinuses should be examined as possible locations of infection. Faulty habits of eating and carelessness in hygiene must be corrected.

Persons with varicose veins and a tendency towards phlebitis should never wear tight garters or other constricting clothing. If constipation is present it should be corrected. Avoid standing as much as possible.

When the phlebitis disappears and there is no pain or discomfort, the varicose veins may then be treated. Consult with your doctor about the so-called injection method. If necessary he may advise mechanical support with a "figure of eight" elastic bandage. After you have seen this bandage applied a few times you will have no difficulty in applying it yourself. It will prove useful.

Answers to Health Queries

C. C. E. Q.—What should a girl of 17, 5 feet ½ inch tall weigh? 2—What causes cracking joints?

A.—She should weigh about 112 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance. 2—Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

Z. M. M. Q.—What should a girl of 18, 5 feet ½ inch tall weigh? 2—Will I grow any taller?

A.—You should weigh about 112 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of this age and height as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is a matter of little or no significance. 2—You have three years more in which to grow.

A. M. Q.—What is the cause of "puffs" under the eyes and what will eradicate the condition?

A.—This condition may be due to several causes. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

To presto-change two chins into single blessedness, anoint with a heavy cream, pick up the flesh between finger and thumb, roll briskly. This treatment dissolves fat cells. Don't do it at all unless you follow along with a quick tapping and slapping and an ice rub to harden the tissues. A flabby chin is worse than a double one.

Time now for the mid-season permanent. Before getting crowned with the steaming heaters, go in for a three week's conditioning treatment. Twice a week apply hot oil to the scalp, parting the hair, trickling it along the partings with a medicine dropper. Olive or mineral oil will do and a combination of castor oil and alcohol, equal parts, has a tonic effect. Next morning shampoo vigorously, rinsing with a bath spray.

Here's a beauty tip; if you use cream rouge, don't put on one large sized spot and then try to spread it. Doesn't work. Put on a lot of light dabs, blend them together.

She who loves a clay pack, believing that the messier the treatment the swifter and surer the effect, should prepare her complexion for the cosmetic spread. Remove surface dust with a cleansing cream, using several applications, taking them off with tissues. Go over the skin surface with pads of cotton that have been dipped in witch hazel, or use your favorite astringent. Dip a wash cloth in warm water, hold tight to the face, so the flesh will steam, dry, put on the pack. A good mask is compounded by mixing kaolin (Fuller's earth) with rose-water.

Contract Bridge -:-

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON.

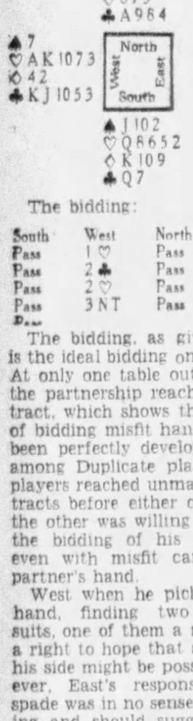
Bidding Misfit Hands

When partners at the Bridge table both have fairly strong hands, but these hands are obviously misfits, the attempt to solve the bidding problem presented by them quite often results in disaster. When the bidding discloses that the hands probably do not fit each other, the wise Bridge player heeds the danger signal and proceeds with the greatest caution. For instance, even with the strength necessary to make a Forcing Takeout or Rebid, he will be very chary about such a course when he cannot support his partner's bid suit because the Jump in the bidding may easily shut out the possibility of playing such a hand at the correct declaration, which may quite possibly be notrump.

Take the hand below, which was played in a Duplicate game in New York City recently:

South, Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ◇
Pass	2 ♡	Pass	2 NT
Pass	3 NT	Pass	Pass
Pass

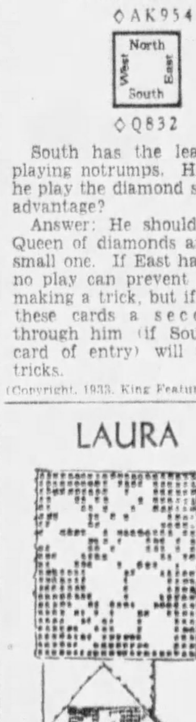
The bidding, as given above, is the ideal bidding on the hand. At only one table out of 10 did the partnership reach this contract, which shows that the art of bidding misfit hands has not been perfectly developed as yet among Duplicate players. Most players reached unmakable contracts before either one side or the other was willing to give up the bidding of his two-suiter, even with misfit cards in his partner's hand.

West when he picked up his hand, finding two five-card suits, one of them a major, had a right to hope that a game for his side might be possible. However, East's response of one spade was in no sense encouraging and should suggest to the Opening hand the advisability of proceeding with caution. Certainly, after a spade response, a Forcing Rebid by West is extremely unwise. After the two-club bid East also should not force but bid two diamonds, only to show his hand pattern and learn something further, if possible, about the prospects of reaching a good contract.

At this point West's proper bid is to rebid the heart suit, and now East, taking account of the danger signals, should be content to bid two notrump. This contract West should raise to three. The partnership, by a series of Approach bids, thus reaches the best possible contract, and in fact, the only contract at which a game can be made.

It is quite apparent that had, as occurred in many cases, a Forcing Takeout been made by East on his 3½ honor-trick holding, the bidding would have been too high before the patterns of the hands were disclosed and the correct eventual contract discovered.

Today's Question



South has the lead and is playing notrumps. How should he play the diamond suit to best advantage?

Answer: He should lead the Queen of diamonds and then a small one. If East has J 10 7 6 no play can prevent him from making a trick, but if West has these cards a second lead through him (if South has a card of entry) will make five tricks.

Correct Manners

After the Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am very much in doubt about the following:

1—After becoming acquainted one says, "I am very glad to have met you" . . . then, what is the correct response?

2—When a girl is asked to dance, what does she say, if anything, and when the dance is completed what does she say?

MARGARET.

1—It is when leaving the person to whom we have been introduced that we say, if we wish, "I am very glad to have met you." The person to whom we say this should say something like this: "Thank you. I am very glad to have met you, too," or to vary the wording a bit, "Thank you, I am happy to have met you, too," or "Thank you. It has been a pleasure to have met you, and I do hope that I shall see you again," or ". . . that I shall see you again soon."

In other words, we thank the person for the gracious statement that the person has made, and then, in order that it does not appear that we regard the pleasure as being on their side only, we enthusiastically indicate that we, too, are happy at the meeting.

2—When a girl is asked to dance, all she says is, "Yes, I'd love to," or "Thank you, I'd love to."

After the dance her partner thanks her for the dance . . . we hope he will be a well-bred partner . . . and she replies, "It was delightful," or "I enjoyed the dance so much" . . . something like this.

Golden Wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I received a golden wedding announcement and will you please let me know if it is proper or improper to send a gift? This announcement is made up in a beautiful book form and very expensive. I have always been of the opinion that an announcement means a gift.

M.

If you know these people very well, and if you really wish to send a gift, it is proper and gracious to send a gift. But it isn't necessary to make this gesture just because you received an announcement of the anniversary, no matter how elaborate this announcement is.

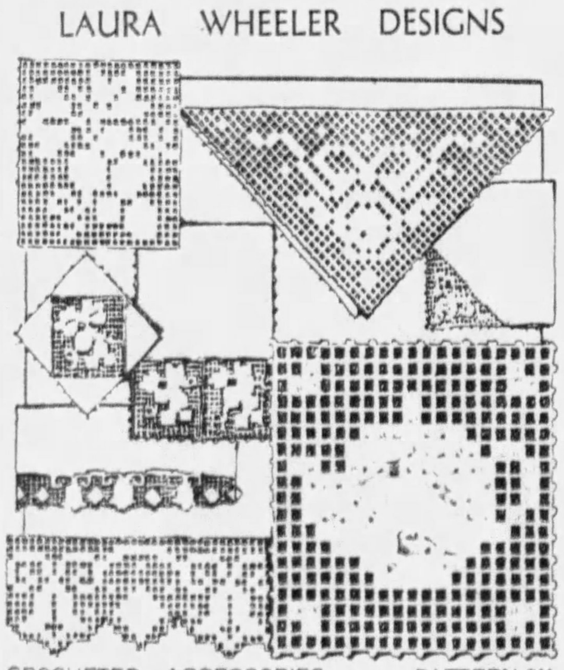
Household Hints

Grass stains on tennis flannels should be covered with equal parts of tartaric acid and salt moistened with water and placed in the sun to dry.

Taffeta should be washed by squeezing gently in lukewarm, soapy water, using soap flakes. Rinse in warm and then in cold water, press in dry cloths till only damp, then with a moderate iron press all seams on wrong side and iron the remainder of the article on the right side.

Never hang a mirror on a wall that is inclined to be damp. For this reason your bathroom mirror needs special care, since steam is bound to accumulate here. It is a good plan to nail a piece of oiled silk over the back of the mirror before it is hung, and thus prevent damp from penetrating through. If steam gathers on the mirror wipe well with a dry cloth at the points where the glass joins the framework.

LAURA WHEELER DESIGNS



Crochet Last-Minute Gifts

Crochet is so much in vogue now that anyone will welcome a gift carried out in this form of needlework. These designs offer a variety of small gift suggestions and can be done either in the twine now so popular for this work, the finer cotton, or in the case of the potholder, in wool. The grape design lends itself especially to sherbet doilies and a tray cloth as shown. The triangular motif is the right size for a handkerchief case or the corners of a teacloth. The edging at the bottom makes a handsome towel edge, and the teapot, of course, is a potholder and to be done in wool.

Pattern 611 comes to you with working charts of the four designs shown and detailed directions for the crocheting as well as for making the articles illustrated.

Send 10 cents for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Evergreen is this popular color that increases its appeal each season. A lovely new suit is in fine diagonal tweed in hunter's green. It has a short, fitted jacket collared in mink, and there is a blouse of olive green begaline with scarf neckline detail.

A shining success is a lovely coat of shimmering lame in bright silver, covered with countless rows of stitching and lined with black velvet. The enormous dolman sleeves have a very wide flounce, also lined with the velvet. It is worn over a black velvet gown.

Life savers are those new collars and jabots of lame and other metallic materials that can so easily transform a frock past its first youth. One of these is a round collar and rippled jabot of white and gold lame, with tiny gold buttons down the center. Nice over a simple blouse to brighten up a suit.

JAMES J. LONG'S SPORTS COMMENT

Death Takes Heavy Toll. Famous Feats of Sloan. Victor in Many Stakes. ♦Kiski Quartet in Bowl. Rabbit's Berth Secure. Leucht Builds Winners.

MANY SPORTS NOTABLES DIE IN ONE DAY

Rarely has death taken such a heavy one-day toll in prominent sports circles as was exacted yesterday in the passing of Tod Sloan, 59, once the world's greatest jockey; Eugene Corri, 76, England's best known boxing referee; Louis Heilbroner, 72, who managed the St. Louis Nationals for a time in 1900 and had filled almost every other post in baseball; Joseph McLennan, America's foremost horse-racing secretary, and John Whittemore, 81, second for John L. Sullivan in many of the latter's ring battles.

Tod Sloan

Sloan was the most celebrated figure of the group. He wrote a chapter all his own in international turf history, and became a warm favorite of the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII, of England. Tod's saddle career had its beginning on St. Louis tracks in 1891, and by 1896 he ranked with the leading American jockeys. During the latter year, Sloan rode 128 winners out of 430 mounts; in 1897, he had 137 victories in 369 starts, and in 1898, out of 362 mounts, he registered 166 firsts, 85 seconds and 35 thirds.

At the Ingleside track in San Francisco, on March 21, 1898, Tod won five consecutive races; on May 28, of the same year, he repeated the five straight at Gravesend, and four months later, on September 30, he became an international hero with another string of five victories in a row at Newmarket, England.

RECEIVES $25,000 FOR HIS GREATEST RIDE

Sloan's greatest stake victories were scored on Hamburg in the Realization and Brighton Cup; Ballyhoo Bey in the Futurity; Lehman and Ornament in the Brooklyn Handicap; Jean Beraud in the Double Event, Fashion, Great American, Great Trial, National Stallion and Tremont Stakes, and Joe Frey in the California Derby. His best ride is said to have been on Ballyhoo Bey in the Futurity of 1900, when he was pocketed by three of James R. Keene's jockeys, but whizzed through an opening a sixteenth of a mile from home and got under the wire first in a three-nose finish. Owner William C. Whitney rewarded him with $25,000 of the purse. Tod once had a fortune of more than a million dollars, but died broke.

Sloan established the crouching style of riding a race horse. In England the critics at first ridiculed him, calling him "a monkey on a stick." Eventually the English jockeys, who always had sat erect in the saddle, with long stirrups, tried to copy Tod's hunching style of lying along the horse's withers and neck. But they could copy only his methods, not his skill.

ROSE BOWL GAME TO HAVE KISKI FLAVOR

Football people out on the Pacific Coast are sort of expecting James Lafayette Marks to call around and mingle with them on New Year's Day. They figure, and not without reason, that if Jim hasn't made any other plans for celebrating the holiday, he might find the Rose Bowl game between Stanford and Columbia very much to his liking. For it's going to be something of a Kiskiminetas day at Pasadena, and Marks, as all the gridiron faithful know, is dean and head football coach at that prep school, where he has developed so many stars as to win the title of "the greatest teacher of football who never coached a college team."

Jim Marks

The only trouble is that Jim might find it hard to decide which team to root for, as his sympathies must necessarily be divided. For there are two of his Kiski products on each side, probably the first time this distinction ever has fallen to any prep school in a Tournament of Roses game. On the Columbia team there are Cliff Montgomery, of Natrona Heights, captain and quarterback, and Joe Ferrara, of Pittsburgh, star tackle, who may yet be declared eligible to play. In Stanford's lineup will be Bob Hamilton, halfback, and Jim (Monk) Moscrip, end. All four are former Kiski players and received their early football schooling from Marks.

MARANVILLE'S JOB SAFE INDEFINITELY

While the major league jobs of many young players are in jeopardy, one who has nothing to worry about is 42-year-old Rabbit Maranville. One day Rabbit may get an opening to become a manager in the big show, and until that time comes his berth with the Boston Braves is safe, according to President Emil Fuchs. Among the stories coming out of the big league meetings last week was one to the effect that Tony Piet, former Pirate second baseman with the Reds, would be traded to Boston for Maranville and that the Rabbit then would be appointed manager of the Cincinnati club. That prospect faded quickly, but Maranville's position in Boston continues secure.

"And if the Rabbit doesn't get a manager's job we'll keep him for another 20 years," said President Fuchs. "He positively will not be traded if he does not get some offer to better himself, and then we'd let him do whatever he wanted to do. Maranville on one leg is better than some of the present major league infielders on two legs, and we need him."

MT. LEBANON COACH RANKS WITH LEADERS

When you're rating the high school coaches of this neighborhood who have been more than ordinarily successful in two sports, you've got to award a place pretty well up front to Henry Leucht. Heinie, as he is more intimately known, is head mentor in both football and basketball at Mt. Lebanon High, and in looking over the field of contemporary scholastic coaches filling similar roles it would take a very keen eye to find a man who has shown greater ability or cleaner sportsmanship or has given a better account of himself on the double job.

Henry Leucht

Leucht has made an excellent record and deserves a world of credit for the impressive manner in which he has kept Mt. Lebanon High in the foreground, aided, of course, by the school's fine spirit and loyal support. Twice Heinie has landed his basketball team on top in his section to enter the W. P. I. A. L. championship eliminations, and in football this year he did so well with a green eleven as to win seven out of nine games, both defeats being suffered at the hands of opponents that were among the season's standouts. The foundation for Leucht's successful coaching career was laid at Waynesburg College, of which he is a graduate and where he won distinction as an all-around athlete.

COLUMBIA PLEA FOR NORGARD REFUSED

By BILL CORUM
International News Service.

EL PASO, Tex., Dec. 22.—Mr. Arthur Brisbane, America's most famous and most active reporter, frequently makes these trips from coast to coast and entertains and enlightens his readers by writing in plain, simple language what he sees as he goes along.

I believe some philosopher once said that the great were always plain. Mr. Brisbane is a big reporter. The difference between a big reporter and a little reporter is that the big reporter sees more and says it in fewer words. The big reporter also uses little words where the little reporter uses big ones.

APOLOGIES TO BRISBANE

This, then, is a poor imitation of a story Mr. Brisbane might write if he were traveling to the Pacific Coast with the Columbia University football team that plays the Stanford University team in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's Day.

Warm summer sunshine in December greeted the Columbia special train at Dallas, busy city of 300,000 wide awake Americans yesterday. The streets are jammed with Christmas shoppers, most of whom carry their own bundles out to their own automobiles. No depression in evidence here.

Newspaper men and fans aboard the Columbia special drink bottled mountain water from Hot Springs, Ark. But the players drink regular New York city tap water, enough of which they have brought along in glass bottles to last them until after the game.

It would interest other young men, who haven't the advantage of a paid trainer to watch after their diet, to see these young football players eat. Here is a sample of a dinner after a long, hard practice.

Stewed figs, cream of tomato soup, half broiled chicken, mashed potatoes, new green peas, dry toast, ice cream, milk.

That's all. No coffee or tea. No fried meats. No rich desserts. No after-dinner cigars. No smoking at any time, in fact.

LITTLE DISPLEASED

The newspapers carry a dispatch from San Francisco which says that Alvar Norgard, capable Stanford end, will be ineligible to play in the Rose Bowl game. He played two minutes with another university team before going to Stanford.

This news displeases Coach Lou Little, who wires the Stanford authorities asking that the boy be allowed to play. But the wire has no effect. One of Columbia's star players is also ineligible. Former President Hoover's alma mater is not likely to yield anything to Nicholas Murray Butler's University in the matter of strict eligibility rules.

STANFORD DECLINES

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—When informed that the Columbia University football team and its coaches had wired Coach Tiny Thornhill, of Stanford, requesting that Al Norgard, star end, Cardinal declared ineligible for the Rose Bowl game New Year's Day at Pasadena, be permitted to play, Prof. W. B. Owens, Stanford faculty athletic representative, said:

"That is mighty nice of Columbia, but Norgard will not be allowed to play. He has been declared ineligible under Pacific Coast Conference rulings and we will stand by the decision."

SCHOOL TEAMS TIE

LAKELAND, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Ithaca High School, of New York state, and Lakeland's Dreadnaught eleven fought to a 7-to-7 tie here last night, the Southerners scoring in the last half. A crowd estimated at 4,000 saw the hard-fought intersectional battle, played for the benefit of the Salvation Army's Christmas fund.

Names in News

HEARTLY (HUNK) ANDERSON, recently deposed football coach at Notre Dame, in a statement at Durham, N. C., last night, said that the possibility of his becoming head coach at the University of North Caroline next year was "out."

GEORGE R. JACOBUS, president of the National Professional Golfers' Association, has named LEO DIEGEL, GENE SARAZEN, PAUL RUNYAN, CRAIG WOOD, JOHNNY FARRELL, DENSMORE SHUTE, AL ESPINOSA, OLIN DUTRA and HORTON SMITH as the P. G. A.'s first tournament committee.

JACK WESTROPE, regarded as the nation's leading jockey, was set down yesterday by the Epsom Downs (Tex.) racing officials for five days for rough riding.

L. HOGAN, city pocket billiard champion, and M. Tallowitch, of McKeesport, county champion, meet tonight in the Roosevelt parlors for the district championship.

JACK CORCORAN has been released as head football coach at St. Viator College.

HOWARD BERRY, former University of Pennsylvania football star, has been asked to become state chairman of the Young Republicans of Pennsylvania.

RUTH TO LEAD YANKEES

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Babe Ruth will be the next manager of the New York Yankees—when Joe McCarthy's contract expires two years from now.

The Babe will be in there playing for the Yankees this year and probably next. The Yankees wanted him to manage Newark in the International League for experience this year, but the Babe couldn't see it. He says he's been getting experience all of these years in the big leagues.

That's the lowdown on the Ruth situation, brought to a head here today as a result of rumors, speedily denied, that Babe is through right now, and is ready to drop out of baseball.

Smith High Scorer In Tenpin League

C. Smith, of Team No. 12, turned in the high score in the Westinghouse Tenpin League matches rolled last night when he hit the wood for a total of 221 in his second game against Team No. 10.

Five others rolled 200 or better, Candee, of Team No. 5, getting 203 pins in his first game and 212 in his second. The scores:

D. and E., Bucknell Card Grid Game

ELKINS, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The Scarlet Hurricane of Davis-Elkins will sweep into Lewisburg, Pa., on the night of September 28, 1934, for a clash with Bucknell's Bisons, marking the first meeting of athletic teams representing the two institutions.

TICE IS HONORED

Dick Tice, a graduate of Youngwood High School, has been elected captain of the 1934 Susquehanna College football squad. Tice is a tackle.

RUDOLPH BEATS PONZI TO WIN CUE TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Erwin Rudolph, of Cleveland, who gave up the study of the violin to concentrate on billiards, today was back as ruler of pocket billiard players for the fourth time.

The Clevelander, who decided between music and billiards at the age of 15, last night regained the title he last won in 1931, by downing Andrew Ponzi, of Philadelphia, 125 to 113 in 18 innings. With the title went $1,600 in prize money, a diamond studded medal and a share of the receipts. Rudolph also won the 1927 and 1930 tournaments.

The new champion took an early lead and apparently had the match well in hand by the fifth inning. However, three successive scratches cost him 16 points, and Ponzi, who held first place in the tournament until early this week, closed up the gap. The latter had a run of 46 in the eighteenth, but scratched, and Rudolph went out on his next chance at the table, with an unfinished run of 20. His high was 49.

Ponzi slipped to a tie with the two other Philadelphia entrants, Willie Mosconi and George Kelly, and James Caras, of Wilmington, Del., making necessary a playoff for the position and its $1,100 in prize money. Caras and Mosconi were opposed in the first match, will Kelly and Ponzi tangling in the second this afternoon.

MAMAUX GETS LIQUOR JOB

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Al Mamaux, former major league pitcher and manager of pennant winning teams in Newark, of the International League, had a new profession today. Al will head the liquor department of a local drug concern.

Al, whose tenor voice has been delighting vaudeville audiences for years in the off-seasons, denies that he will give a song with each quart.

RANDOUR UNDER KNIFE

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—George Randour, captain of this year's Villanova College football team, yesterday underwent an operation on the right elbow. Randour's home is in McDonald. He will be graduated next June.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Indications are that Greasy Neale will be back as football coach at West Virginia University next fall. The hue and cry has subsided at Morgantown, where it is realized now that Neale had a tough job on his hands with squad limitations and a lot of bad luck in close games, and sentiment has veered in his favor. Greasy has shown on other jobs that he is a good football coach, and he is a game guy for sticking it out in the face of a hostile alumni body at West Virginia. If he tries again, he should be given the sort of co-operation any coach needs to get results.

Jimmy O'Grady, the manager of boxers, who was around here two winters ago with Leon Jendrasiak, from Terre Haute, is in Texas now, handling Lou Jallos, who did some boxing in local rings.

Eugene Corri, England's greatest boxing referee, who died yesterday, was internationally famous in his heyday, although he has been forgotten for years. Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, now refereeing in California, always claimed Corri gave him a bad deal when he awarded the late Freddie Welsh the decision in London which stripped Ritchie of his title.

Strange that Tod Sloan, the Earl Sande of the jockeys years ago; Louis Heilbroner, compiler of the Baseball Blue Book; Joseph McLennan, racing secretary, and Warren Laufer, sports cartoonist, all should join Corri in death within a period of 24 hours.

Matchmaker Lew Raymond has just about every big name in the Jack Curley wrestling cabinet except that of Santa Claus on his card for the Arena next Thursday night. Justifying this oversight, Lew says he has been told there ain't no Santa Claus.

Jim Jennings, a reporter, was the hero of the recent Jim Browning-Don George wrestling show in New York's Madison Square Garden. When Gus Sonnenberg landed in his lap during a preliminary with Strangler Lewis, Jennings tossed him back into the ring and told him to stay there. Later Rudy Dusek and Sam Cordovano executed a mass attack upon Jim and he deftly pulled aside and let them hit the floor together. Both bouts resulted in draws, so Jennings is claiming both decisions.—HARRY KECK.

West Va. to Try Five-Round Bouts

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Future amateur boxing contests in West Virginia will be over the five rounds route rather than three rounds as previously, George C. Smiley, of Bluefield, A. A. U. representative in Southern West Virginia, announced last night.

BAILEY SHOWS BIG GAIN

International News Service.

BOSTON, Dec. 22.—The phenomenal recovery made from the brink of death by Irvin (Ace) Bailey, injured Toronto hockey player, progressed so much today that his physicians at City Hospital removed him from a restricted diet and gave permission for him to have even a steak if he desired.

Bailey, although still on the danger list, spent his third consecutive night of normal sleep as he entered the tenth day since his injury in the Boston Garden when he crashed to the ice on his head in a collision with Eddie Shore, Boston Bruin defensive star.

His chances for complete recovery are well above event. Bailey had eggs and milk yesterday, the first food he was able to take through the mouth. Previously he had been fed intra-venously.

Art Ross, manager of the Bruins, has evolved a new type of headgear for his hockey players to prevent a similar injury. It is an adaptation of a football helmet and is said to be a protection against falls and also against a high stick.

SMITH LEADS IN TOURNEY

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—If there was any doubt about sub-par golf being needed to win the Pasadena Open championship the brilliant veteran, MacDonald Smith, has dispelled it.

Smith hewed to a straight line from tee to pin yesterday in bringing in a sparkling 67, the best score of the first day's qualifying round. Only half the top-heavy field of 200 played, but the Carnoustie Scot's performance set up a mental hazard for the other half today.

Two strokes behind Smith and two strokes under par was Paul Runyan, of White Plains, N. Y.

Bell Advances In Net Tourney

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Berkeley Bell will meet Frank Bowden in one of the semi-final matches of the Metropolitan indoor tennis championships today. Bell had little trouble eliminating John Nogrady yesterday.

Eugene McCauliff, defending champion, meets Len Hartman in a quarter-final match today.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Frankie Parker, sensational Milwaukee tennis youth, today had been seeded No. 1 for the national junior indoor championship which starts Tuesday. Since Parker is No. 8 in the national rankings, he is expected to breeze through the tournament without the loss of a set.

Artillery Poloists Face Cavalry Foes

Still sampling the fruits of their amazing victory over the Vangs, the 107th Field Artillery poloists face the acid test as Indoor Polo League competition is resumed at Hunt Armory tomorrow night.

The opposition will be furnished by the 308th Cavalry trio, a perennial nemesis to the Gunners.

ELMER'S AIDE SEEN SLATED FOR BERTH

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Joe Bach is just about "in" as the new head coach of football at Duquesne University.

If any further indication was needed that the trend is toward the line mentor who has been working on the Bluff for several seasons, it was given at the P. A. A. last night during a testimonial dinner to Elmer Layden, departing head coach, who is headed Notre Dameward.

In his talk in answer to the laudations of many friends, Layden said he had recommended to the Rev. J. J. Callahan, president of the University, who sat at his side, that Bach be named to succeed him. Father Callahan, just dismissed from Mercy Hospital, where he has been undergoing treatment, spoke before Elmer and did not comment on the situation. However, Bach's appointment now is seen as a matter of days—or hours. Joe was one of the guests at the dinner.

RIVAL COACHES SPEAK

The dinner was tendered by Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, close friend of Layden, and was attended by many lawyers, judges, college football and athletic authorities and a few newspapermen. Layden expressed regret in leaving Duquesne, denied he had "built up" football here and also that he was another Knute Rockne, said he realized he was stepping into deep water in his new assignment as the successor to Hunk Anderson, and was approaching his new responsibilities with neither undue optimism nor pessimism.

Coaches Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, and Howard Harpster, of Tech, contributed their praise of Layden and urged that he be not too tough on them when their teams play Notre Dame next fall. Other speakers included:

Clarence Overend and W. Don Harrison, athletic heads of Carnegie Tech and Pitt; Judges Frank Patternson and Joseph Stadtfeld and E. T. Leech, editor of the Pittsburgh Press.

EXPRESSES REGRET

Father Callahan expressed keen regret over the loss of Layden and said it was his wish that at Notre Dame Elmer might duplicate his success at Duquesne.

Host Eaton toastmastered after the masterly manner of an old master toastmaster.

FIGHT RESULTS

At Quincy, Ill. — Paul Lee defeated Frankie Wolfram, 10 rounds; Joe Redd knocked out Tony Chudick, 3 rounds; Bud Schrutchings and Eddie Terry drew, 8 rounds.

At West Palm Beach, Fla.—Maxie Rosenbloom, world light-heavyweight champion, and Bob Godwin drew, 10 rounds.

At Philadelphia—Buck Jones won by a technical knockout over Tony Stetz, 7 rounds.

At Tacoma, Wash.—Jimmy McLeod and Elmer Brown drew, 6 rounds.

Joe Skladany Named On Collier's Team

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Selections for Collier's All-America football team, which is a perpetuation of the original All-America founded by Walter Camp, were announced today. The players chosen are:

Ends: Skladany, Pittsburgh; Larson, Minnesota.

Tackles: Wistert, Michigan; Crawford, Duke.

Guards: Corbus, Stanford; Rosenberg, Southern California.

Center: Bernard, Michigan.

Quarterback: Warburton, Southern California.

Halfbacks: Purvis, Purdue; Feathers, Tennessee.

Fullback: Sauer, Nebraska.

In awarding the Walter Camp gold footballs to these men, the judges declare that "for the first time in many years the team represents a logical selection that is fairly obvious to anyone considering the full record of every candidate."

Second and third teams were selected this year by the judges for the first time in several years. These selections follow:

SECOND TEAM

Ends: Petoskey, Michigan; Geisler, Centenary.

Tackles: Mehringer, Kansas; Jorgenson, St. Mary's.

Guards: Schammel, Iowa; Volok, Tulsa.

Center: Del Isola, Fordham.

Quarterback: Laws, Iowa.

Halfbacks: Lund, Minnesota; Buckler, Army.

Fullback: Danowski, Fordham.

THIRD TEAM

Ends: Smith, Washington; Matal, Columbia.

Tackles: Ceppi, Princeton; Buss, Michigan State.

Guards: Gailus, Ohio State; Hupke, Alabama.

Center: Vuchinich, Ohio State.

Quarterback: Grayson, Stanford.

Halfbacks: Everhardus, Michigan; Franklin, Oregon State.

Fullback: Mikulak, Oregon.

John Q. Jinx, who, in one form or the other, has been ankling along on the heels of Lou Jagnow, Carnegie Tech's basketball captain, for lo, these many years, or ever since Lou first matriculated at the Skibo institution, has reared his coco once again, squarely in Lou's path.

The Tartan captain will not be able to perform for the Skibos before January 26 and maybe not then. Lou lost a decision to his text books last semester and was placed on probation when school opened last fall. The faculty refused to give him a clean bill of health at mid-semester. The solons refused again only recently, and it is now up to Capt. Lou to clear himself by the time the first semester comes to a close.

HAS BAD KNEES

Jagnow's previous trouble has been more physical than scholastic. He has been bothered with a pair of very tricky trick knees, which have handicapped his play to a great extent. At that, he took part in 21 games during the 1931-32 campaign and 19 games last season.

With Jagnow out, George (Red) Silverman, former Fifth Avenue High School star, has been appointed acting captain of the Plaid and will lead the team in the first six games on the schedule, against West Virginia, Temple, Georgetown, Pitt, Duquesne and Wash-Jeff.

If Jagnow fails to make up his work, the Redhead will continue to pilot the Tartans.

The loss of Jagnow comes as a severe blow to Coach Max Hannum. Der Maxie has the patience of Job. He is not addicted to the use of strong language, but he must have felt like giving vent to at least a loud "heck" when he learned that Captain Lou was out.

LOSS SERIOUS

In the first place, Jagnow is a smart head, one well fitted to lead a team which is bound to be as inexperienced as the Skibos against the class of opposition that is to be confronted. In the second place, he's an ace performer, when right, as good a forward and point scorer as can be found in the district.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: A HEROIC DIAMOND WEDDING—Christian Almer, aged 90, and his wife, aged 92, celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary by climbing to the peak of the Wetterhorn in Switzerland (12,166 feet) in 1906. The exploit is even more remarkable when it is realized that Almer, a great Alpine guide, had all of his toes amputated as a result of a terrible frostbite in 1885. He had served in the Swiss War of 1847 and took part in the ascension of the Hasli Jungfrau in 1854, whence modern mountaineering is dated. WALTER REED—This great bacteriologist was born in Virginia on September 13, 1851. The very precocious youngster was an accomplished Hellenist and a Latinist at the age of 15. He was graduated in 1869 with the degree of M. D. (Doctor of Medicine) at the unprecedented age of 18 (University of Virginia). In 1899, when an epidemic of yellow fever was particularly severe in Cuba, Reed was chairman of committee to investigate its causes and method of propagation. Through a set of experiments upon human beings, he established the mosquito (Stegomyia fasciata) as the carrier of the parasite, enabling the American sanitary engineers to eradicate the disease.

CURRY, RIEHLS MAY BATTLE MINUS STARS

By TOM BIRKS

The high commission of the Western Pennsylvania Soccer Football Association failed to hold its usual weekly meeting last night, and, as a result, Manager Bruce, of Curry, and Manager Ralph Hoffman, of the Castle Shannon Riehls, did not have an opportunity to get the suspension of Players Cimerolli and Zywan lifted. Now both teams will have to do considerable shifting of players for the game at Greenlee Field on Sunday.

This is an elimination game for the Western Pennsylvania championship. The loser drops out of the tourney and both managers may be pardoned for trying to get the strongest eleven possible on the field.

Zywan and Cimerolli were suspended for a rumpus in the last game between the clubs. With Cimerolli, a fullback, out of the game, Manager Bruce is in a tough spot, but, with Buff Donnelli back in the lineup, Charley Powell may be shifted to fullback.

Zywan is one of the finest wingmen in the district. It has been his work that has placed the Riehls in position to score. However, J. Kevish can be brought into the lineup, and, working with Johnny Jaap may shine to advantage.

The Pittsburgh Rovers-Beltzhoover game, scheduled for Saturhoover game, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, has been postponed.

The Arsenal and the Beadling aggregations will be fighting for the top position of the Central District League tomorrow. While the teams still have to meet at Beadling later in the season, it is likely that this game will settle the league title.

Old Carnegie has a clean record so far, while Arsenal has dropped one point to the Clan Douglas outfit. This point may decide the title.

The Panhandle League game at Beadling tomorrow has been postponed because the Nathans have been ordered to meet Cedar Grove on Sunday.

SLOAN BURIAL PLANS SET

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Tod Sloan, 59, for many years the world's most famous jockey.

Death from cirrhosis of the liver yesterday wrote finis to the colorful career of the little man who wrote turf history on two continents and lived gaily.

Sloan battled courageously for life and refused to believe that the end was near until yesterday when he told a friend, E. E. Kent, former hotel manager:

"This is a race everybody loses."

Kent pressed his old friend's hand. Sloan said:

"Let's have a little drink."

He and Kent drank a final toast, of bonded Bourbon whisky. The dying jockey murmured:

"Don't leave me, pal. I'll soon be sitting before the judge's stand, but I won't be on a horse this time."

Sloan, who had made a vast fortune in America and England, died penniless. He was a "good fellow." He made it and spent it—lavishly. He gave generously to his friends.

His former wife, Betty Maloney Sloan, and his lifelong friend and benefactor, Mrs. J. P. Cudahy, today were to complete arrangements for the funeral. A daughter, Ann, also mourned his death.

STAR AMATEURS GAIN FINALS IN TOURNEY

Nine knockouts, six of them of the technical variety, added spice to the program as amateur boxers from the Pittsburgh sector battled for places in the finals of the Western Pennsylvania amateur boxing tournament at the Moose Temple last night. The finals will be staged here in January. The summary:

SEMI-FINALS

112-pound class—Ray Hatton defeated Abe Russell; Matt Ozeniak won by a technical knockout over George Morgan, third round.

118-pound class—Tony DeMore defeated Frankie Flavin; Billy Miller defeated Frankie Wingo.

126-pound class—Leo Sweeney defeated Johnny Tirpak; Patsy Contillo defeated Don Shafer.

160-pound class—Walter Scislowski won by a technical knockout over Jim Kuslak, first round; Al Quaill won by a technical knockout over Steve Mazur, second round.

175-pound class—George Luppinacci won by a technical knockout over Jimmy Wolf, second round; Elmer Schleiden knocked out George Hereeg, first round.

Heavyweight class—Floyd Wollcott defeated Jack Baird; John Petro won by a technical knockout over R. M. McCullough, first round.

Three newcomers are included in the 1934 football schedule arranged for the Oakmont High School eleven. The card calls for nine games, five with class B opponents, three with class A schools and one with Shady Side Academy, a non-league member.

Freeport, Brentwood and Arnold are the new opponents. Oakmont played only six games last season, the season's finale with Verona being canceled.

Sewickley, Freeport, Aspinwall, Brentwood and Verona are the class B opponents, while Har-Brack, Arnold and Springdale are the class A teams. The scedule: September 21, Har-Brack, away; September 28, Sewickley home; October 5, Freeport, away; October 13, Aspinwall, away; October 19, Shady Side, away; October 26, Brentwood, home; November 2, Arnold, home; November 10, Springdale, away; November 16, Verona, home.

The Charleroi-East Pike Run game, scheduled for tonight in Charleroi, has been postponed until tomorrow.

The Rankin High quintet, originally scheduled to meet Munhall tonight, will meet the Duquesne University Freshies instead. The game will be played at Rankin.

Having won the Fayette County championship for the third time, Redstone Township High School, coached by Clyde Smith, has obtained permanent possession of the Penn State trophy. Redstone Township was the only school to defeat California last season, the result of which kept Carl Aschman's team out of the running for the class A title.

Allderdice, Schenley, Bellevue, Brownsville and California were among the winners in yesterday's scholastic pre-season games. One of the big upsets was the defeat of Oliver by a faculty quintet, 46 to 41.

THE LATE TOD SLOAN

Greatest Ride of Most Famous Jockey Brought Victory by a Nose in 1900 Futurity Classic.

(This is the first of a series of five feature stories on Tod Sloan, greatest jockey of all time, who died yesterday in California, written by Hype Igoe, veteran sports writer.

In this series, Igoe will review the romantic turf folklore of Sloan's time, tell of Sloan's rise as a jockey to the "daddy of them all," his origin of the "monkey seat" perch, his fabulous earnings as the world's premier jockey and his princely squandering that brought him to the trail's end.

In tht second chapter of this series, Igoe will tell of Sloan's fame as handler of demon horses that won him a royal bid to ride in the English Derby.)

By HYPE IGOE

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The death yesterday of Tod Sloan in California has revived many of the romantic stories told of this greatest of all American jockeys. Sloan had a fortune of $1,100,000 in cash at one time, according to Jack Doyle, his former partner in the famous billiard room. John J. McGraw, of the Giants, was the third partner in that famous combination.

Not a dollar remained of Tod's great bankroll when he answered the final bugle call—he "died broke."

The story of Sloan's great victory on Ballyhoo-Bey, riding for William C. Whitney in the Futurity of 1900, is one of the classics of turf folklore. The race is run at Sheepshead Bay and Sloan, whizzing through an opening after being deliberately pocketed by three of James R. Keene's jockeys until a sixteenth of a mile from home, got under the wire first in a three-nose finish!

Sloan had gone to England and had become a sensation abroad. His "monkey seat" was the joy of the gamblers and the horror of the staid bluebloods, who insisted that no gentleman would flatten out over a horse's withers and finish "like a monkey on a stick."

ENGAGED BY WHITNEY

There had cropped up bitter rivalry on the turf between Whitney and James R. Keene. The war had been transferred from Wall street, where the two men had begun the battle of millions years before.

Keene had first call on Winnie O'Connor, Iceman Spencer and Milton Henry, the best riders in this country. He decided that he would clinch the Futurity by starting three horses. Quietly, Whitney had cabled Sloan in England, asking him if he would come over and ride Ballyhoo-Bey for him.

The cablegram told Sloan that he could tab from $5,000 to $6,000 for his expenses, reading:

"If you win the Futurity for me I'll top any fee ever paid for a rider."

Tod accepted and left on the next boat. With his flock of trunks, he put up at the Waldorf-Astoria, the "bad news" being $100 a day! His arrival under such regal conditions added greatly to the interest being taken in the coming turf battle between the magnates and Sloan, pitted against O'Connor, Spencer and Henry.

RIVAL TELLS STORY

The other day Winnie O'Connor told me the real story of that race. It was thrilling, even in its recitation. The once great jockey, who also rode for kings and royalty abroad, is now tending bar at a Broadway cafe. He said:

"We knew how anxious Mr. Keen was to win this Futurity. We also knew that Mr. Whitney was ready to give 10 years of his life to beat the Keen entries.

"Spencer, Henry and myself were just as anxious to trim Sloan after all the fuss they had made about his coming to the States to ride Ballyhoo-Bey. We talked it over among ourselves and decided that if we could run Sloan and Ballyhoo-Bey into pocket they'd never get out and one of the three of us would come on to win. We knew that our mounts had the race to ourselves."

"Spencer was on Cap-and-Bells. Henry rode Olympian and I was astride Tommy Atkins. We came out of the chute, the distance being about three-quarters of a mile. Sloan was off with the barrier snap and then immediately took back. He had decided to pick his position in the race and sit tight. He sat tighter than he bargained for.

SLOAN POCKETED

"Spencer began to set the pace on Cap-and-Bells, riding down close to the rail. Sloan took up close behind him, but a little to his right, not so close to the rail. Henry, on Olympian, spurted a bit and dropped over, slightly in front of Sloan and Spencer, although directly on a line in front of Tod. Then I became the padlock. I rode up on the outside of Sloan, just a neck ahead of his mount, and the pocket was complete. He was as safely locked in as if he had been in the Tombs.

"We were within our riding rights. There wasn't even the semblance of a foul. He had picked his spot and he had to like or leave it. We were drawing close to the finish. Suddenly I noted that Spencer's horse was beginning to drop back slightly. That spelled trouble and a possible escape for Sloan.

"'He's going to get out. Hold him in, Milton,' I yelled, 'and I'll go on and win.' You would have sworn that I had jabbed spurs into Henry. He heard my call and made his own decision. It was that he would win the race himself! Mind you, I still was key man, and if Henry held fast to his position Sloan couldn't come through.

ESCAPES AND WINS

"Disregarding my better judgment, Henry lashed Olympian with his whip and pulled away, half a length. The hole. How he had waited for it! Sloan went through with Ballyhoo-Bey as quick as an eel. Once on the rail, in front of Spencer's tired horse, he let Ballyhoo-Bey down and beat Henry and me a nose in one of the closest finishes ever seen in the Futurity.

"Mr. Whitney picked Sloan up in his arms and hugged him when he came back to the stand.

"'Sloan,' he said, 'as long as there is a Whitney in the world you will not come to want!

"Mr. Whitney gave Tod $25,000 of the purse.

"Sloan was the daddy of them all. He could make horses do anything. They loved him and he loved them. What a rider!"

RING AND MAT CARDS FULL

Two local sports cards for next week have been completed. They are the boxing show at the Moose Temple, Christmas afternoon, and the second wrestling show at the Arena, on the North Side, Thursday evening.

Both programs pack a lot of promise.

At the Moose, a bout between Dominic Mancini, of the North Side, and Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, has been arranged to take the place of the 10-round windup between Petey Sarron, of Washington, and Mose Butch, local featherweight, canceled when Butch was stricken with grippe.

Anson Green, Negro middleweight, of Homestead, boxes Walter Kirkwood, of Alexandria, Va., in the first 10-rounder, and there will be three six-round bouts, as follows:

Max Elling vs. General Burrow.
Red Bruce vs. Mike Mitchell.
Don Asto vs. Johnny Durso.

Both Jim Browning, one of the claimants of the world heavyweight title, and Paul Berlenbach, who has returned to wrestling, his first love, after having won and lost the world light-heavyweight boxing championship, are on the mat card at the Arena.

Browning meets Stanley Pinto in the main bout and Sammy Stein opposes Frank Bronowicz in the semi-final. Berlenbach's opponent will be Murray Braizin, of New York. Bert Rubi, star of the Arena's first show, returns against Sid Nabors, and Len Macaluso takes on Jack Zarnas, the Greek.

Rider Passers Bow To Geneva, 33-32

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 22.—(AP.)—Staving off a last period rally, the basketball team of Geneva College, of Beaver Falls, Pa., nosed out Rider College, 33-32, in an exciting contest.

Geneva, led by a star forward, Ginsburg, moved out in front early and stayed there for the greater part of the game. In the final period, however, Coach Frank Donlon, of Rider, sent Vince O'Hara, sub forward, into the fray, and O'Hara dropped two shots from past mid-court to tie the count at 30-30.

Ginsburg shortly afterwards caged a field goal and foul and that was enough to offset a third long heave by O'Hara. The lineup:

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHILLY DOYLE

A smart baseball man dwelling on championship clubs spoke in this manner to the writer:

"Give me outstanding defensive strength on a straight line from the catcher to the centerfielder and I will give you a flag contender. In other words, I will give you a winning team through the medium of a first-grade catcher, topnotch pitching, a championship combination around the middle of the diamond and a ball hawk in center. The flanks may be guarded by mediocre players yet the collective results will be satisfactory."

If this contention be logical, the Pirates are either the exception to the rule or they are a bit lucky to be around the top. Gibson's catching is in and out, his sharpshooting division has been falling down consistently and while there have been boys of rare promise around the middle bag, their team-play has left much to be desired. Centerfield is the only spot that holds the fort properly.

Gibby has five catchers on his list, but the first-string job is a will-o'-the-wisp conjecture. Earl Grace was out much of the past season with injuries and he did not finish up impressively; Hal Finney was a big disappointment for one who is gifted with so much natural ability, and Tommy Padden, who seemed to be the most efficient receiver of the trio, defensively, was out under an option through most of the season. The two new recruit maskmen on the 1934 roster, Art Veltman and Walter Van Grofski, are in the experimental stage.

Walter (Butch) Henline, former star catcher of the Phillies, approached Gibson at the Chicago meetings and offered his services. Henline, at 34, is a free agent, having been unconditionally released by the Minneapolis club. It seems only a few years that Walter shaped up as one of the best receivers in the National League, but he drifted out of the big show quite young. Apparently he did not take his chores seriously, but as he talked with Gibby he was serious to a marked degree. Moreover, he had the appearance of a fit performer. Butch was a "sweet" catcher and he could hit when he did his stuff for Art Fletcher at Philadelphia.

The Pittsburgh pilot was impressed by Walter's earnestness as he applied for a position. Sizing up Henline from head to foot and noting the absence of excess flesh, Gibby asked:

"If I were to put you on the Pirate roster, how many games could you catch for us?"

Henline responded quickly:

"One hundred or more."

Gibson made no decision, but he held the question under advisement. The Canuck realizes he is skating on thin ice when he falls back on his receiving set. Give the Buccos a Lopez, a Hartnett or a Mancuso and their battle front for the coming campaign would be something to write home about.

Tucker's Stars Easy Pin Victors

The E. M. Tucker All-Stars, leading the circuit, won their weekly match in the Metropolitan Tenpin League by more than 200 pins, against the Firt Pitt five. The scores:

STOCKS REACT FROM SILVER BOOM PEAKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Wall street's clouds had a distinctive silver lining today, but the trading weather generally was a little uncertain.

Led by the metal group, stocks jumped 1 to 10 points shortly after the opening, apparently on the overnight news that the President had promoted silver to a more solid monetary base with a value for newly mined metal of 64½ cents an ounce. Trading was fast for a while, but later quieted down under profit-taking. Grains, cotton and other commodities leaped forward behind a sharp advance in silver futures. Foreign exchanges rallied substantially, although the gold price remained static. Speculative bonds firm, but United States government issues eased.

The so-called silver shares, including United States Smelting, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco and Colorado Southern, were up around 5 to 10 points at their best, but most of them later reacted from their peaks. At the same time, the tobacco section had its worst break in some months, Liggett and Myers B losing about 6, American Tobacco B 3 and Reynolds B nearly 2. American Telephone also dropped 3, and Consolidated Gas, National Distillers, United States Industrial Alcohol, Atlas Tack and some others were off 1 to around 2. United States Steel, Case, Eastman Kodak, Sears, Roebuck, Kennecott, New York Central, Johns-Manville and Allied Chemical were up fractionally to about 2 points. Union Pacific and Santa Fe were a bit lower.

Brokerage circles were unable to fully account for the fall of tobacco shares. In some quarters the break was attributed partly to year-end selling. The recent drop in cigaret production, with the likelihood that earnings have shown considerable decline, was also believed to have been a factor.

News that the RFC had increased its gold-buying fund by another 25 million dollars to a total of 100 million dollars and that 60 million dollars had already been used in purchases, was also of much interest to Wall Street. Intimations from Washington that the administration would place no limits upon future expenditures for gold, both at home and abroad, tended to confirm previous opinions that there would be no relaxation in the campaign to raise commodity prices.

The financial district did not attach much importance to the fact that the gold rate has not been increased more frequently. It was believed significant by some banking quarters, however, that of the gold already purchased only $16,976,000 was bought in the United States, while some 45 million dollars was acquired abroad. It was not known in just which foreign centers the gold transactions took place, but it was generally assumed that the bulk of the buying was in London.

Freight car loadings for the week ended December 16, which were reported today, were about in line with previous estimates. They were up 17,329 over the preceding week to a total of 554,832. The total was 39,063 ahead of the corresponding week last year.

COTTON SELLS UP 19 POINTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Cotton futures opened firm, 15 to 19 higher on active buying owing to the government's decision to purchase silver and on higher Liverpool cables. January 10.02; March 10.18; May 10.33; July 10.45; October 10.64; December 10.77.

Trading was quite active at the opening with buying power more or less general through trade and commission houses and brokers with foreign connections. There was further July liquidation promoted by the circulation of delivery notices which were estimated early at about 20,000 bales. The near month offerings, however, were readily absorbed by the trade and, while prices reacted a few points right after the call under realizing, the market held steady at the end of the first half hour. The advance in the market for silver futures, together with the early advance of the stock and wheat markets, encouraged bullish constructions of the overnight news on the silver program.

The early advance seemed to bring in a little further Southern selling as well as realizing and pre-holiday liquidation and prices eased off partially later in the morning. March contracts which had sold up to 10.20 on the opening demand worked off to 10.09 with the market quiet at net advances of about 8 to 10 points at midday. Reactions in the wheat and stock market were contributing factors on the setback.

SILVER MOVE AIDS MINE REGION

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—President Roosevelt's silver proclamation is an initial victory in the campaign to restore the white metal to its former prestige as a monetary base.

It conforms with the London agreement, and will doubtless be followed by similar action by numerous other countries.

Until recently, it was doubtful whether silver would retain its monetary value, or would fall into the wider group of metals which are valuable only for their uses in the arts.

Mr. Roosevelt's proclamation assures American silver producers a market for their annual output for the next four years at a price about 50 per cent above that quoted before the announcement was made public.

This action must not be construed merely as a step in the formulation of the "new deal" monetary policy, but also as a means of economic relief for our own Rocky Mountain silver producing area. Silver in the United States is produced directly chiefly in Nevada, and a by-product of lead, copper and zinc in Montana, Idaho, Arizona and Utah.

64½ CENTS AN OUNCE

The price of 64½ cents an ounce fixed for the acquisition of newly mined American silver, is just under three times the minimum price per ounce to which silver fell during the depression.

The slump of silver after the war was precipitated by a policy of debasement of silver coinage introduced by Great Britain. The British treasury found an immediate source of revenue in debasing silver coinage, and offering the released metal for sale. This custom soon spread to other countries, and accelerated a downward price for silver, bringing the ratio of silver to gold above 80 to 1. The present rise in silver, arranged by the government, is somewhat reduced in effect by the rise in gold from $20.67 an ounce to above $34 an ounce.

Action along the lines announced by President Roosevelt was anticipated some time during the winter, but the actual timing took the financial district by surprise. Silver was sluggish yesterday, but that speculators anticipated relief for the metal is indicated by the fact that they are holding in New York between 125 million and 150 million ounces. Of course, the price set by the President directly affects only newly-mined American silver, but the new sulver buying program of the government, coupled with the agreement by India and China to limit their offerings of silver, should, through the operation of supply and demand, help to sustain the world price for the precious metal.

The silver school has won its first important objective. The price fixed by the President is as high as the industry could reasonably expect at this time.

RELIEF TO MINERS

The new authorization of additional coinage of virtually 50 per cent of the new silver production per annum in the United States strengthens the hope of silver advocates that the metal will again share with gold the position of store of value of the world's accumulated wealth. The silver school holds that the prospective supply of new gold will be inadequate to meet the world's monetary needs, and that free convertibility of paper money into precious metals will be impractical unless silver is returned to its former prestige as a monetary base.

With some 24 million ounces of new silver involved in the proposed American purchases for monetary purposes, the effect of the proclamation on reflection will be slight. The additional money made available is a drop in the bucket compared with the possible expansion on the prescnt gold base. For example, if the gold content of the dollar should be cut in half, there would be a nominal profit of between three thousand and four thousand million dollars against which the government could issue yellowbacks.

Accordingly, except as a symbol of a new viewpoint toward silver, the government's action, from the economic standpoint, is more important as mining relief to the Rocky Mountain region than as a step in monetary expansion.

Prices Drop While U. S. Spends

By B. C. FORBES

WASHINGTON can lubricate the engine of prosperity.

But Washington must not get into its head that it constitutes the engine of prosperity.

Mr. Forbes

This fundamental fact is demonstrated by what happened last month. Notwithstanding that Washington was busier than ever creating "recovery" organizations, busier than ever lading out taxpayers' money, busier than ever boosting the price of gold, the general price level and also employment declined during November.

The reason was that responsible men of affairs became skeptical over the effectiveness of Washington's multifarious activities, especially in regard to Washington's currency ideas and NRA's attitude toward unionized labor.

Happily, since then a better feeling has developed throughout the business world. If Washington will only grasp the elementary fact that unless it can inspire confidence among fillers of pay envelopes, all its strenuosity must prove futile, all should be well. But if bureaucrats persist in the childish notion that it is of no importance whatsoever whether business organizations can make ends meet or not, all assuredly will not be well.

After all, the government itself creates no wealth. The government is not an earner, it is only a spender. Others must supply it with money before it can have any money to spend.

During recent weeks there have been multiplying indications that at least some Washington officials have become aware that it is not unimportant to inspire, among men of affairs, faith in the soundness of its efforts among business executives, among corporation directors, among those who have the power to either expand or contract expenditures for materials, wages, sales efforts, etc.

A house divided against itself cannot stand.

Neither the government nor business can bring back prosperity if each works at cross purposes. But by working together, both can.

There is brightening prospect that they will.

EVENTS MAY prove my opinion all wrong, but my guess is that stock selling this week has been overdone and that before long an upward turn will materialize.

PEOPLE LIKE something new. F. A. McKowne, president of a big hotel system—one of the few hotel concerns that have kept the flag flying all through recent arid years—tells me that guests have evinced keen interest in the company's latest innovation, a little instrument, which registers accurately, minutely, the efficiency or inefficiency of the lighting in any part of any room.

This unique little instrument consists of a photographic disc and a dial. Place even one finger between the light in a room and the photograph register, and the meter instantly shows that the light striking it has become dimmer. The cute contraption intrigued me so much that, like a child with a new toy, I played with it, fascinated.

Our eyes constitute one of the three parts of our bodies which wise men tell us we habitually abuse—the other two are our teeth and our tummies. As we cannot have a new set of eyes installed, is it not important that we should learn to treat decently those we have?

The young man who invented this light-measuring gadget deserves to reap a fortune.

An official of a nationally-known golf club tells me:

"For the last three months the club has been used more extensively by members than at any time in three years. It is almost getting back to the old-time crowds again."

Yes, people have resumed spending, have resumed trying to enjoy life.

ONE MAN who has attained conspicuous success in business doesn't believe that investment banking is to remain forever as dead as a door nail.

John Hertz, ex-taxi king, has been invited to become a member of the old-established banking house of Lehman Brothers—of which Gov. Lehman was a member—and plans to accept. Hertz is a splendid sample of the American boy of humble beginnings who, solely through supreme effort, reaches the heights.

MORE NATIONAL BANKS REOPEN

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(INS.)—Twenty-four national banks were licensed to open during the 10 days ending December 20, Comptroller of the Currency J. F. T. O'Connor announced today.

Twenty-three of the banks with $28,060,000 frozen and $1,431,000 unrestricted deposits, had been in the hands of conservators, while the other was a new national bank chartered to take over $2,431,853 frozen deposits of two national banks which had been in receivership.

In the same period, 13 national banks and one non-member bank in the District of Columbia had reorganization plans approved. As soon as the plans are carried out they will be relicensed.

During December 43 national banks were licensed to open.

Silver Dollar's Legal Ratio 15.988 to 1

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP.)—The United States since 1793 has coined more than 1 million dollars in silver coins—dimes, quarters, half-dollars and dollars.

The annual coinage rate, however, dropped from $89,057,000 in 1921 to $621,000 10 years later.

The silver dollar's legal ratio to gold is 15.988 to 1; that of subsidiary coins 14.953 to 1. Nickels contain no silver.

SURVEY FAVORS MARKET CURB

By DON EWING

(Copyright, 1933, Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Broad governmental control and regulation of the New York Stock Exchange and other security markets will be recommended by the presidential committee studying the subject, Universal Service learns.

The committee rapidly is nearing completion of its report and will send it to President Roosevelt shortly after Congress convenes. It will be transmitted through Secretary of Commerce Roper, under whom the committee serves.

Congressional action at the coming session is considered certain.

Committee sentiment now is for creation of a division in the Department of Justice, similar to the anti-trust division, to administer stringent control legislation Congress will be asked to pass.

Thirty-nine specific evils, especially in short selling, security price manipulation and formation of pools, have been studied by the committee. Legislation to be recommended will deal specifically with these. It will be offered through Senator Duncan U. Fletcher (Dem.), of Florida, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee.

Gasoline Raised In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22.—The Atlantic Refining Company has raised service station price of gasoline ½ cent a gallon, effective this morning, in Philadelphia only. Making the price 12 cents excluding all taxes. There was no change in the tank wagon price.

OPERATOR 13

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

leaning lightly upon his gold-laced arm; the reckless "Jessie Scouts" saluted; the aged black driver touched his battered hat; the six mules pricked up their ears. A moment later the cavalcade was clattering away through June starlight.

Moment of Danger

Her train left at midnight. There was no sleeping car.

Dawn was breaking when she left the train and took her place in one of six mule-drawn army wagons which were loaded down with exiled ladies and their luggage and drove off immediately toward the Confederate lines.

Three mounted men rode out ahead of the wagons; a sergeant of cavalry, carrying a white flag on his lance; a trumpeter. A smart major of cavalry led the procession at a lively trot.

Operator 13 stole a glance at the other women in her wagon. She knew none among them, and was thankful.

When, at last, Confederate pickets challenged and halted them, the early June sunlight lay rosy and golden across fields of dewy clover. While the ceremony and details of the cartel were occupying Federal and Confederate officers, and a good-natured conversation was going on between the pickets and the Yankee troopers, Operator 13 kept her eyes busy.

She could see a train with steam up, about half a mile away on an embankment flanked by field fortifications. This must be the Richmond train.

There were some rickety Confederate army wagons awaiting them in a field.

Toward the middle of the afternoon the wagons rumbled across the bridge into Richmond; and Operator 13 registered at the Spottswood, took a bath and a nap, and then leisurely unpacked.

Of the numerous resident and mobile Federal spies assigned to Richmond, Operator 13 had knowledge of very few, and these had belonged to Webster's group. Of that group only the brave Negro, John Scobell, remained in Richmond; and, unless he made himself known to her as somebody's cook, or as a common laborer, or perhaps as a peddler, Operator 13 would not know him. Nor for that matter would she know where to find her own couriers, Jack Babcock and Billy Dix, until they made contact with her.

The first thing the girl did was to report to the provost marshal's office, where a polite officer, Capt. McCalhoun, begged her to be seated until Gen. Winder could do himself the honor of waiting upon her. He introduced to her another officer, Maj. Beale, who made out for her a pass with permission for residence and travel.

Important Person

It was becoming plain to Operator 13 that the supposed sister of the late Capt. Cleburne was somebody in the South. She was certain of it when old Gen. John Winder came in and glancing at her, and then at her papers, made her a magnificent Maryland bow, which the girl matched with her most carefully rehearsed curtsy.

She looked smilingly at this formidable ex-West Pointer, who offered his arm and led her into his private office for cross-examination.

But if Gen. Winder had any lurking suspicions of Miss Anna Cleburne, they were not noticeable. He spoke of the two Cleburne families which, he supposed, were unrelated, asking her if she ever had met Gen. Pat Cleburne. She was pruned for that; explained that through the Romeynes, they were related; that her own name was Anne Romeyne Cleburne.

Evidently the general knew all that; he was, in fact, an amazing repository of genealogical information.

"Well, Miss Cleburne," said he, noticing her half-mourning, "your brother died as gallantly in New York streets, last year, as though he had fallen at the head of Stonewall's brigade; and all Richmond knows it. Do you mean to live at the Spottswood?"

"I'd like to take a small furnished house, general."

"You'll find plenty, ma'am, and many ladies to call on you, I have no doubt. And more than many eager cavaliers." He regarded her grimly. "Our young men in Richmond are as impetuous in gallantry as they are on the battlefield. There are many good and beautiful women in Richmond, too, but none lovelier than Miss Cleburne."

That settled her security and her status at the Confederate capital. There was, evidently, not a breath of suspicion regarding her advent or herself.

That same morning, examining the columns of the Enquirer, she checked up on furnished dwellings to rent, and found a pretty two-story house of red brick on Franklin street, not far from the residence of Gen. Lee. It was ready for use, full of comfortable Victorian furniture.

Here she installed herself; and the same afternoon came the brave Negro spy, John Scobell, to apply for a position. He had been watching for her arrival in Richmond and he came in guise of a stable groom out of a job, and identified himself beyond any doubt.

Here was an invaluable aid. He knew everything there was to be known about the geography of the city and about its inhabitants—that is, as much as could be learned in kitchens and stables, and from working on fortifications.

First Message

Through him to Jack Babcock, at Willcox's Wharf, by way of Glendale, went her first cipher dispatch: "Hockes' division ordered to Petersburg."

Through Scobell Operator 13 soon gathered her modest staff of Negro servants; Rosie, her personal mulatto maid; Nikka, waitress and general maid; and Jilly Lou, lazy but competent cook.

Scobell found for her a nice little victoria and horse. Understanding horses as he did, having served apprenticeship as a slave under his Scotch Mississippi master whose name he now bore after being made free, he drove as coachman for the beautiful Miss Cleburne or when she rode, followed her as groom.

Thus, thanks to him, the little household on Franklin street was launched without delay, and there were no counter-spies in it.

It was in a strange, bewildered, nervous, crowded city that Operator 13 had taken up her residence—a city that had been for years within hearing of the enemy's guns; a city constantly beleaguered behind its vast system of fortifications and the armies guarding it.

But the girl discovered it to be a desperately gay town in its tragic determination to keep going. Half of the inhabitants were in mourning; the place was full of sick and wounded; around the public bulletins a frightened vortex of people gathered every day as details of the constant fighting were posted. The Confederate White House was a sad home for the President and Mrs. Davis, deep in mourning for the accidental death of their little son, Joe.

HISTORY OF ART, THE ACCOUNT OF HUMAN ACTIVITIES ON THE MORE IDEAL SIDE—PREHISTORIC ART

In the struggle for existence, Man had to produce useful objects, tools, utensils, weapons, clothing and shelter, the products of industrial art satisfying needs. As a social being Man endeavored to lend interest and beauty to his work and to express ideas with it creating fine arts to give pleasure.

The beginning of the formative fine arts—architecture, painting, sculpture—is traced back to the old Stone Age. Unpolished stone implements were first made; bone and wood lending themselves to artistic shaping; caves were decorated with carvings and frescoes. Striking examples are those in the cave of Altamira, Spain.

Architecture started probably with mounds, heaps of earth over a grave. Piles of stones replaced mounds; stone monuments, grottoes, stone circles, etc., were the next steps inspired by worship. "Stonehenge" on the Salisbury plain, South England, is one of the most famous.

Polished stone implements and pottery characterize the new Stone Age. Discovery of metals opened the successive Copper and Bronze Ages. Some of these objects are shown above. Art in its primitive manifestations was universal, it became differentiated—like human characters—in its development.

EGYPTIAN ART, THE EARLIEST OF ANCIENT ORIENTAL ARTS

The Oriental art-period comprises Egyptian, Chaldaean, Assyrian, Aegean Art and that of smaller nations. Egyptian Art has three periods corresponding to the history of its three great cities, where power and culture were concentrated. The first is the Memphite period (about 5000-2500 B. C.) with Memphis in Lower Egypt as its center. It left us the Pyramids—tombs of pharaohs—the Sphinx and statues of the rulers. Sculpture was fostered by the belief that the soul can re-animate any likeness of the deceased. Statues of Rahotep and his consort are some of the outstanding.

The Theban period was second (2500-950 B. C.) centered in and around the immense city of Thebes, Upper Egypt. Columns of the Temple of Karnak give an idea of its architectural greatness and splendor.

The third or Saite period (center: city Sais) lasted from 950-358 B. C. Life-like heads of statues show advanced stage of Egyptian sculpture.

BABYLONIAN CYLINDER

CHALDAEA, BABYLONIA

Civilization of Chaldaeans developed later than that of Egypt. They added important elements to architecture, the arch and vault, applied symmetry, discovered enameled terra cotta. Above: Babylonian stone-cylinder representing fight of mythical characters with demons and beasts. Their temples at Eridu, Ur, Erech, Lagash were towers in stages from brick. Little statuary was found.

WINGED BULLS ON FACADE OF PALACE OF SARGON, AT KHORSABAD

WOUNDED LION, ASSYRIAN RELIEF.

ART OF ASSYRIANS

Assyria conquering Chaldaeans and other races was at its height between the ninth and seventh centuries B. C. Assyrians built colossal temples with decorative coating of enameled terra cotta, precious woods inlaid with gold, reliefs in alabaster guarded by huge winged bulls with human heads. The arch, the barrel vault and cupola were introduced. Most of their sculptures left are reliefs.

AEGEAN SNAKE GODDESS

IVORY AND GOLD

On Aegean islands, Cyprus and Crete, rose civilization first in Europe. Their art produced palaces, with tile water pipes, paintings, sculptures. Aegean Art is the forerunner of the classical art-period of Greece.

Bugs Baer

Boys, It's Politics

This administration is hanging up a record for important resignations.

Now, there is one post The Bug would never resign. That's the treasury job. Why walk out of the game when you can't take the marbles with you?

We would like to have that treasury position for a life job. It would make us feel as complete as a stamped, self-addressed envelope with plenty of fresh glue on the flap. When the day's work was done and all the other folks had gone home we would light the parlor lamp and walk around looking at the money.

The recipe for getting rich is to count the other man's money twice. If it adds up more the second time you keep the difference for yourself. We can think of no more pleasant way of passing a long winter evening than fanning the public's gold bars with your hat. We might even chisel off a few corners to prove that it was real and nobody was being cheated.

But, there have been other resignations in other jobs. When two strong men disagree one of them has to dilute himself.

In all the history of political Washington we never saw such flocks of homeward bound office-holders between Novembers. There never has been a politician who couldn't control his anger until the next elections.

No matter how mad he got he always said, "I shall be vindicated at the polls and draw my pay until somebody slams the cash register on my thumbs. No matter what I do I know that my constituents will never reciprocate and betray me in turn. You cannot fool all the people all of the time without violating the 40-hour week."

Old Champ Clark said that few resign. Maybe it was Uncle Joe Cannon. Either way, both of those wise old ganders knew their business. And when they say that few resign you can copper it was less.

But, since the Democratic upheaval of 1932, there has been an epidemic of resignations. The boys have dipped the farewell goose quill in the well so often that the ink is running a temperature.

We trust it is all for the best and that a mere difference of opinions will carry no Venetian vendettas back to the mainland. Or that the mountain feuds will not percolate down to sea level. Politics make strange bedfellows. And the strangest is when you are alone in an upper berth going home to join your franked laundry.

Sales Tax Urged

The Income Tax Is Declared to Be Unreliable as a Major Source of Public Revenue.

In connection with tax revision, Congress should give due regard to the effect of imposts on business and employment.

Punitive taxation will tend to thwart the whole economic recovery program.

In his testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee, James A. Emery, general counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers, pointed to the unreliability of the income tax as a major source of public revenue.

He urged that Congress give serious consideration to a "gross federal sales tax."

"Entering a fourth fiscal year of deficit and enlarging public debt, we urge, in the face of the demonstrated unreliability of income taxation as a major source of income," Mr. Emery said, "the serious consideration of a gross federal sales tax with exceptions for food, clothing and medicine as a substitute for the many existing special sales taxes and the emergency levies' repeal."

This appeal for self-taxation deserves special attention from our national lawmakers.

Recognizing the trend of opinion against the existing hodge podge, racketeering system, President Roosevelt can render an enormous service to the country by getting behind the rising demand for a general manufacturers' sales tax.

Although originally opposed to the sales tax theory, Mr. Roosevelt let it be known at the last session of Congress that he would no longer oppose that method of taxation.

If he will go a step further and AFFIRMATIVELY SPONSOR a general manufacturers' tax, such as has succeeded so admirably in Canada, President Roosevelt can greatly quicken the recovery movement.

It is an excellent omen when a spokesman for the MANUFACTURERS THEMSELVES makes a plea for the tax.

Election Reform Wins

Permanent Registration, It Is Believed, Will Lessen the Opportunity for Fraud.

Just before its adjournment yesterday the House of Representatives passed the Harris bill providing for permanent personal registration in Pittsburgh. The bill, previously passed by the Senate, now goes to the Governor, who is expected to approve it.

This was a noteworthy victory for the forces who have been contending for years for the strengthening of the laws to prevent fraud at the polls.

Permanent registration, it is believed, will lessen the opportunity for cheating. Crooked politicians will not find it so easy hereafter to put the names of "phantoms" on the election rolls.

Senator Frank J. Harris deserves credit for the zeal with which he has pushed this desirable reform.

The conviction in the United States District Court yesterday of three more of the election officials charged with the commission of fraud in the election of November, 1932, should also have a salutary effect.

The outlook for honest elections in Pittsburgh is brighter.

Room for Improvement

Automobile Liability Insurance Rates in Pittsburgh Reflect Traffic Fatalities.

In presenting its budget request for 1934 the Bureau of Traffic Planning has submitted a record of achievement in which it may well take pride. Traffic volume has increased 63 per cent since the year before the bureau was organized, but total traffic deaths have been cut 28 per cent.

Because of the improvement made, Pittsburgh last year was awarded the title of "Safest City in the United States."

Nevertheless our traffic fatality rate for the first 11 months of 1933 is higher than the average fatality rate for Boston, Detroit, New York, Philadelphia, Buffalo and Baltimore.

Our automobile personal liability insurance rates, based on accident experience, are higher than those paid by motorists in Los Angeles, Baltimore, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Buffalo and San Francisco.

As the bureau pertinently observes, the job of safeguarding Pittsburgh is not completed.

The bureau should be provided with sufficient funds to continue its good work of saving lives.

In the Right Direction

A Significant Proposal to Reduce Taxes and Increase Efficiency Is Made in Greensburg

An interesting illustration of the growth of the demand for modernization of local government comes from Greensburg.

In an address to Westmoreland County farmers C. Ward Eicher, assistant district attorney, recommended the establishment of a county manager system to replace the offices of register of wills, recorder of deeds, clerk of courts, coroner and poor directors.

He also recommended that the offices of justice of the peace be abolished, and in their stead courts set up for the trial of petty cases, to be presided over by persons learned in the law and paid a salary.

The proposal to reform our petty judiciary system is unquestionably sound, and the suggestion as to the other offices is a move in the right direction.

It is significant of the trend of popular opinion.

People have become tired of the high cost and inefficiency of the kind of local government that has come down to us, practically unchanged, from oxcart days.

They demand the elimination of jobs and jobholders made unnecessary by modern conditions.

Properly Launched

As in the Good Old Days.

One of the most encouraging evidences that the good old days are returning is in the fact that the Navy has christened its new cruiser Astoria with a bottle of champagne.

Not for 14 years has anything stronger than pure spring water, or possibly grapejuice, been broken over the bows of our war vessels.

There was the prohibition law to prevent it, for one thing, and wine came too high for another.

We hope, though, that the Astoria got better champagne than the average brand available here.

Why Not Use the Steps?

(Copyright, 1933.)

The National Association of Manufacturers, with its thousands of members engaged in all lines of industry, speaks for the manufacturers of the country.

Opponents of the General Manufacturers' Sales Tax plan have sometimes insisted that such a tax would be objectionable to industry.

That false argument has been refuted by the Manufacturers' Association. Through its general counsel the association has asked the House Ways and Means Committee to consider the workable sales tax plan as a dependable source of Federal revenue, instead of relying on the unworkable and unjust income tax system.

Such a reform, the Congressmen were told, would encourage business rather than discourage it, as income taxes and nuisance taxes do. The manufacturers' spokesman said:

"Entering a fourth fiscal year of deficit and enlarging public debt, we urge, in the face of the DEMONSTRATED UNRELIABILITY of income taxation as a major source of income, the serious consideration of a gross Federal sales tax with exceptions for food, clothing and medicine."

Enactment of a General Manufacturers' Sales Tax by Congress at its coming session will do more to put Federal finances on a sound basis and to make undesirable taxes unnecessary than any other measure.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Thoughts while strolling: What became of folk who never missed a big shot of calomel monthly? 'Andsome 'Arry Bert Lytell, the Kyrle Bellew of the Lambs. Acrobats now style themselves gymnasts. And they say the boys who fight whimsy are sissies. Defense mechanism!

Covarrubias, a Mexico City boy, who made good in the city. William Beebe was certainly never cut out for shorts and pith helmet. Gene Lockhart, who helps to make the Cohan play the honey it is, wears his hat like Cahper Milquetoast. Just doing without bread, Dick Berlin has dropped 26 pounds.

One word description of Arthur Hopkins—dimply. What happened to Rodgers and Hart? Wonder how Irving Caesar would look in a monocle? Helen Menken among the big stars again with renewed sparkle. John Anderson joins the drift of dramatic critics to country homes. So Max Miller, the author, blushes, too.

One of my favorite people—Phil Lennen. Pepy de Albrew's ensemble of brown. Mighty fancy fixin'. Spike Hunt begins to look like Bill Hart. Hal Phyfe has the longest stride in town. Strange about that fellow on the phone just now. At 43 his voice is changing, for goodness sakes!

The Marx brothers grow funnier. But they will drag in those moth-eaten gags. Helen Dreiser's red hair. K. C. B. on Broadway for the first time in years. And looking spry. What a treasure that line about my column in a magazine piece: "It has entered countless homes and brought sorrow to none!"

Rumors of a white fellow in full evening dress squiring a mulatto to the exclusive places have been persistent. Yet the gossip was vague. Someone else knew someone else who had seen them. Tonight I had a close-up in walking across town from a theater. The limousine drew up in front of a night club. He alighted in top-hatted elegance. She, in ermine coat, the shade of Florence Mills, had distinctly Negroid features. The doorman received them casually enough. As I idled some time at the curb I presume they were admitted as they did not come out.

Joe Laurie, Jr., has one of the largest collections of autographed pictures of stage people. They number hundreds and constitute 20 years of effort. He intends to bequeath them to the Friars. Next largest is that of Ben Riley, adorning entrance corridors of his hill-top inn. Browne's old chop house on Broadway had another gallery.

* * *

Browne's was a Sunday night rendezvous for stars hibernating in New York. It had no orchestra and fare was largely hefty chops and brown ale in pewter mugs. Ray Long and Ben Hampton took me there the first week in town. I was in reaching distance of Weber and Fields, Lillian Russell, Willie Collier, Robert Hilliard, Harry Bulger, Frankie Bailey and Raymond Hitchcock. Life will have to step on it to offer another such celebrity thrill.

Then, that notable evening when Lillian Russell joined a group of artists for after dinner coffee at a walk-up studio where I was a dropper-in. Clare Briggs was there. Also Arthur William Brown, Walter Trumbull, and James Montgomery Flagg. With her coffee, the prima donna puffed daintily at a cigaret-sized cigar. Others paid no heed but I nearly popped a valve. I slyly resurrected the cigar end from an ash tray and sent it to Jay Price back home with: "Lillian Russell smoked this." Later came an envelope from that skeptic with a thin slice of cut plug and: "Hannibal might have chewed this." Hannibal was the town hotel's porter.

Edward Hutton owns perhaps the most romantic shooting lodge of any New Yorker. It occupies an area of some 20,000 square miles in the southeast corner of South Carolina. A number of old rice plantations are strung together with the charm of befo-de-wah. Slave cabins are just as they were, as are the plantation homes. There are nine duck blinds. When Hutton finds the rigors of metropolitan life too exacting, he fills a private car with friends, each one of which is met at the destination by a "personal body servant."

LISTEN, WORLD!

Turkey Hash

The night after Thanksgiving. Going down in the elevator after a tough day's work. Blue—

Holiday Blues—how they get you, as the years go on! Missing the face that used to make every day a holiday. Feeling that the Big Jobs are all done, the Big Adventures all over—

Aw, what's the use of going on at all, with the days holding nothing but lonely tables, withered wreaths?

Holiday Blues—how they wring you! And how yellow the bravest of us become, under the hurt of it. Yellow, that's what I was on the night after Thanksgiving. Taking the count. Deliberately taking it. Wallowing in it!

And then, across the gloom, came the sound of the office girls' voices, kidding each other.

"Going home to turkey hash?"

"Sure an' I am!" grinned little red-headed Nora. "An' believe me, darlin', it's the best part of the bird!"

Turkey hash!

Turkey hash. Suddenly the girls had vanished. The elevator was gone. I was back in the old kitchen again—sniffing, pestering—watching mother fix the Turkey Hash.

Oh, this was good! This was better even than Thanksgiving. Thanksgiving was wonderful! Everything different. Table set special. Best dresses. Company manners. Strange faces. Yes, Thanksgiving was wonderful. But, somehow, it was all Too Much. You loved Thanksgiving. You counted the days until it came. But it would have been terrible to have Thanksgiving every day.

But Turkey Hash night—that was perfect. For though there were still the special holiday smells—cranberries, mince pie, sage and sausage dressing—it wasn't so queer like. You felt at home. Everyday faces. Everyday clothes. Everyday patched red cloth on the table. Maybe even the ole turkey felt more at home—cut up into plain pieces, with common potatoes and onions.

Sniffing, wondering, I hung around mother — watching the chopping knife go up and down in the big wooden bowl—groping, as children grope, toward the meaning of it all—feeling, as children feel, something beyond and above the warm comfort of the old kitchen, the hum of the kettle, the smell of the onions and sage.

Feeling—what?

Was it Life?

Was that why I loved Turkey Hash night so much—why the memory of it had carried so strongly through the years? Was it because Turkey Hash nights were—Life?

The old kitchen had vanished. Again I was in the elevator with the office girls' kidding around me. But the Holiday Blues had gone. In a flash—at a word—the Holiday Blues had gone. For in that flash I had seen the truth.

Such a simple, homely truth—yet, like all truth, it had the power to take the sting out of any hurt, and put the meaning back into any muddle.

LIFE WAS TURKEY HASH!

Life wasn't—was never meant to be—a grand, continuous feast. There were feasts in life—holiday feasts of love and adventure—but most of life was just Turkey Hash.

Warmed-over scraps mixed with plain bits of common experience. Memories, sad or glad. A little fun. A little success. Friendliness. The spice of dreams. Some goodness. Some badness. Mostly, just ordinary plugging without any particular form or flavor. Simple stuff that required no great skill to make, that demanded no great talent to enjoy.

That, after all, was Life. That was Life for all of us. Rich or poor, young or old. Life was only Turkey Hash for all of us.

Then why was I whining? Wanting to quit because Life wasn't always Thanksgiving Day, when all around me the same old warm kitchen went on—with the kettle a-bubbling and kind faces bending over a common bowl.

Not go home?

Why, I WAS home! Every place was home. Every face was a family face—when you took life like Turkey Hash!

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Christmas Don'ts

This is the magic time of year, when the heart goes soft and spills over like ice-cream on the Fourth of July.

* * *

Somehow, under the mystic influence of the Winter Solstice, all of us feel that impulse to emulate Santa Claus and to give until it hurts—usually, until it hurts the helpless recipient.

This year, of all years, there should be no clamp on the pocketbook, and the dollars and pennies of all who are solvent should flow like Niagara Falls. Yet, discretion is the better part of generosity; and here are a few "Christmas Dont's" to guide the thoughtless giver.

* * *

Don't be a tightwad with your tips and charities, in order to make a Big Show with somebody who has plenty of this world's goods, and who will simply be bored at the thought of having to write a "thank you" note.

* * *

Don't send that handsome basket of sweets to a woman who is on a diet. It will only prove a cruel temptation. And with the same money you can buy candy and things for a dozen hungry kiddies, who are NOT trying to "reduce."

* * *

Don't give any man cravats or cigars or cigaret cases, until you are SURE of his taste in such things. Nothing makes a man feel so foolish as to be forced to wear an aurora borealis necktie, when his taste runs to subdued effects and non-shieking haberdashery.

* * *

Don't embarrass the current "Boy Friend" with a gift which is too personal, too significant or too costly. If he is NOT in love with you, it will only arouse his suspicion (object, matrimony). And if he IS in love with you, it will probably dampen his infatuation. A he-man doesn't like expensive gifts from a woman—it goes against the grain. Spend the money for an overcoat for some shivering youngster or some jobless man.

* * *

Don't hang the mistletoe too conspicuously. The invitation to kiss is superfluous these days. Men don't need any encouragement. Nothing would give the average attractive man a bigger thrill than to meet a girl that he didn't HAVE to kiss. It would be such a novelty!

* * *

Don't keep the holly and the Christmas tree up until they wither and begin to fall. Many an innocent man has cursed fate (and his wife), when he stepped on a holly leaf with his bare foot. And nothing—except dead love—is deader than a defunct pine tree.

* * *

Don't get a conscientious complex and tell little Junior that there isn't any Santa Claus. The great trouble with the younger generation today is that it has no dreams, no illusions, no visions. Its IMAGINATION has been stunted. Keep the fairy tales of youth bright and glowing as long as you can.

Don't forget, if you are a man, that Christmas is not "just another holiday" to a woman. It is something beautiful and sacred to her—the day when she feels (as did the Wise Men of old) that something wonderful is about to happen. And a check tucked under the breakfast plate will not take the place of a box of flowers and a tender caress. Women are childish that way.

* * *

Don't forget that Christmas is Christ's Mass—and that there is more to it than guzzling, drinking and playing with Junior's toys!

Copeland to Submit 21 New Laws Against Crime

By James T. Williams, Jr.

WAR plans to wipe out organized crime in this country are rapidly nearing completion, that they may be submitted to Congress when it reconvenes on the third day of the new year.

These plans are based upon executive and legislative studies which have been made in all parts of the country since Congress last met.

By order of President Roosevelt, the executive study was conducted under the supervision of Attorney General Cummings.

The legislative study has been made by a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Commerce under the leadership of Senator Copeland, of New York, as chairman.

The Copeland committee, for the last nine months, has been gathering evidence on kidnaping, racketeering and other major crimes in all parts of the country.

Unlike the usual recess committee of Congress, the Copeland committee has labored diligently. It has held hearings north, east, south and west. It has obtained the co-operation of state and municipal officials and of national and regional organizations interested in the national warfare against organized crime which the Roosevelt administration declared last spring.

The Copeland committee has called to its assistance eminent experts who are advising the committee in the analysis of its findings and in the recommendations which its report to the Senate will contain.

* * *

Administration Will Support Plans

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT and Senator Copeland have been in frequent consultation regarding the work of the committee and the work of the Department of Justice in their separate surveys. As a result, the executive and legislative branches of the government have co-operated at every step, and the recommendations of the Copeland committee will have the support of the Roosevelt administration.

The first fruits of the Copeland committee will be the introduction into both houses of Congress of between 21 and 30 measures to revise existing Federal criminal statutes. This revision is essential if the war plans agreed upon by the administration and the Copeland committee are to be carried out.

Among these legislative proposals, the following are the more important:

First, an amendment to the federal criminal statutes providing than an alibi in a federal trial can be used only after the defense has informed the prosecution of the intention to use it. This will give the government sufficient time to check the alibi and thereby prevent the acquittal of criminals who, by the aid of crooked lawyers and purjured testimony, have manufactured fictitious alibis and sprung them on the court too late for the government to check up and expose the fraud.

Second, an amendment to the federal criminal statutes expanding the fingerprint system, so as to provide for gun permits and for some federal checkup on the issuance of automobile licenses by persons using automobiles in interstate travel.

Third, an amendment to strengthen the Lindbergh law against kidnaping by providing that when a person has been gone for three days that will create a legal presumption that he has been kidnaped and taken across state lines.

Then the federal authorities, acting upon that presumption, will be authorized to take part in investigating the case, even though it turns out later that the kidnaping was a crime against the state and one to be dealt with by the state courts.

* * *

Lindbergh Law Is Inadequate

AS enacted by Congress, the Lindbergh law technically ties the hands of the Federal government until it has been demonstrated that the victim of the kidnapers has been carried from one state to another. Only the refusal of the Federal government thus far to be bound by this technicality has enabled the Department of Justice, through its division of investigation, to round up and turn over to courts every kidnaper sought by the Federal government since the Lindbergh case.

Fourth, an amendment to existing law which will provide for the return of a fugitive witness from one state to another instead of for the extradition of alleged criminals only.

Some of the remedial legislation to be recommended to Congress may require amendments to the Federal Constitution. Most of it will be within the power of Congress to enact.

Under the Roosevelt administration, a federal leadership has been finally raised which, if supported by the several states, will mean organized and effective warfare by the forces of government against crime everywhere in the United States.

Prof. Piccard Predicts Airplane Journeys in the Stratosphere in 1939

By Edwin C. Hill

NEW YORK to Paris in five hours! Breakfast in New York and luncheon in San Francisco or Los Angeles! Speeding through the stratosphere, breathing canned air, in sealed rocket cars, shooting at cannonball speed 15 miles above the surface of the earth. That will be travel in 1939.

Such at least is the positive prediction of the little man from Belgium, Prof. Piccard, who hunts the cosmic ray along trails that wind just under the stars. The stratosphere will be the highway of the future, Prof. Piccard believes, and for these reasons:

Twelve thousand feet above the earth's surface is a perpetual fair-weather route—no erratic winds, or hurricanes, or fog, or sleet, or snow; no moisture, so there can't even be rain. When we start for Paris in our stratoplanes, shooting up from New York at two in the afternoon to keep an engagement with a friend for dinner at the Ritz in Paris, we will fly high above our own atmosphere; high above all those things which make air travel difficult and dangerous; high above all gales, squalls, thunderstorms, fog blankets and air pockets. Our rocket plane will move with silken smoothness, blazing its way through space at six hundred miles an hour, over a roadbed without a bump or a dip.

The stratoplanes, already under construction in France, Germany, Italy and Switzerland, almost ready to go, are multi-motored, all-metal ships, constructed of aluminum for lightness, and absolutely airtight. Man is only beginning to learn to fly.

All these experiments make one think of the first days of the airplane, only a short quarter of a century ago. The Wrights had just taken wing from Kittyhawk. Only a few intrepid souls were venturing forth to fly—the Moissants, the Hoxeys, the Johnstons—to fly only a little while, and then to die. Few indeed of the early fliers lived to see the great planes of today singing their deep song over land and sea, coming and going among the airports with almost the impressiveness of an ocean liner.

Who knows what the future holds for flying, once the element of safety, the one thing that today retards public interest, is secured?

* * *

Says Moon Will Be Circumnavigated

A FRENCHMAN, Prof. Esnault Peterie, predicts that within 25 years some Lindbergh of space will circumnavigate the moon. Taking off from Mother Earth, he will travel in a great rocket projectile, propelled and hurled along by the successive drives of 19 tons of high explosives. Sweeping entirely around the moon and back again in a wild flight of 240,000 miles, and all within 98 hours, or some four days.

It is already certain that the airplane will be a frightful weapon of terror and destruction in the next war. Every European nation has its aviation secrets, religiously guarded, the lure of swarms of spies who risk death every hour in their attempt to steal these secrets which may hold the fate of great cities like Paris, London or Berlin.

Few men can stand for many years the terrific nervous strain of driving a modern, high-speed plane over vast distances. The rigid concentration gets them in time, ties their nervous systems into hard knots, robs them of sleep, tortures them through white nights.

The world's greatest flyer—at least he is so recognized by Col. Charles A. Lindburgh — has decided, at the age of 36, that he is getting too old for flying. Scarcely arrived at the front steps of middle age, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith says he is through and done with long distance flying. It has made him a bundle of nerves, he tells us, and no more can he contemplate those long ordeals of flying over wide stretches of sea, over an entire ocean, all alone, with only one motor between him and the sharks.

Sir Charles only the other day flew from England to Australia in seven days, beating the former record by a day. The last leg of his journey pinned him at the stick for 40 continuous hours, driving his tiny, single-engined monoplane. During those 40 hours he had under him only the Indian Ocean, straight from Java to the land down under.

* * *

Remarkable Career Of Kingsford-Smith

THIS flying man, who is hailed by our own Lindbergh as the greatest of the great, enlisted with the Anzacs when he was 18, went over to France with those tall, breezy lads from the land of the kangaroo and then transferred from the infantry into the air service, deciding that he would rather die in the air than on the ground. But he came out fairly intact, a major, with one game leg.

He came out a short, sandy-haired, blue-eyed, long-faced, courteous-spoken ex-soldier of the king, and with not a dollar to his name. So he went to California and tried to make a living as a barn-storming pilot, taking up passengers at $5 a head. And then, all at once, he leaped to fame with his great flight over the Pacific Ocean in his plane, Southern Cross. And when he roared on around the world, to leap the Atlantic from east to west, he was a made man.

When he took off in the Southern Cross he was just another ocean hopper who owed $19,000, taking a big gamble, betting his life against fame and fortune, with the odds at least 10 to 1 against him. But he came back a knight and one of the princes of the air.
